Tests Survived

Absent Tories Help Grits

OTTAWA (CP) — The minority Pearson government, aided by 41 absent opposition members, survived its second and third confidence tests of the new parliamentary session Friday.

For the first time since the April, 1963, election the four opposition parties joined together on a no-confidence amendment in the throne speech debate.

Opposition absenteeism was high and the government, with support from former Conservatives Leon Balcer and Rene Paul, now sitting as independents, defeated the motion 106 to 93. It had been moved by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

MOTION REJECTED

A Social Credit non-confidence motion was rejected earlier on a voice vote when that party failed to produce the required five members to stand and force a formal roll call.

Closest test the government has faced since taking office was on Feb. 25, 1964, when an amendment to the throne speech expressing no confidence was defeated 129 to 128.

DRAMA LACKING

The afternoon votes lacked the drama and tension of many in the past and the only brief color was provided when all MPs applauded Liberal Leonard (Red) Kelly when he stood to vote. His two goals Thursday night helped the Toronto Maple Leafs tie their semi-final Stanley Cup series against Montreal with a 4-3 victory.

CONDEMN GOVERNMENT

The Social Credit amendment called for the use of debt-free money from the Bank of Canada for social capital. The Conservative amendment condemned the government for failing to take action to alter the administration in the light of the recent scandal allegations.

The Conservative motion was endorsed by 95 Conservatives, 11 Creditistes, 10 New Democrats and six Social Credit MPs.

STANDING

Standing in the 265-member House: Liberals 129, Conservatives 13, Social Credit nine, independents two.

Before the eight-day throne speech debate ends next Thursday, there are opportunities for three more confidence tests.

The opposition parties may

North Viet Nam Protests New Raids

LBJ Plan 'Deceitful Allegation'

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam Friday described as a "deceitful peace allegation" U.S. President Johnson's Baltimore speech calling for discussions to bring peace.

The first comment from Hanoi specifically directed at Johnson's speech was contained in a North Vietnamese protest sent to the International Control Commission over U.S. air raids Friday on Nghe An province and Hon Mat Island. Members of the commission are Canada, India and Poland.

The protest, signed by Col. Ha Van Lau, head of the liaison mission of the North Vietnamese army high command, said:

"This blatant aggressive act of the U.S. imperialists has fully exposed the deceitful peace allegation made by Lyndon Johnson in his speech on April 7. It proves that the U.S. imperialists are still stubbornly pursuing their policy of aggression and war provocation in Viet Nam."

Excerpts of the protest message were broadcast by Hanoi radio and monitored in Tokyo.

A government organ in Hanoi said Friday that the fighting in Viet Nam "will end only when the U.S. aggressors quit our country."

CHINESE GETTING INTO ACT?

SAIGON (AP)—A fresh battalion of 1,400 U.S. marines began landing near Da Nang in South Viet Nam today to reinforce marines already stationed at the U.S. air base there.

The marines poured ashore amid the spectre of possible direct Chinese involvement in the war. For the first time since the U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam began last month, Peking announced its jets had battled American planes.

U.S. Navy jet fighters fought MiGs off China's Hainan Island, site of key military installations, while more than 200 American planes pummelled North Viet Nam anew Friday.

A Peking broadcast said the MiGs were Chinese. U.S. officials said they did not know whether the MiGs were North Vietnamese or Chinese. One MiG was reported to have vanished in flames.

NEAR FIGHTING

The marine battalion landed two miles north of Da Nang, while South Vietnamese troops exchanged fire with Communist guerrillas three miles away.

The Viet Cong made no effort to interfere with the landing.

OTHERS ON GUARD

The marines will join some 3,000 other marines guarding the strategic Da Nang, jumping-off point for some of the raids on North Viet Nam.

TANKS, HOWITZERS

A total of 3,600 marines will be landed within the next two or three days. Their equipment includes tanks, 105-mm. howitzers and other armament.

The additional troops push total U.S. manpower in South Viet Nam to more than 30,000.

MORTAR BARRAGE

The Viet Cong launched a mortar barrage against the provincial capital of Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, just a few hours before the marines landed.

Three South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and 10 wounded in the attack. The Viet Cong also scored a hit on a U.S. radio communications centre, but no U.S. casualties were reported.

GUERRILLAS KILLED

In Viet Nam's Central Highlands, where a Viet Cong offensive has been expected, government forces killed 30 guerrillas.

Peking's account of the aerial fight charged that American planes flew over Hainan, fired two guided missiles "at ran-

Fighting Leafs Home Tonight

Victoria Maple Leafs forced a sixth game in their best-of-seven Western Hockey League semi-final, defeating Seattle Totems 3-1 in Seattle Friday on two third-period goals by John Sleaver.

The two clubs will meet at Memorial Arena tonight, starting at 8:30. If the series is extended by another Victoria victory, the deciding game will be in Seattle Sunday. (See Page 14.)

Appeal Court Order:

Convicted Rapist To Get New Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Appeal Court judges ordered Friday that a new trial be granted Larry Kenneth Kanester of Victoria, sentenced to 20 years for two rape convictions last year.

The Appeal Court ruled that the trial judge had not put the defence case to the jury and had wrongly told the jury certain matters might have been corroboration and failed to define corroboration to the jury.

A further appeal against Kanester's sentence for escaping from Essondale in September was adjourned.

In outlining the appeal to the court on Thursday, Kanester's lawyer D. E. Greenfield said Kanester's trial was prejudiced because the two counts were tried together.

VICTORIA AREA

The charges involved incidents in the Victoria area on Jan. 8 and Jan. 20 of 1964.

Kanester was sentenced to 10 years on each charge, and was being held at Essondale when he escaped last September.

He was the object of a manhunt as far east as Winnipeg until he surrendered to police after 57 days of freedom.

Red Tanks Rumble Over Lifeline

Russian Roadblocks On Again, Off Again

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists shut down the autobahn linking West Berlin with West Germany for three hours early Friday night while Soviet tanks and East German personnel carriers rumbled over the city's lifeline to the West.

Armed East German Army officers abruptly lowered steel barriers at both ends of the 110-mile highway at dusk, causing long queues of civilian traffic.

Then, just as quickly, they lifted the roadblocks in mid-evening.

No U.S. or British military vehicles were about to enter the autobahn or were travelling on it at the time, western officials reported.

The Communists had warned they would shut down the autobahn occasionally until joint Soviet-East German military manoeuvres end Sunday. The highway is the land link with West Berlin.

When the Communist border guards did not close the highway in the morning for the first time since the intermittant blockades began Monday, Western officials hoped the harassments were ending. They were also relieved that Soviet jet planes refrained from buzzing in the three Western air corridors to West Berlin for the first time since Wednesday.

That was the day the West German Bundestag (lower house of parliament) met in West Berlin despite Communist protests.

The Soviet Union told the Western allies that restrictions on the central and southern air corridors to West Berlin would be lifted midnight Friday. Restrictions on the northern corridor were called off Thursday, a U.S. spokesman said.

Talks Broken Off

Vancouver Papers, Union Deadlocked

VANCOUVER (CP)—Negotiations broke off Friday night between typographical employees and Pacific Press Ltd., which prints the Sun and Province daily newspapers.

Leonard Guy, president of the Vancouver local of the International Typographical Union, said:

"We have no intention of going to the company at this stage. It (the company) gave us a firm position and one which we find unacceptable."

The union is in a position to strike on 48 hours' notice, following a vote Tuesday 208-39 in favor of strike action to back up demands.

Mr. Guy had said after the vote that the prime issue was automation.

The introduction of computers has been settled but guarantees against some related changes have been unsatisfactory to the union.

The union has asked for measures ensuring job opportunities in future, such as shorter hours, longer vacations or increased sick leave.

Smelter Blast Injures 22

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (UPI)—A smelting furnace exploded at a big aluminum scrap reclamation plant late Friday night, blowing the roof off the building and injuring at least 22 men.

Tshombe In Control

FARADJE, The Congo (AP)—Premier Moise Tshombe's troops appeared Friday to have won their war against the rebels in The Congo's northeast.

The last important rebel-held town in the Niangara area was recaptured Tuesday night.

Next Gemini Four Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. space agency said Friday the next manned Gemini space flight in early June will last four days—63 orbits—and will end in the Atlantic, rather than the Pacific as previously planned.

Swim, Raft, Walk, Row

He Went for Help The Hard Way

PORT SIMPSON, B.C. (CP)—Fisherman Charlie Sankey is "a real outdoorsman"—and that saved his life after the fishing boat Topaz struck a log and sank Tuesday night.

The body of one of his companions, Patrick Green, 64, was found Friday floating in a life jacket near the scene, 30 miles northeast of here in Portland Inlet, which separates the Alaska Panhandle from British Columbia.

After the sinking, Sankey, about 32, swam about a mile to Truro Island and built a raft. He drifted six miles to Somerville Island and walked 11 miles across the island until he found a boat. Then he rowed 14 miles across open sea to finally reach this Indian village 15 miles north of Prince Rupert Thursday night.

* * *

Immediately he put out to sea with villagers and RCMP to search for his companions. The search was continuing today.

The boat sank when the men were returning to their Nass River fishing camp, where Ryan's father was waiting.

Mignonette Fragrant —And Free!

A flower with a haunting fragrance and romantic history is Victoria-bound, in Colonist garden editor M. V. Chesnut's second free seed offer this year.

Mignonette was discovered as a weed in Egypt by Napoleon — and from that humble beginning spread to wide popularity back in France and in England.

Perhaps descended from those same plants are the seeds which will be available to Colonist readers—who are asked to send along a stamped self-addressed envelope with the free seed request which will appear in the Colonist beginning Sunday.

Victoria Man on Missing Boat

Sailed March 16 for Bering

A Victoria man is among eight crewmen missing with the Vancouver-based boat Sea Ranger which sailed March 16 for the Bering Sea.

He is William Joseph Henry, 30. His mother is Mrs. Isabell Henry, 1206 Fairfield Road.

The 67-foot vessel was reported missing Thursday after an inflatable life raft bearing the number 363 was found floating with other debris about 45 miles south of Unalaska Island in the Aleutian chain.

A massive air and sea search in the Bering Sea is due to continue today.

The RCAF said missing included the vessel's owner, J. McLure, 58, of Vancouver, and the skipper, Matt Sherman, about 55, of Vancouver.

Other crewmen were identified by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union as Carl Ostergard, 37; William McCulloch, 25; August Sesstja and Ragnvold Sorvag, 68, all of Vancouver, Ken McAlpin, 51, of Jordan Bay, N.S.

The search began Friday when the department of transport inspection branch in Vancouver identified the liferaft as being from the Sea Ranger, the only vessel in the area not accounted for.

Officials of the United States Coast Guard in Juneau, Alaska, immediately ordered six aircraft and about a dozen surface vessels to search for Sea Ranger.

Homer Stevens, secretary of the union, said the Sea Ranger was due to be starting the eight-day trip back to Vancouver.

Mr. Stevens said there was little chance the Sea Ranger was en route to Vancouver unaware of the search.

Dorion Probe Ends Today

'Calumny!' Cries Counsel

QUEBEC (CP) — Jules Deschenes, federal government counsel, Friday accused Ross Drouin, Conservative party lawyer, of a calumny against Justice Minister Favreau.

He referred before the Dorion inquiry to Mr. Drouin's statement earlier this week that Mr. Favreau had ventured into a field — criminal law — about which he knew nothing.

Mr. Deschenes also said he was amazed that "immediate measures" were not being taken against Erik Nielsen, Conservative MP for the Yukon, because of parts of his testimony to the commission. He did not elaborate on what he meant by "immediate measures."

Mr. Deschenes said Mr. Nielsen had tried to make the commission a pawn in party politics and to attack the integrity of Mr. Favreau.

He said Mr. Nielsen's conduct had been "inexcusable" for a witness who had said he was ready to cooperate with the commission.

Mr. Nielsen had intended to indicate that Mr. Favreau had taken reprisals against two residents of the Yukon by pressing charges against them only two days after Mr. Nielsen exploded the Lucien Rivard affair in the Commons Nov. 23.

Mr. Deschenes said the charges were laid last Nov. 5 though Mr. Favreau himself in the witness box said the charges, though decided on as early as June, could not be laid until December when the two men in question were arrested in British Columbia.

eric Dorion, which is scheduled to conclude its four months of hearings today.

The commission is investigating allegations by Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne that he was subjected to attempted bribery and political coercion to drop opposition to bail for Rivard, wanted in the U.S. as the suspected key figure in a narcotics smuggling racket.

Mr. Lamontagne was acting for the U.S. government which was trying to have Rivard extradited to Texas when he escaped from Montreal's Bordeaux Jail March 2.

LAST DAY

Yves Fortier, counsel for Mr. Lamontagne, makes a final rebuttal today. The commission is also scheduled to hear on its last day of hearings a representative of Raymond Daoust, Rivard's lawyer and a witness at the inquiry.

Commission counsel Andre Desjardins said Monday Mr. Daoust's credibility as a witness must be examined.

RCMP, TOO

The commission is also investigating the conduct of the RCMP and Mr. Favreau in the handling of Mr. Lamontagne's charges against four federal ministerial aides.

Norman Mathews, RCMP counsel, said there has been a "despicable smear campaign" in some newspaper editorials and cartoons to blame the Mounties for the escape of Rivard.

The RCMP had nothing to do with guarding Rivard and Mr. Drouin had been talking "sheer nonsense" when he suggested that the safekeeping of Rivard was a federal responsibility.

Allocation of Gas Exports Would Create 'Mare's Nest'

OTTAWA (CP) — A national gas policy which would allocate export markets to particular natural gas production areas in Canada would create "a dreadful mare's nest and frightful constitutional issues," the National Energy Board was told Friday.

R. A. MacKimmie of Calgary, counsel for Alberta and Southern Gas Company, made the statement summing up two weeks of hearings on his company's application to increase its sales of Albreta gas to Pacific Gas and Electric Company of San Francisco by 50 per cent.

BID OPPOSED

The application was opposed by Westcoast Transmission Company of Vancouver which said it should have a bite of the California market. It claimed it now is locked into the Pacific northwest market and cannot move British Columbia gas economically to eastern Canada.

The board reserved judgment on the Alberta and Southern application, along with uncontested applications by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited and Canadian Montana Pipeline Company to increase their flows of Alberta gas to U.S. markets in the Midwest and Montana.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner of B.C. supported the Westcoast intervention and Premier Manning of Alberta supported the Alberta and southern application.

Mr. Bonner said Wednesday night that in the interests of encouraging Canadian and particularly British Columbian natural gas production, the board should see that B.C. has an attractive export market. Mr. Manning said the board should not interfere with free market activity.

It will spend the night in Tacoma, visit Seattle on April 28 and leave Bellingham for home that evening.

Chamber officials say for some members the trip will be a brief, inexpensive holiday on service which those directly involved in tourist trade will be able to confer directly with clubs, and other businessmen.

The spokesman said the area does not meet established criteria for national park system units.

Pre-natal Sex Test Little Used

TORONTO (CP)—Doctors can determine the sex of an unborn infant quite accurately by sampling a fluid from the mother's uterus, Dr. A. William Liley of Auckland, New Zealand, said here Thursday.

Dr. Liley, who performed the first successful intra-uterine blood transfusion in an unborn baby, said doctors look for the presence of the sex chromatin (also known as the Barr body) in the unborn baby's amniotic fluid. The chromatin, he said, is found only in a female's cells.

But, said Dr. Liley:

move two more amendments next week, and the vote on the main motion to approve the throne speech is considered a test of confidence as well.

ATTACKS DEPARTMENT

Just before the votes, Max Saltsman (NDP — Waterloo South) criticized the lack of machinery in the labor department to gather reliable up-to-date information on the labor market.

Making his maiden speech, he outlined the NDP's ideas for improving the use of manpower and guarding workers against the dislocations caused by automation.

POLICY CAN'T WORK

No labor policy could work properly without clear information on impending changes in the labor market. Yet the national employment service which ought to be getting such information, had only one economist's position on its staff and this hadn't been filled for five of the last eight years because of the low salary.

Mr. Saltsman said the labor department's manpower program is badly in need of coordination. It was scattered among a variety of branches and agencies.

On automation, it was the role of government to cushion its damaging effects on workers.

"A working man functions best when he does not fear for the future."

dom" and left when Chinese planes appeared.

"In the confusion, one U.S. plane was hit by a guided missile fired by another and crashed in the area of Hainan," Peking said.

U.S. officials did not report any of their planes missing in action off Hainan, 150 miles east of North Viet Nam's coast, across the Gulf of Tonkin.

PHANTOM JETS

Four Phantom jet fighters, fastest in the U.S. Navy's arsenal, fought the Communist planes 35 miles from Hainan Island, site of a major Chinese MIG base, American officials said.

In Washington, the Pentagon said all its information indicated the U.S. Navy planes were not over the Chinese island.

LARGEST ARMADA

The raid on North Viet Nam brought out the largest air armada since the attacks began. The planes wrecked three bridges, officials said.

The navy and air force launched 220 planes laden with 245 tons of bombs and rockets for the 20th and most massive of the air strikes at North Viet Nam that started two months ago.

ONE PLANE LOST

U.S. authorities announced the loss of only one plane; a navy Skyhawk hit by enemy ground fire. Forced to bail out over the sea, the pilot was picked up by rescue craft a half-hour later.

By American accounting the Skyhawk was the 27th plane—U.S. and South Vietnamese—to be lost during the raids on North Viet Nam, reported designed to cut supplies of men and material to the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

PEKING CLAIM

Radio Peking declared, however, that eight planes were shot out of the day's raiding force. That boosted the total of Communist claims to 165.

Within the South Vietnamese political-military sphere, there was a familiar air of confusion in the wake of the latest power play.

Reliable sources said navy commander Admiral Chung Tan Cang, deposed in a mutiny Thursday by 50 junior officers that seemed to have the government's approval, had returned to power. The informants said three of the mutineers fled and the others told Cang they would obey his orders.

Assailant Still Sought

Saanich police said Friday they were still hunting the laughing man who tried to assault a 17-year-old girl Wednesday night.

The man attacked the girl on the grounds of Shelbourne School and laughed as she struggled with him. He made off when a car approached.

Indians Claim Border Victory

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian officials claimed at least 27 Pakistanis killed or wounded and four captured in fighting along the disputed border area of western India Friday. India's losses were put at two killed and three wounded.

Weight Gain While Pregnant Shouldn't Exceed 20 Pounds

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the proper amount of weight to gain in pregnancy?—MRS. J. C.

About 20 pounds is generally regarded as a good average. Less is preferred by some obstetricians. Staying within that amount means a healthier baby, usually an easier delivery, a more comfortable woman during the months of pregnancy, and a much easier job of getting one's figure back to normal afterward.

When a woman begins to pack on weight which will exceed 20 pounds by delivery time, she usually (although not always) is one who has been eating more than she needs, and already has a tendency to plumpness or obesity.

DECEIVES HERSELF

It's not always easy to persuade a woman to control her weight at such a time. She wants to eat, she isn't as active as she has been in the past, and she very frequently deceives herself (and tries to deceive others) with the argument that she is "eating for two."

She is, of course, eating for two. But there's a difference between that and overeating for two.

The developing baby naturally must have considerable nourishment — plenty of calcium, adequate protein as a building food, plus the various minerals and vitamins which, happily, are not difficult to provide. A normal, well-balanced diet, with perhaps a modest supplement of vitamins to be on the safe side, will do this.

DIFFICULT DELIVERY

The baby does not need to store up excessive fat. It should not, in fact, because a big baby often means a more difficult delivery. (A big baby—over nine pounds—also is a danger sign indicating that the mother has a pre-disposition toward diabetes.)

So if the expectant mother eats so much that she adds to her own natural weight besides the normal gain of pregnancy, she isn't doing herself or the baby any good. She is simply storing excess calories (virtually always from too much sugar, starch and fat in the diet) in the form of fat in her own body.

In short, the proper diet is one which provides the things the baby needs, but does not (except for a rather narrow margin) add anything to the mother's own body structure.

BABY'S NEEDS

When a woman is substantially overweight to begin with, it is possible (and preferable) for her to limit her gain to something less than 20 pounds. The difference is (or should be) that she eat foods that will provide for the baby's needs, at the same time using up some of her stored fat, which represents her overweight.

Excessive overweight in pregnancy also contributes to foot troubles, varicose veins, sagging of abdominal muscles and other things you'd rather avoid.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our son, 20, was hospitalized four weeks with nephritis. For two months since then he has been under heavy medication, including cortisone, and now has developed diabetes. Could you give us some information regarding this? — MRS. B.T.J.

Cortisone can bring out latent or potential diabetes. The diabetes trait was already present but had not yet become apparent. This is one of the possibilities which must be watched in cortisone therapy as well as in other conditions.

The nephritis itself may have contributed to making the diabetes become active, since any stressful condition or occurence can contribute to this—drugs, injury, infection, pregnancy, etc.—if the trait is already present.

Otto Eating Well But Not Too Wisely

BERLIN (Reuters)—Otto the octopus in West Berlin's Aquarium is literally eating itself to death at the rate of half-an-inch of tentacle a day.

An official said Otto began to nibble away at his eight two-foot tentacles last week. At the present rate he will be dead by the end of the month.

Welfare Plan Welcomed

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial welfare ministers gave general approval Friday to the federal government's proposed Canada Assistance Plan that would introduce a single comprehensive welfare program paying benefits on the basis of need.

A communique issued from a two-day federal-provincial conference said there was approval for the basic features of the plan by all provinces and Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh.

The plan, announced Monday in the speech from the throne, will extend federal cost-sharing to needy mothers, to health costs for welfare recipients and to spending for improving administration of programs.

MORE MEETINGS

The ministers agreed that meetings of officials will be continued. The federal government is making provision in the plan for any province to contract-out of the plan and continue the existing federal-provincial agreements for disabled and blind persons assistance, old age assistance and assistance to needy unemployed.

Informant said there was no indication at the meeting how many provinces will enter the plan.

PLAN WELCOMED

The communique said "the provincial ministers welcomed the plan as providing a basis for a new and more flexible approach to public welfare in Canada."

There has been no estimate yet of the cost involved in removing the means test from existing programs and handing out money on the basis of need.

Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday the federal contribution to aid for needy mothers could amount to $25,000,000 annually. Federal share of health costs to needy persons would be between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

The federal government has said it hopes the new plan will go into effect April 1 next year. This would apply only to provinces that agree to enter.

U.S. May Speed Space Walk Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An official said Friday the United States is studying the possibility of speeding up Project Gemini experiments leading to the first "walk in space" by an American astronaut.

He insisted, however, that no "extra-vehicular" activities have yet been planned for the forthcoming four-day flight of the two-man Gemini spacecraft.

RUSSIAN FEAT

Soviet cosmonaut, Alekasei Leonov, emerged from his Voskhod 2 cabin in a flight March 18 and performed acrobatics for television. No similar space rambles are officially planned for U.S. astronauts before next year.

In a news conference here, Dr. George Mueller, associate administrator for manned space flight of the national Aeronautics and Space Administration, said the agency is "looking into the possibility of accelerating" extra-vehicular experiments in the Gemini program.

THIRD FLIGHT

But he added that the first of these experiments—decompression of the cabin and opening of the hatches—still is planned for the third manned Gemini flight scheduled for next fall. No actual emergence is planned until 1966.

In response to repeated questions, however, Mueller never once ruled out the possibility that Gemini space walks might be attempted earlier.

Across Atlantic

Early Bird Ready To Relay Messages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Early Bird communications satellite nested over the equator today ready to relay transAtlantic television and telephone calls for paying customers. (See Page 19.)

At a command from earth, history's first commercial satellite was kicked into an "essentially perfect" orbit.

Synchronized with the rotating speed of the earth, the 85- pound moon would appear to hang in space off the coast of Brazil. Its north-south motion about the Equator is approximately one-tenth of a degree, Communication Satellite Corporation officials said. The latest telemetry data showed a drift of less than one degree per day.

The success came less than three years after Congress approved the Communications Satellite Act which set up the government-business-and stockholder-run corporation.

If all goes according to plan, Comsat hopes to have its worldwide system in operation by 1967.

Handyman Benefits In $210,671 Estate

OTTAWA (CP)—The hospitality and compassion of a $2,500-a-year hotel pantryman and his wife were rewarded here when an odd-job man left them the bulk of his surprising $210,671 estate.

The will of George Garian, filed for probate in surrogate court here Friday, showed Mr. and Mrs. William Muntean as the principal benefactors.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind received $50,000 and Joseph A. Smith of Hull, Que., $10,000 from the 83-year-old upholsterer and handyman who died March 17.

The remainder of the estate was left to Mr. Muntean with the stipulation that the latter's wife, Jennie, is to get $20,000 of this.

"I knew he had saved money—maybe up to $50,000—but I had no idea he had that much," said Mr. Muntean, 62-year-old employee of the Chateau Laurier who provided Mr. Garian with lodging for the last 21 years.

Actress Critical

GLENVIEW, Ill. (AP)—Linda Darnell, the actress, burned in a fire at the home of friends, was "still in critical condition" Friday after four hours of surgery.

Surgeons said the 41-year-old actress suffered second- and third-degree burns over the upper part of her body.

A girls' collegiate school was opened at New Westminster in 1865. Tuition was $1 a month, $2 if the music course was taken. Other subjects offered included French, drawing and botany under supervision of Rev. Percival Jenns.

Untrue Assumption

SOME LIBERAL leaders and other political pundits have been trying to make capital out of the defection of Leon Balcer from the Conservative ranks.

The claim is that with the departure of the top man in Quebec, the Progressive Conservatives can no longer claim themselves to be a national party.

It would be hard to find a more untrue assumption. Mr. Balcer is reputed to have left the Conservative caucus because he cannot get along with Mr. Diefenbaker. Even the past president of the Conservative party, Egan Chambers, believes that the party chief drove Mr. Balcer out.

However, the fact remains that Mr. Balcer himself has said in public that it was not Mr. Diefenbaker, but the Conservative policy itself that caused him to cross the floor.

If Mr. Balcer is to be believed the true explanation must therefore be that he has defected just as others like Thatcher and Argue did from the NDP ranks, because he has switched his political opinions.

This does not make the Progressive Conservative party any less a national party than it was before.

Indeed if one looks at the federal party standings in the ten provinces and the two northern territories, there 's no party which has a wider geographic representation in the Commons than the PCs.

The Conservatives have members from every province except Newfoundland, while they are the only party with representation in the Yukon and the N.W.T.

On the other hand the Liberals for all their 129 seats have no provincial representation from Saskatchewan, only one seat in Alberta and two in Manitoba, and none in the north.

Is the Liberal party truly a national party when 99 of its members come from Quebec and Ontario, and only 30 from all the rest of the country? We think not.

To carry the argument further. Both the NDP and the Social Credit and their Creditiste associates claim themselves to be national parties.

Yet the NDP's 18 seats in Ottawa come from only three provinces, B.C., Manitoba and Ontario, while the SC group is confined to Quebec, Alberta and British Columbia.

It may be a great pity that Mr. Balcer has left the Conservative party, but it is not of national importance. He is better out if he is no longer attuned to the Conservative way of thinking.

Well Done

THIS NEWSPAPER has had ample cause to say quite a lot to the discredit of Victoria's member of Parliament, Mr. David Groos, in his political career. It is a pleasure to find now an occasion to praise him—for the wit and grace with which he presented a case in the Commons for federal assistance in building a four-lane Patricia Bay Highway.

Mr. Groos opened his short speech in French, a courtesy that did not go unnoticed by the parliamentary secretary to Public Works Minister Lucien Cardin. He switched to English because "this House in its wisdom, Mr. Speaker, has not yet seen fit to abolish capital punishment."

And he maintained an undoubtedly most pleasant mood in the chamber by explaining that the expensiveness of the highway construction—$9,500,000 for 18 miles—should come as no surprise because the Dominion government had been warned long ago that things in B.C. were often bigger and better and costlier. Governor Musgrave in a letter to the governor-general had referred to the white inhabitants of the colony as being "chiefly male adults of wasteful and expensive habits."

("All Liberals, I take it," interjected a Conservative MP.)

Mr. Groos referred to the inadequacy of the two-lane highway which Ottawa had helped build, the need for a four-lane road to carry travellers from "beautiful and Liberal Victoria to beautiful and largely Liberal Vancouver . . . safely and speedily through the also beautiful but politically insecure riding of my hon. friend from Esquimalt-Saanich," and concluded:

"What we are asking for is nothing less than a good two-lane bilingual highway going north from Victoria to Swartz Bay and beside it a good, bilingual, two-lane highway heading south . . ."

We don't know about the bilinguality, and the Victoria member may be surprised to find whose riding is insecure. But if charm can influence the federal cabinet, Mr. Groos in this instance did an excellent job.

Tangled Web of Suspicion

Ferment in the Middle East

By ROBERT STEPHENS from London

A CRISIS atmosphere is developing again in the Middle East. There are several reasons for disquiet. The row over West Germany's secret arms deal with Israel and Cairo's reception of Herr Ulbricht, the East German leader, were symptomatic both of the growing arms race in the area and of President Nasser's present suspicions of Western policy.

The arms race itself is a sign of fears on both sides arising from the dispute between the Arabs and Israel over the Jordan waters. There have been riots in Bahrein, continued terrorism in Aden and the breakdown of the plan for a constitutional conference in South Arabia. Talks between Britain and the U.A.R. aimed at improving relations have been marking time.

But does all this mean that a new showdown is now approaching between the Arabs and Israel and between President Nasser and the Western powers, principally Britain? Or are these fears exaggerated? If they are not, what can be done now to prevent their disastrous realization?

The short answer is that on closer examination the facts themselves do not justify talk of a showdown. But the danger at the moment lies not in the real facts or the real intentions of any party concerned but in what each believes about the intentions of the others.

For, whatever their basis in fact, some of the fears are genuine enough. Some Israelis—not all—fear that the Arabs are arming for war with the Jordan waters as their pretext. They draw a parallel with 1956 before the Sinai and Suez wars and claim the same rights as they did then to launch a preventive war at the time that suits them best. So far Mr. Eshkol's government has not adopted this argument, but it might treat a serious threat to Israel's water claims from the Jordan as a casus belli.

Most Arabs see Western arms supplies to Israel as an encouragement to the Israelis to try to wreck the Arabs' own Jordan water plans by force. Some Arabs, including apparently President Nasser, suspect that the Western powers might try to exploit any Arab-Israel clash to weaken Arab nationalism, along the lines of the Suez operation.

At the first Arab summit conference last year President Nasser persuaded the Arab states to adopt a more cautious policy over the Jordan waters. But he also revived his campaign against the maintenance of Western, especially British, military bases in the Middle East. He apparently saw these bases in Cyprus, Libya and Aden as potential jumping-off points for Western intervention against him. His suspicion of British motives was strengthened by the British support given via Aden to the Royalists in the Yemen civil war.

More recently, the Egyptians have professed to see signs of a general Anglo-American diplomatic offensive against them.

But, if there has been a hardening of American and British attitudes, Washington and London would argue that it is largely in response to what they see as a more militant anti-Western line adopted by President Nasser in recent months. The Americans reacted particularly against the U.A.R.'s supply of arms to the Congo rebels after the American-Belgian intervention in Stanleyville last autumn. The British can claim that Egyptian support for the National Liberation Front's terrorism in Aden is holding up both the advance of South Arabia towards independence and the improvement of relations with Cairo.

In all this tangled web of suspicion and misunderstanding, one thing stands out clearly. It is the improbability of a direct Arab military assault on Israel. With a large part of the Egyptian army bogged down in the Yemen, with the Iraqui army poised for another expensive campaign against the Kurds, with Syria at loggerheads with her neighbors, Jordan dependent on American aid and the Lebanon anxious to avoid trouble, the likelihood of the Arabs carrying out a serious co-ordinated attack on Israel is remote.

But there are other dangers of military conflict. If Israel struck at the Arab counter-diversion of the Jordan headwaters, the clash might spread. Yet, if both the Israeli and the Arab schemes for the Jordan waters were put into full effect, the result would not be fatal for either side. In fact, the difference between these schemes and the effect of the Johnston (American) plan for the division of the waters, now accepted by Israel and rejected by the Arab states, is comparatively marginal, perhaps not more than 10 per cent of the water-flow—certainly not worth a war.

A fresh international effort needs to be made to get at least a new tacit agreement on the share of the waters. The World Bank, which helped to solve the Indus waters dispute, might now try its hand on the Jordan.

But what can be done to check the arms race between Israel and the Arab states? Previous suggestions about an agreement between the Western powers and Russia on arms control or an arms embargo for the Middle East made no headway, partly because the Russians wanted to extend the control to Western allies, such as Turkey and Iran. Both Iran and Turkey have now improved their relations with Russia and it is doubtful whether the maintenance of very big conventional armed forces in these countries, especially in Turkey, is still justified, even on military grounds. It would be worth exploring again with the Russians the possibility of an agreed limitation on arms supply to the Middle East and also encouraging the states of the area to think in terms of a regional arms control agreement.

Finally, what of President Nasser's relations with the West, and especially with Britain? The central problem here is that of South Arabia and the Yemen. Both President Nasser and the British government are committed to positions in that area which are untenable in the long run, and in the short run can only be held at great expense. Egypt needs to disengage from the Yemen and Britain from Aden and South Arabia. Both are afraid of the repercussions over a wider area of the Arab world if they do.

The British base at Aden, once justified on the grounds of oil interests in the Persian Gulf, is now officially justified on the grounds that the withdrawal of the British military presence would mean chaos and international war in the Gulf area.

These apocalyptic fears are vastly exaggerated. They would have even less validity if a more serious effort were made now to create a more durable political system in the Gulf and round the Arabian peninsula.

This effort has to begin in the Yemen and South Arabia. In both countries the aim must be to set up as speedily as possible genuinely independent states which are recognized as such by a broad spectrum of Arab and international opinion.

In the Yemen, an Arab League force with UN backing is needed, as in the Kuwait crisis in 1962, to hold the ring while the Yemenis themselves negotiate. In Aden and South Arabia, the United Nations resolutions on the area should be more closely observed and a UN commission invited to help in preparing the creation of an independent South Arabian State.

The future of the British base at Aden could then be discussed with the government of an independent country which cannot be easily accused of being a mere British-made puppet.

But in deciding on the future of the Aden base, Britain should have in mind not merely its relations with the local government but also the effect on Arab opinion generally. This opinion is largely unfavorable to the maintenance of foreign bases which may be used for intervention in Arab countries.

If we force or persuade any Arab government too far out of line with this general opinion we are bound to weaken and eventually destroy it, however popular it may now appear. To recognize this fact is not simply to capitulate to President Nasser. It is chiefly because Nasser himself has understood this first condition of survival in the Arab world that he has lasted so long.

And it is in those places where he himself failed to understand sufficiently the Arab feeling for independence, as once in Syria and more recently in the Yemen, that he has had his greatest defeats.

Prize for Politicians

Danger of Joking

By SHAUN HERRON

I HAD a boss once who thought all his jokes were funny, but other people's jokes, he couldn't see. When I wrote to him I made little jokes. He replied to all of them as if they were clauses in the U.S. constitution. When his party won the 1945 general election in Britain I wired him: "It's in the bag. There's nothing left for you to beat but sin." He wrote me: "You are right, of course, but sin is the oldest and greatest enemy of all." When I explained that I was joking he wrote irritably: "When you joke in your communications, please draw a little flag."

It might not be a bad idea. There was a professor once in a prairie state university who made a little joke. A politician on the far right was trying to embarrass a Democratic governor whose job he was after. He wanted to raise the old scare about Communism in education and the alleged use of tax funds in state institutions, to promote subversion. He was actually a silly sort of man and he went after the exercise of the free mind as a subversive activity on campus.

A professor on the campus wrote a letter to the campus newspaper in which he tried as humorously and as extravagantly as possible to indicate the range of the mind's right to freedom in a university. He said it would be a strange free community of minds if there were found no advocates of a currently powerful political doctrine (Communism) and if the community was really alive there would be people advocating almost anything anybody could think of, not excluding polygamy, free love and nudism.

It was a prize for any politician. The professor said afterwards in effect: "I should have drawn a little flag." His name is Sibley. The matter died down in time and most people forgot about it, even on that campus. But not everywhere.

The case of Professor Sibley opens up new areas of excitement for all who utter in public, equal at least to the hazards of employing irony at an ecclesiastical convention.

I am informed that the "Founder the French" group on the Fort Garry campus, have invited a great authority on French culture, manners, politics and foibles to speak to their next meeting on the subject: How to Sink Quebec.

His name is Art Buchwald. Mr. Buchwald lived in Paris for many years and now lives in Washington, D.C. He writes a metaphysical column on current affairs. I do not see how Mr. Buchwald can be allowed to enter the country.

One of his recent columns was a suggestion to the U.S. state department about the drain on American gold reserves and the French attack on these reserves. His suggestion was scandalous and Mr. Nicholson cannot afford to ignore it. After all, Professor Sibley's letter appeared in an obscure campus newspaper. Mr. Buchwald's outrageous incitement to national and international criminality is syndicated by the New York Herald Tribune to several hundred daily papers.

He draws the attention of the treasury department to the fact that the French gold converted from dollars is still in the U.S.—transferred from Fort Knox to the Federal Reserve Bank in New York and held there for the French.

American jails, he points out, are full of excellent thieves with proper patriotic sentiments who would be happy to heist the bank, if they had the tools. Six months off their current prison terms should be sufficient inducement, he thinks.

The federal government must provide the tools—sick-making gas among them—and the thieves, with federal transport and a clear getaway route, could have the gold back in Fort Knox before anybody knew the robbery had taken place.

Mr. Rusk, the plan proceeds, should then inform the French of the robbery, assure them of every effort to capture the thieves, and like Governor Wallace, talking about ten murders, say: "I'm sorry, of course, but banks get robbed in France you know."

A man who would propose, not mere free love—which goes on anyway all over Canada—but that one government should trick and deceive another, must come under the omniscient provisions of the immigration laws.

"Name, sir?"

"Buchwald. Art Buchwald."

"Hey Charley. He's here."

"You Buchwald?"

"Yes, Charley."

"You the guy that wants to heist the Federal Reserve Bank?"

"Well now, let me explain that . . ."

"Wants the government to cheat?"

"Now please . . . just a minute . . ."

"You think we need your kind?"

"Look, I was only joking . . . I . . ."

"Sure you was only jokin'. They're all only jokin' . . . There's this guy who makes a film about how to murder your wife. . . He told us it was just a joke . . . you think we're stupid or somethin'? Free love, bank robbery, wife-murder and this guy Ogden Nash that we're lookin' out for—he writes verses against marriage yet—who needs you? We got Tommy Douglas and he got in before we joined the service. Whadya say, men? We let this guy in?"

"Out."

"The court says out, mister. On your way home. Now men, when he gets his car turned around—all together now. . .

"O, Canada . . ."

Canada's Share in NATO

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

FOR about 15 years Canada has kept a substantial number of troops and airmen in Europe where they form part of the forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The cost to us is now $135 million a year and it has been rising steadily.

Surely the time has come to review the necessity for such a large commitment. When the alliance was first organized all the European member nations were in bad shape. They had suffered great damage during the war, their economies were extremely shaky and their manpower was needed to set about the work of restoration. This is no longer the situation.

Most of them have been flourishing for some years. This is particularly true of the so-called Common Market countries—France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg. In fact only two—Greece and Turkey—are in a serious economic position and they receive extensive aid of various kinds from the United States. This enables them to keep up large armed forces.

In addition the European nations now have far bigger reserves of manpower than Canada—and the cost of keeping their men in uniform is far less per man than our own.

There was a time when keeping a large force in NATO gave us prestige and influence; we ranked in importance with Italy directly after the three great wartime allies — the United States, Britain and France. However, West Germany has now joined them and we have less say in the affairs of the alliance than at any time previously.

I suspect that in some of the NATO capitals we are looked on as naive for remaining so deeply involved both in manpower and in expenditures.

Whether this is so or not we certainly should take a good look at the possibility of reducing our costs. It is not as though we would be carrying fewer peace-keeping burdens than our NATO allies. No one of them is so heavily engaged in United Nations operations as Canada; take for instance our contributions to the emergency force in the Gaza Strip of Palestine, to the former Congo force and to the United Nations force in Cyprus, and to these should be added our participation in truce supervisory organizations in various trouble-spots in the Middle East, Kashmir and the Far East.

No doubt the present Canadian government will be reluctant to make any change in the extent of our NATO commitment. Liberal policy since the beginning of the alliance has been to give top priority in Canadian foreign policy to NATO rather than to the Commonwealth or the United Nations.

Until recently Liberal leaders have repeatedly pictured NATO as about to be broadened from an alliance to prevent aggression into a general economic and political union of North Atlantic nations.

There was never much likelihood that such an expansion would take place, but in any event the plan has now been rejected by the continental Europeans under President de Gaulle's lead. They seem to regard such a union as a scheme to bring them under Anglo-Saxon domination and want none of it. Canadian leaders at least should have realized this fact of international life by now.

Against this background co-operation of France and West Germany becomes of great importance. These are the two leading nations of Western Europe and working together are well able at the present time to assume the major responsibility for defending themselves and their neighbors.

West Germany, with the aid of her allies, including Canada, has now built up the strongest army in NATO and she has more chance of gaining full French co-operation than the United States could hope to do. France on her part has been able to withdraw most of her troops from Algeria since that country was granted independence and this has given her the additional manpower necessary for a strong European defence force.

This is not to suggest that Canada should leave the NATO alliance. The presence of her forces in Europe is a constant reminder that she stands against Communist aggression. If she were to withdraw such action might be misunderstood on both sides of the Iron Curtain and might even lead to the withdrawal of other members. We must do nothing that will bring about either of these results.

But she certainly should look closely at ways of bringing her contribution more clearly in line with her share of the responsibility now that the European members are back to their prewar strength and no longer either weak or impoverished.

To be considered for publication in whole or in part, letters must be on subjects of general interest and if signed with pen-names, must be accompanied by writer's name and address. Preference will be given to those that are brief.

LAST week when at Island View Beach I found I had a flat tire. I had no sooner started on the job of wheel changing than I found that age still has some advantages, for a very nice lad came from the adjoining cafe and not only offered to help but set about the job most efficiently. I knew before I asked him that he would not allow me to compensate him for his trouble. He said he was a Scout and that it was his duty to help other people.

On Friday I was driving in a "good class" residential section of Victoria, travelling slowly in search of an address I was not familiar with, when I was startled by a long and loud blast from a large car which had just arrived behind me. It was driven by a prosperous looking middle-aged man, the ill-mannered intolerant type who wants everyone else out of his way at once. His sort has caused many visitors to say that they hear more silly aggressive horn-blasting in and around Victoria in one day than elsewhere in months.

The lessons are that "respectable" middle age often fails very badly in comparison with idealistic youth, and that an adult who barges his way through life contemptuous of the rights and feelings of others is as much a squalid public nuisance as the type of youth he condemns.

U.S. in Viet Nam

It was certainly shocking to read of the poor attendance at the opening night of the performance of Twelfth Night by the Seattle Players. I am afraid many people fail to realize what wonderful entertainment a first-class performance by highly gifted and trained artists will provide for the "man in the street." It is good to learn that there is no lack of appreciation across the water in Seattle.

But are we not in danger of forgetting that there are many sensitive people who may find it almost impossible to support at this moment the representatives of a nation which is behaving as the Americans are behaving in Viet Nam. The account in the paper of the cold-blooded plans for the public execution in a football stadium of a Vietnamese has made me wonder whether I can bear to watch and applaud even the Seattle Players.

How can it be right to drop napalm bombs on women and children and wrong to attempt to injure the soldiers of the nation responsible? The Americans are laying up such a reservoir of hatred as will sweep them out of Asia and Africa altogether. They seem to be taking us back to the worst days of the middle ages and the Roman empire.

Destruction

I feel the same way as Howard Green in that the Liberal government in a sneaky, subtle way is working toward a republic for Canada, just as they foisted their own maple leaf flag on the Canadian people.

All our great heritage is to count for nil! Does each province have to accept the destruction of all our great symbols? Why? To appease whom?

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

When massed soldiers and special constables prohibited a public march, the Great Charter was taken to the British House of Commons in a hansom cab 117 years ago today—in 1848. Containing nearly 2,000,000 signatures, it petitioned for universal suffrage, vote by secret ballot, and four other points, of which all but one later became law in England and many other countries. At the time, the Chartist movement was suspected of being a republican revolution and nothing was done about its petition.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1915—the French armies made further advances between the Meuse and the Moselle rivers; a German submarine was "defeated and driven home' by British ships.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—five British H-class destroyers attacked a superior German force in the first battle of Narvik, sinking a destroyer and seven supply ships for the loss of the Hunter and the Hardy; one German and 10 Danes were killed in the conquest of Denmark.

Largest Barge Aground

VANCOUVER (CP) — The world's largest log barge struck a reef and grounded aft Friday in Ououkinsh Inlet on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The 360-foot self-loading Straits Logger, owned by Straits Towing Ltd., was being towed empty by the tug Commodore Straits. It has a capacity of 10,000 tons of logs. Three big tugs were waiting for high tide to pull the barge free.

Maypole Dance April 17

Wickheims Go Sunday To Tokyo

Sooke's champion log birlers Ardiel and Jubiel Wickheim will board a plane Sunday afternoon for the Tokyo Trade Fair.

Between April 16 and May 6 the brothers will show their fleet-footed ability in a 30-by-35-foot pool in the Canadian Pavilion.

The birlers will be sponsored by the federal department of trade and commerce.

Island Aids Farm Museum

Three Vancouver Island centres are represented among about 100 contributions to a B.C. farm museum planned in the Fraser Valley centre of Langley.

Alex Hope of Langley, president and campaign chairman for the B.C. Farm Museum Association, said Friday gifts have come from more than 70 individual donors, nearly a dozen farm organizations and a number of corporations.

The Island centres are Victoria, Courtenay and Cobble Hill.

The campaign seeks $60,000 to build a one-storey museum this summer beside the Langley centennial museum. So far, gifts total almost $10,000.

Socred MLA Says

Clergy's Claim In Edmonton Slur on Brides

EDMONTON (CP) — Statements attributed to some Protestant clergymen that 70 per cent of the women married in Edmonton are pregnant are "a direct slur on the brides of this city," E. H. Gerhart, (SC-Edmonton North West) said in the legislature Friday.

Mr. Gerhart asked Health Minister Dr. J. D. Ross if there were any statistics to back up the statements.

NO SUCH STUDY

The Edmonton Presbytery has done no such study that would "sustain such statements," Dr. Ross replied.

He added he assumed the clergymen based their reports on the number of cases in which they have performed marriages for girls who already are pregnant.

CAUSE FOR CONCERN

W. D. McFarland, Alberta superintendent of child welfare, Wednesday told a family service group in Calgary that "Protestant clergymen in Calgary say that 70 per cent of their marriages are shotgun. In Calgary, the percentage is around 35 per cent."

Dr. Ross said the provincial vital statistics department has statistics showing the number of "illegitimate parents" is a significant percentage of the total number of married couples. There is cause for concern at such evidence of moral breakdown.

MARKETING GROUPS

In other legislative business Antonio Aloisio (SC—Athabasca) said voluntary agricultural marketing commissions should be set up for a trial period.

"If a farmer feels he can sell his hogs better on his own, let him try."

Following the trial period with voluntary commissions, producers would be able to decide more easily whether they need to accept compulsory marketing agencies, he said.

Agriculture Minister Harry Strom replied the government does not intend trial periods for voluntary commissions. Under the bill now in committee study, farmers will be able to set up either voluntary or compulsory marketing agencies for their products, he said.

Farmers would be able to set up marketing commissions to do research on the marketing of a product, conduct advertising campaigns to increase sales or set up voluntary marketing commissions. A third choice would be compulsory marketing boards.

Three Recounts

Irish Premier Holds Razor-Thin Edge

DUBLIN (Reuters)—The longest vote count in Irish history dragged on today to decide whether Prime Minister Sean Lemass' governing Fianna Fail party will stay in power.

By early today, Lemass had won 71 seats against 70 held by the opposition in the 144-seat Dail, the lower house of parliament.

The final results of the Wednesday election depended on the outcome of recounts in three closely fought seats, two in Dublin City and one in Longford County.

Counting continued until midnight Friday night and the margin in Longford was understood to be no more than five votes.

Later a dispute broke out over the validity of ballots cast by patients in mental hospitals.

This was the first election in which long-term mental hospital patients were permitted to vote if their doctors thought them capable.

In the closely disputed Longford-Westmeath district, where a large mental hospital is located, the Fine Gael threatened to ask for all the voting to be nullified on grounds that "undue influence" had been exercised on hospital patients.

Island Snow Pack Light Spring Floods Unlikely

Provincial government snow watchers report a warm March has practically ruled out all threat of flooding in B.C. this spring

Unusually light March precipitation has had what the report termed "a pronounced effect" on the Vancouver Island snowpack. The only heavy snow pack remains on low-level Jordan Meadows.

Babies Purchased For $1,000 Each

VANCOUVER (CP) — A defendant in a B.C. Supreme Court action testified Thursday he bought two newborn babies for $1,000 each.

Benny Lee, defendant in a partition of property and declaration of trust action brought by his wife Margaret, said he gave $50 to the intermediary in the first transaction.

Mr. Lee said the second child was acquired in the same way, but was formally adopted. The children are now aged five and 10, he said.

Mr. Lee said the first child was acquired from a pregnant girl who was admitted to hospital as "Mrs. Lee."

Driver Fined, Does It Again

A few hours after he had been fined $350 for impaired driving, Sarwan Singh Bains went out and did it all over again, city magistrate's court was told Friday.

Bains, of 921 Market, pleaded guilty to both impaired driving and to leaving the scene of an accident.

On the afternoon of March 10 he was involved in a two-car collision at Blanshard and North Park.

He drove off and was apprehended three blocks away by a private citizen who had driven in pursuit.

Police who arrived found Bains unsteady on his feet and smelling of alcohol. A subsequent breathalyzer test registered a reading of .21 per cent.

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett said Bains was being proceeded against as a second offender.

On the morning of March 10, Bains had pleaded guilty in Colwood court to impaired driving, Mr. Birkett said.

He had been fined $350 and restricted to driving for business purposes only.

Magistrate William Oatler remanded Bains until April 20 for sentence.

A 17-year-old youth who pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to three break-ins was sentenced to 12 months definite, six months indefinite in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla.

Philip Isaacson, 154 St. Lawrence, committed the break-ins at three downtown stores and stole cigarettes totalling $656 in value.

Magistrate Oatler said Friday he felt the youth was entitled to sympathy because of a difficult family situation.

Persons caught shoplifting frequently seem to be of good previous character, the magistrate commented in another case, that of Audley Gardner, 1128 Verdier.

Gardner had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to stealing chisels and a file, valued at about $5, from a downtown store.

He had no previous conviction and was described in testimony of a character witness as a good employee.

The magistrate fined him $75.

Edward Nolan, 1312 Government, pleaded guilty to stealing seven pairs of socks Thursday evening from the T. Eaton Co., 1150 Douglas.

He asked Magistrae Oajler for leniency, saying that shortly before the theft he had been drinking with friends to celebrate his release from jail after an intoxication conviction.

After hearing Nolan had three previous theft convictions, the magistrate sent him back to jail for three months.

Stanley Bruce Diamond tried to sell a man a pistol in a downtown beer parlor, but the attempt misfired when a nervous onlooker summoned police, who charged Diamond with possessing an unregistered firearm.

Diamond, of 402 John, pleaded guilty.

Det. Lyle Somers of city police testified the gun was a .45 calibre revolver believed to be of Italian make. It was not loaded at the time of the incident.

Magistrate Oatler said there had been no suggestion the gun was in Diamond's possession for any criminal purpose. He fined him $25 and ordered the weapon confiscated.

William Richard Johnson, 19, of 1344 Grant, was sentenced to 12 months definite, six months indefinite in the young offenders' unit after conviction of breach of recognizance.

Last February he was convicted of break-in with intent and put on a one-year suspended sentence.

Wednesday Johnson was convicted of theft over $50, for which he received a sentence of nine months definite, six months indefinite.

Friday's sentence will run concurrently with the theft sentence.

Out of Tavern Onto Freeway --That's Where the Problem Is SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A four-year state and federal highway study has resulted in a bulky report on the problem of the wrong-way freeway driver.

The report concluded that the person most likely to cause an accident because of wrong-way freeway driving is, on the average, a 37-year-old man who leaves a tavern after 2 a.m.; gets into his car, and can't figure which way he's going.

New Fund Expected For Legion

South Vancouver Island district of the Royal Canadian Legion may be asked to contribute more than $20,000 to a $1,000,000 Centennial fund to be set up by the Legion across Canada.

The fund will provide education opportunities and scholarships across Canada.

B.C. officials expect Pacific Command will get "more than its share" of such benefits from the fund.

Pacific Command quota is $192,000. This is based on $4 per member.

There are 5,500 members in south Vancouver Island, which would mean a contribution of $22,000 to the fund.

Officials here say they have not yet been told how they are to raise contributions.

Miss Hunter in Jail

LIVERPOOL — Britain's most famous learner - driver, Miss Margaret Hunter, spent the night in jail here and is to appear in court on a charge of driving while disqualified. Miss Hunter, 66 - year - old retired schoolteacher, was banned from driving for a year in February after being convicted of careless driving. At the time she told the court a "propelling force" pushed her car off the road and into a tree.

She has been arrested and jailed for failing to appear earlier on the driving offence. Miss Hunter had her first driving lesson 26 years ago and subsequently failed tests in England and Northern Ireland. She finally obtained a licence in the Irish Republic last October. She became nationally-known when, in 1962, one of her instructors leaped out of her car in the street with the cry, "This is suicide."

Chataway Shares Trading Halted

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The bell rang on the Vancouver Stock Exchange trading floor in mid-session Friday, and members of the exchange were ordered to cease trading in the shares of Chataway Exploration Ltd.

The action came when the shares of Chataway were run up from 2.40 overnight to 2.50 in mid-morning Friday.

Instructions to the VSE came from Bill Irwin, B.C. superintendent of brokers in Victoria.

His telegram to the VSE said, "The Securities Commission considers it in the public interest that the Vancouver Stock Exchange instruct its members to cease trading Chataway Exploration until such time as the company publishes a press release to the effect that no diamond drilling has been done on property showings."

Mr. Irwin congratulated exchange president J. A. Van Luven on his prompt response.

Chataway has property in the Highland Valley of B.C. between Bethlehem Copper Corporation and Craigmont Mines. During bull-dozing operations some high-grade mineralization was encountered, according to report, and this started extremely active trading in the company's stock, which is not listed on the Vancouver Stock Exchange but which trades over the counter.

"Ever since the Windfall affair we have been most anxious to make sure that such things do not happen in B.C." said Mr. Irwin.

"The Commission felt it was essential that the public should be acquainted with the fact that the copper showings were on the surface only, and that no diamond drilling had been done."

The superintendent continued that he had been in touch with the directors of Chataway and they had completely agreed with the action taken in stopping trading in the shares.

"They are making no secret of anything, and they are pleased to make the announcement that no exploration at depth has been attempted." he continued.

"The action in stopping trading does not mean that Chataway will not make a mine. It is merely a precaution to make sure that rumors do not build up about a state of affairs that has not yet been proved."

DUTCH SELL BANK

The Mercantile Bank of Canada has become a wholly-owned subsidiary of the First National City Bank of New York.

When it received its Canadian charter in 1953, Mercantile Bank was an offshoot of the Rotterdamsche Bank of The Netherlands. Last year the Dutch bank sold a half interest to First National City, and promised to sell the remaining 50 per cent at a later date.

The announcement of the sale of the remaining shares to the U.S. bank was made Friday by R. P. McFadden, president of Mercantile.

Since Barclay's Bank of Canada was taken over by Imperial Bank of Canada (now Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce) Mercantile has been the only foreign-owned bank to hold a Canadian charter.

SASKATOON, Sask. — Saskatchewan Opposition Leader W. S. Lloyd has denied reports he might retire from politics. He told reporters "as long as my constituents and my party are willing, and I have no evidence that they're anything but willing, I think the people are stuck with me for a while yet."

Canadianisms Sought

Watch Your Language! Collectors Are Coming

An editorial quartet will spend the summer in Victoria to complete word selections for the new Dictionary of Canadianisms.

Scheduled for publication in 1967, the dictionary is being prepared by University of Victoria's lexicographical centre for Canadian English.

Centre director is Dr. M. H. Scargill, head of the linguistics department here who also serves as an editor.

$1,500 GRANT

He will be joined by Dr. W. S. Avis of Kingston's Royal Military College, retired anthropologist Dr. Douglas Leechman of Victoria and Charles Crate, a teacher at the Alert Bay Indian School.

The Canada Council has awarded a $1,500 grant to the centre to bring Dr. Avis here.

Dr. Scargill says the dictionary probably will contain about 12,000 words and phrases characteristic of Canada.

Most of 1966 will be spent in completing the definition and pronunciation of the entries before the manuscripts are sent to Toronto publisher W. J. Gage Ltd., which has adopted the dictionary as its centennial project.

Dr. Scargill says the quartet has spent 10 years working part-time on the project and he expects it will represent an investment of $250,000 by the time it's published.

Financial support has been provided by the Canada Council and the publisher while the Canadian Linguistic Association has contributed some research help.

Briefs Given Board By Police, Firemen

Two days of arbitration proceedings were completed Friday afternoon between members of the city's police and fire departments and representatives of the municipality.

Police union representatives presented their case Friday to a board chaired by George Rodgers, Vancouver. Union nominee in the case of both police and firemen, was Paul Paine, QC, Vancouver. City nominee was George Wilkinson, also of Vancouver.

The firemen presented their case Thursday. Their spokesman was Eric Simmons, president of the union. In both days hearing the city's case was presented by E. E. Pearlman.

Both decisions, which could cost the city more in the way of shorter hours and, therefore, increased staff, are expected on April 14.

Principal issue in the police hearing was the demand by Victoria force members for wage parity with Vancouver.

Motel Promotion 'Disappointing'

Canadian and American motelmen and resort owners began a two-day get-acquainted meeting in Victoria Friday.

The meeting, sponsored annually by the Victoria and Southern Vancouver Island local of the B.C. Motel and Resort Association, is designed to foster goodwill between resort owners in B.C. and the U.S.

800 INVITATIONS

Mr. Martin said Friday that the Victoria local sent out 800 invitations to the meeting, and expected about 200 to show up.

Only 50 attended the Friday luncheon in the Ingraham Hotel, and so far, only about 130 have registered for the meeting.

"I am especially disappointed with the turnout from our own members.

Meanwhile, the visitors have a full schedule before them.

BREAKFAST AT BAY

For the rest of the day they will tour Butchart's Gardens, Marine Drive, thte legislative buildings, the Underseas Gardens, and the downtown business district.

They will also attend the opening of the Spring Flower Festival at Centennial Square.

Suburban Tiger Causing Concern

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—A tiger is giving anxious moments to Bombay's suburban residents.

A police patrol on a routine beat reported spotting a tiger on a lonely road in the Aarey forest near here. All attempts to track down the animal have failed.

Meanwhile, a controversy has broken out as to whether the tiger should be tracked down and shot or left alone.

VISITS TEMPLE

The Free Press Bulletin, Bombay's popular evening English daily, says that the tiger is "harmless" and is thought of "favorably" by villagers around Aarey.

One villager told the Bulletin that the suburban rural population of the area has known about the tiger for many months, and was reported saying: "We understand that the tiger pays frequent visits at night to the temple of goddess Kali on the outskirts of Jogeshwari village. He seems to be a devotee of the goddess."

A man who runs a dairy farm near Jogeshwari said: "Under no circumstances should the police kill the tiger. He has not harmed any cattle. In fact, my water buffaloes roam all over the forest."

Wild animals that turn devout are not unknown in this part of the world—if popular legends are to be believed.

Some years before British rule ended, so runs one legend, an Englishman camping in the Aarey forest was warned by a holy man not to shoot a particular tiger since it was a reincarnation of Lord Shiva.

WATERY GRAVE

"If you kill the animal," the holy man said, "you will meet with a watery grave within 48 days."

The Englishman bagged the tiger. Soon he sailed for home on leave. He died in a shipwreck 600 miles from Bombay.

The Bombay Natural History Society also has come out on the side of the devout tiger of Aarey.

A spokesman said: "Tigers have become so rare around Bombay that the Aarey fellow should be protected in the interest of the species."

'Heaven Taught Indian Prophets'

By IAN ARBON.

Today all Indians in British Columbia are nominally Christian, the way prepared even before the arrival of the missionaries by native "prophets."

Wilson Duff tells about these prophets in his book The Impact of the White Man, which is Volume I of The Indian History of British Columbia. These natives foretold the arrival of white men and the marvels they would bring.

"These mystics are said to have gained their knowledge through visions, or by dying and returning to life after an instructive visit to heaven.

"They travelled among the tribes and harangued them, instructing their followers, for example, to make the sign of the cross, observe the Sabbath, worship a supreme being, and publicly confess their sins."

Contacts for these Christian ideas could have come from a number of sources.

The first Spanish ships to explore the Northwest Coast had Catholic priests aboard, and the short-lived Spanish settlement at Nootka Sound included a Catholic Church. The Russian settlement at Sitka, first established in 1799, also brought priests to this general area.

A pair of Indian youths of the Interior Salish were taken to the Red River Settlement in 1825 and returned in 1829 to preach their new religion.

The Prophet Dance with Christian elements is believed by Mr. Duff to have spread to the Coast Salish in the 1830s.

With the arrival of priests in the 1830s and 1840s in the interior and at the coast, "local prophets had a new and more direct source of Christian concepts from which to fashion their short-lived creeds."

Mr. Duff says that the early blends of Christian and native belief which the Indian prophets taught make it very difficult now to determine what the purely aboriginal beliefs were.

"Most Indians today, for example, are convinced that their forbears worshipped a supreme being equivalent to the Christian God, but among most tribes such was probably not the case."

A 1930 religion census lists 57 per cent of the Indians of B.C. as Roman Catholic; 20 per cent Anglican; 20 per cent United Church and 3 per cent "other Christian beliefs" (mostly Salvation Army).

Membership among the Indians in the Pentecostal Church has increased. "The coast and upper Skeena villages have felt the impact of this movement in recent years, as have the villages near Victoria and Vancouver."

The Shaker Church, founded by John Slocum of the Squaxin tribe of the Puget Sound area of Washington in the 1880s, has adherents among the Indians in Esquimalt, Brentwood and Duncan.

Mr. Slocum "died" in 1881 or 1882 and after some hours returned to life.

"He said that he had reached the gates of heaven but had not been admitted because of his sinful life, and that he had been given the mission of preaching to the Indian people so that they might get to heaven."

When Mr. Slocum fell ill again some time later his wife suddenly began to tremble violently as she cared for him, and the "shaking" seemed to help bring about his cure.

"It was adopted by members of the church as a supernatural gift of God, and sessions of shaking over sick persons to cure them became one of the main activities of the church, and gave it its name."

The services themselves include processions with bells and candles, hymn-singing, prayers and brief sermons.

Only a small proportion of the Indian people belong to this branch of the Christian religion.

Mr. Duff says that although the Indians of today consider "religion" to be synonymous with "Christianity," old beliefs in spirits, ghosts and other supernatural beings are still held in many areas.

He says spirit dancers are found among the Coast Salish tribes from Nanaimo to Victoria, providing them with experiences which are in the broad sense religious.

THE UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA

'Church's Concept of God Imprisoned by Tradition'

TORONTO (CP)—A challenge to the Christian church, and the Anglican church in particular, to revolutionize its faith is the theme of Let God Go Free, a provocative study of the church's mission to be published in mid-April.

It is written by Rev. Ernest Harrison, associate editorial secretary of the Anglican Church of Canada's department of religious education. It was on Mr. Harrison's initiative that the church asked Pierre Berton to write The Comfortable Pew, the controversial best-seller about the Anglican Church in Canada.

Let God Go Free develops the thesis of an evolving, creating and constantly changing God.

It says the church's faith is submerged in tradition that ties it to concepts of a God that are outdated by modern theological thought and scientific knowledge.

The author sees the broader comprehension of God as a stimulus to greater Christian endeavor and a fuller understanding of the religious and social issues confronting modern man.

He attacks denominationalism as "nonsense" and stresses the need for study of the church's organizational structure, declaring that its synods are "dominated by people from the privileged classes of society."

In the mission field, Mr. Harrison says, denominationalism is suicidal, and he denounces condescension and superiority in the Christian approach to other world religions such as Islam and Hinduism.

Let God Go Free, in paperback, will be published jointly by the Anglican Book Centre and the General Publishing Company of Toronto and Seabury Press of New York.

Professor Says:

Law Forces People To Ignore Violence

"And by chance there came down a certain priest . . . and a Levite . . . and looked on him, and passed by on the other side. But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him . . . and took care of him."—Luke's Gospel 11.

By WESLEY G. PIPPERT

CHICAGO (UPI)—A man in Pennsylvania heard a racket outside his window. He opened the window and saw about 20 youths trying to hammer their way into a car in which there were two girls and a young man.

He called police, but 10 minutes later they hadn't come.

The man fired a shotgun twice. The shots broke up the attack but police arrested him for aggravated assault and battery, and he was found guilty.

"When Kitty Genovese's neighbors read about this, what are they going to say?" asked University of Virginia law professor Charles Gregory Friday in citing the incident at a conference on the Good Samaritan.

"Probably the same thing the man is saying: 'No more helping anybody else in Denver—ever!' "

Gregory told of standing in line at the ticket window and seeing the agent give the customer back $10 in much change.

"All you have to do is speak," Gregory said. "But in doing so you make a fool of the agent and a knave of this customer.

"To what extent is one his brother's keeper?" Gregory asked. "Should you tell somebody his house may be one fire when you're not sure? Or that his car is illegally parked? Or his fly is open?

"Where do you draw the line?"

The University of Chicago and the Sentry Insurance Companies of Stevens Point, Wis., called the conference to discuss moral and legal implications of volunteering help—or failing to help—in dangerous situations.

Gregory cited what has been the classic example of non-involvement, the fatal attack on 28-year-old Katherine Genovese in New York City one year ago as 38 witnesses listened to her cries.

"What fundamentally underlies the reluctance of most people to help others in distress?" Gregory asked. "Probably the desire not to get involved, and the instinct to mind one's own business."

Gregory quoted anthropologist Margaret Mead as saying, "Our obsession with privacy has resulted in mass anonymity in our large cities—a dulling of our senses which kills neighborliness and caring about what happens to others."

"It is the opposite of the small town atmosphere, where everybody knows—and cares," Gregory said.

"But I do not see how we can legislate charity, altruism and courage — both physical and moral," Gregory said.

"Some things we can do," he said in citing possible widening of the area of immunity of rescuers from liability, and possible punishing of persons for failing to do something about situations with which their acts casually connect them.

"But if we do this generally, we embark on a line-drawing task that is delicate indeed," Gregory said. "Who is to judge what circumstances threaten danger to the rescuer—or when an undertaking is not 'onerous' to another?"

Law Professor Andre Tune of the University of Paris said France passed a law imposing a duty to rescue in 1941 after 50 hostages had been killed as a reprisal for the murder of a German officer.

"The conditions under which the punishment is incurred are reasonably clear," Tune said. "The person must be in danger and there must be a possibility of rescue." Tune said the law acts as "an incentive to everybody to behave like the Good Samaritan."

Ethical Atheists

Pair Shunned Lying To Gain Citizenship

By FRANK TUMPANE

TORONTO (TNS) — The case of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bergsma, the Dutch-born atheists denied citizenship because they refused to affirm a belief in God, has become intolerably embarrassing to all Canadians interested in fair play.

In the speech from the Throne, the Government announced changes in the immigration regulations, and I hope the first move will be to revise the law so that people like the Bergsmas may become Canadians without pretending adherence to a God in whom they do not believe.

A layer of sanctimonious hypocrisy accrues to these regulations. An immigrant like Ernest Bergsma declines as a matter of principle to take the oath of allegiance, which ends with the words, "so help me God." His notion is that he would make a liar of himself by pretending to believe in God simply to gain a benefit for himself. And, of course, he would.

The fact that Mr. and Mrs. Bergsma do not believe in God does not make God any less real. His existence is not diminished because of the fact that scores of thousands of native Canadians do not believe in Him. The difference between the case of the native Canadians and that of the Bergsmas is that the Bergsmas are asked to subscribe to a view they do not hold merely to attain citizenship.

Could Abandon Belief

Once naturalized, they could abandon the pretense of belief, just as a large number of Canadians have abandoned the pretense.

And the Bergsmas are manifestly decent, scrupulous and ethical people; they are the type who do not like to lie or to retreat from a principle for private gain.

Some of the most reputable and respected persons in this nation are atheists or agnostics; no one quarrels with their right to shun belief in a deity. Why should a distinction be drawn in the case of immigrants like the Bergsmas?

Canada as a sovereign country has a right to set its own standards of admission and to establish rules for acquiring citizenship. I do not believe that anybody who applies to come here should be admitted; as Canadians we have the right to say whom we want in this country; so has any other self-governing nation.

Atheism and agnosticism are not crimes in this country, nor is their profession any bar to full and complete enjoyment of all the rights of citizenship for all Canadians born in this country. And to require a prospective citizen to swear to the existence of a God whose existence he doubts or rejects seems to me to be an act of specious cant on our part.

Men have challenged God's existence for a very long time now—and still God is.

Mowatt Heads Optimist Club

Rev. Andrew Mowatt was elected president of the Victoria Optimist Club at recent elections.

They will take office July 1.

PROGRESS AGAINST CANCER

Twenty years ago, only four out of every ten cancer patients were alive five years after treatment started; today five out of ten survive. In certain types of cancer the record is even better. Four out of ten patients with cancer of the prostate, for example, now live at least five years after treatment, whereas 20 years ago only one out of ten did. Research, education and improved treatment, all promoted by the Canadian Cancer Society, have contributed to such successes. Support the Canadian Cancer Society's appeal for funds.

City Pays Tribute To 'Army'

"The Salvation Army's 25,400 officers are laboring 'with heart to God and hand to man' in 69 countries for the betterment of mankind and the alleviation of the needs of the less fortunate," states the proclamation.

"Now know ye that by and with the advice of the council of our city, we do proclaim Saturday, April 10, 1965 as Salvation Army Day in Victoria that all persons be encouraged to give special thought and attention to the principles, purposes and achievements of the Salvation Army."

In House of Commons

All Faiths Pay Tribute To Salvation Army

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Commons Friday paid glowing tribute to the 100-year-old Salvation Army with desk-thumping applause and praise from all parties.

Canadian commander of the army of the church, Commissioner Edgar Grinsted sat with other high-ranking officers in a gallery above the Commons as the unusual tribute was paid on the centennial of the force.

PEACEFUL WORK

Speaker Alan MacNaughton, a member of the Anglican Church, opened the praise with:

"In these days when we so frequently hear proposals for the establishment of armies of an international or multilateral character it is very easy to forget that there has been in existence for no less than 100 years a world army whose peaceful activities now extend to 70 nations of the world."

The Army's "unselfish and untiring service and dedication to God and man," said United Church member Prime Minister Pearson, "has left the whole world a better place."

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, a Baptist, praised the contribution of the Army "in all parts of the world, in war and in peace, in spreading God's message to the poor and afflicted."

Offering similar praise were New Democratic Leader Douglas and Social Credit Leader Thompson.

"We all know of the magnificent work performed by the Salvation Army in many fields," said Creditiste Leader Caouette, a Roman Catholic.

Unitarians Plan Viet Nam Talks

A public meeting to discuss The Facts About Viet Nam has been organized by the Victoria Unitarian Church for 8 p.m. Sunday in the Optimist Hall, 106 Superior.

Before general discussion, an outline of the situation will be given by W. T. Lawson, city social worker.

"There is a very strong possibility that the war being fought by the Americans in Viet Nam may escalate into war with China," said Mr. Lawson.

ATOMIC WEAPONS

"If this happens, the whole world will be involved, and atomic weapons will almost certainly be used."

At the meeting, Mr. Lawson will discuss the background of the war, the situation as it is today, and the charges of agression from the north made in the American White Paper and in the Canadian minority report of the International Control Commission.

City Plans For UBCM Convention

The influx to Victoria in September of several hundred delegates to the Union of B.C. Municipalities annual convention was the subject of a city hall conference Friday.

Mayor Wilson and the reeves of the adjacent municipalities, along with municipal officials, conferred as to program, accommodation and entertainment for the delegates.

A number of committees were named to carry preparations further.

Dedication Set At Hospital

Book of Remembrance dedication services take place at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Chapel of Saint Michael and Saint Luke, Veterans' Hospital.

The book, containing the names of more than 2,000 veteran-patients of the hospital who "have gone to their rest" since it opened in 1947, will be dedicated by Canon George Biddle.

Church Services

Royal Roads Cadets To Parade in City

The Officer Cadets of the Canadian Services College Royal Roads will parade Sunday in downtown Victoria — the first such parade in six years.

At 12:15 p.m. the officer cadets will form up at the corner of Quadra and Rockland and parade with the band of HMCS Naden down Quadra Street to Fort, west on Fort to Blanshard, north on Blanshard to Johnson, east on Johnson, with breakoff between Quadra and Blanshard.

Mayor R. B. Wilson will take the salute at Pioneer Square, on Quadra between Rockland and Fort.

Anglicans Will Sponsor

Boys' Group Home

A group home for disturbed boys who can not be adequately helped in their own or in foster homes is going to be established in Victoria by the diocesan council for social service of the Anglican Church.

A campaign for $35,000 to establish Saint Chad's Home for Boys has been started with members of the Anglican communion.

NOT RESTRICTED

"The home, however, will not be restricted to Anglicans and will be open to boys from any part of the Island," said A. G. F. Sutton, honorary secretary of the council.

The lieutenant-governor and the Archbishop of British Columbia have consented to be patrons of the project.

The church has moved to answer a need outlined repeatedly by social welfare and juvenile delinquency study committee reports.

EIGHT BOYS

"We want to do something quite practical to help," said Mr. Sutton.

The home will accommodate eight boys between the age of 8 and 14 who cannot be successfully handled in present facilities. Saint Chad's "will simulate as near as possible the intimate life of an ordinary family."

The church council is working in close co-operation on the project with the Family and Children's Service, Victoria.

THE ANSWER TO CANCER

The Canadian Cancer Society maintains that only through research can the cancer problem be completely solved. Almost half of society moneys, collected during its April campaign, goes to the National Cancer Institute of Canada — its professional affiliate — to support cancer research projects in many parts of Canada. A donation to the Canadian Cancer Society will help hasten the solution to one of the most difficult problems faced by modern medicine.

STAN DELAPLANE Takes You Abroad

"We are a young coupe. Not much money. Hobby, painting. Vacation hopes, France. How to do it cheapest way please?"

Icelandic Airlines, New York City, is the only bronco, cut-rate airline. The town you want is Honfleur on the Normandy coast. About three hours by train from Paris. Get in a pension (boarding house with meals). Or try a hotel there called Le Chat Noir. And get pension rates.

This is a wonderful old seaside town. Cobbled streets. Old stone fortress buildings. (All the French explorers of North America sailed from here.) Wonderful stone harbor full of fishing boats. Great sea food. And fairly inexpensive for France.

For transportation along the coast, rent bikes. To cut still further, this part of the coast — they call it "the green coast" — is full of campgrounds where you pay a very small fee.

"Can you tell me if a young Negro couple will run into problems in Europe?"

As near as I can see, you don't find any discrimination in Europe. With an occasional exception in England—and that in feeling rather than action. However, these things can be pretty subtle and I really don't know. I would like to be told by someone who has done it.

I paid 35 cents a day in Ireland three years ago. About $1 a day in France two years ago. That might give you an idea. However, these were ordinary bikes. Not the multi-gear touring bikes.

Friend of mine who biked in Europe suggests buying one — for not less than $30—and shipping it home. That's a three-speed bike. Four is better with Alpine gears. You should buy about $15 worth of public liability and loss insurance.

Your best maps are from Michelin (the French tire company). They give you the steepness of grades in little arrow symbols. You can avoid pumping up steeper hills. And here's a good address where you can get routing, cheaper hotels, restaurants, etc.—Federation de Cyclotourisme at 66 Rue Rene Boulanger, Paris 10. There's a small membership fee.

Better ride a bike for a month before you go to Europe. Or you'll spend half your vacation nursing aching muscles you didn't know were there.

"What clothing to wear in Nassau, please?"

The Carribean and British outposts particularly are dressy. Sports clothing but dressy. It isn't the casual muumuu or aloha shirt dressing you find in Hawaii.

"We will be touring Japan. Is there a way to go to a real geisha party?"

Kyoto is the best town and the traditional home of the geisha schools. Your hotel should be able to set this up for you. Most local tours have a sort of sanitized geisha party. But why not have your own?

You get a room at a tea house—a machiai. Have the hotel reserve it and have dinner. Have them book a couple of geishas—they come from a central casting agency. You get the dinner. The girls dance. Make conversation with the latest jokes and giggle and sing. About $30 per person for a first-class evening.

Yes, you can take your wife.

"Once you mentioned the cats of Rome. Where do you see them?"

Roman cats date back so far that no one knows where they started. They don't belong to anybody. But people come down and feed them. You'll find dozens of them in the evening around the Colosseum. Lots of them around the Pantheon—my choice because there's a nice outdoor cafe across the piazza where you can sit and drink a capuccino.

"We want to hold a Tahitian party. What is the custom of flowers behind the ear?"

French Campaign

Smiles Counter Tourism Decline

PARIS (AP) — French officials have inaugurated a "campaign of smiles" to welcome tourists to France.

Worried by a steady decline in tourism, tourists' complaints about service and gripes about high prices, Pierre Dumas, state secretary for tourism, organized the campaign with help from stage, screen and sports stars and enthusiastic encouragement from hotel keepers and restaurateurs.

WELCOMES SET

"Foreign tourists who arrive in Nice with plans to travel across France will be welcomed with carnations," Dumas announced. "Tourists coming to Orly at Paris who plan to sojourn for several days in the country will be greeted with roses and perfume."

The new campaign also calls for the 10,000th visitor this year to be greeted with a gift of a sweater, the 20,000th visitor with a large bottle of fine French perfume and the 100,000th with a dress from a famous Paris fashion house or men's attire from a men's store in the capital.

Tourists also will receive numbered "smile" cards that they can turn in with their own comments on the quality of service and welcome they encountered during their vacations in France, Dumas said.

The Frenchmen who gain the most votes for having furnished good welcomes will be entered in a draw to be made in December. The winner will get a new car.

Egypt Curious About Atoms

French Prefer Fortune Tellers

PARIS — The French have very little use for psychiatrists —they prefer fortunetellers.

Paris reportedly has one fortuneteller for every 800 people, which is twice its number of doctors, five times its number of priests and 50 times its number of psychiatrists.

Fortunetelling is actually forbidden by law and condemned by the Roman Catholic Church in France, but more than 500,000 practicing astrologers, palmists and mediums have no trouble doing a half-billion-dollar business a year.

"In France," says a leading astrologer, "everyone knows the psychoanalysts are sicker than the patients." Being a less clinical and more romantic people, the French prefer the occult, he says.

One of the most popular places for fortunetellers in Paris is the Pigalle area, where prostitution is also rife. This is no accident, according to Patrice Boussel, author of a guide to Paris fortunetellers.

"Both trades offer solace to the lonely and misunderstood. Everyone . . . likes to be the centre of interest. Prostitutes and fortunetellers boost the ego," Boussel says.

As QORs Take Up Tasks

Birds Chirp, Guns Silent

By DON GAIN
Colonist Military Reporter

NICOSIA—The crow of a rooster has replaced the rattle of machine gun fire in Cyprus, as members of the Queen's Own Rifles from Victoria pursue the daily tasks of the United Nations Peace Force.

"It can't stay this quiet, but nobody really knows what will happen," say many observers of affairs in this sometime peaceful land.

Chirping of birds rather than the sound of civil war accompanies the work of more than 700 soldiers flown here from Victoria this week and last.

Queen's Own Alpha company at Troodos Road camp began work this week in sight of distant mountains across Mesaoria Plain.

Charlie company, near Dikomo got ready to send supplies to outposts by helicopter, and to escort convoys between Nicosia and Kyrenia.

Battalion headquarters, located near the working companies, is co-ordinating the whole operation.

It has been tranquil here for many weeks. There is little sign of war to the observer. He sees the pale sun rise, splashing dull light over minarets, giving faint warmth to Greek Cypriot merchants unshuttering shops, and Turkish Cypriot shepherds in the lush green hills.

Flags of many countries fly in Cyprus, as United Nations troops work near President Makarios' two palaces and Vice-President Kuchuk's grand house.

One William Clarkson told the British Columbian that he had paid $100 for government land (2 acres) and $257 for raising a crop of 34,000 pounds of potatoes which he sold for $980, making a profit for the year of $323.

"Show me any country that can beat that, he wrote."

Tatler Quitting

LONDON (CP)—The Tatler, a 64-year-old society magazine, will cease publication in September and be replaced by a more modern-minded journal called London Life, The Evening Standard reports.

Windfall 'Surprised Us All'

TORONTO (CP) — A vice-president of a brokerage firm that helped finance Windfall Oils and Mines Limited said Friday he was surprised when Windfall shares more than doubled in price in one day last July.

Terrence O'Rourke, vice-president and head of sales for Moss, Lawson and Company Limited, said that when he heard from his staff Monday, July 6, that Windfall would open at about $1 on the Toronto Stock Exchange, he sold short and advised some of his clients to do the same.

The stock had closed the previous Friday at 56 cents and opened at $1.01 on the Monday.

"Everybody was surprised when the stock took off," Mr. O'Rourke told a royal commission investigating the rise of Windfall shares to $5.60 from 56 cents and its collapse to 80 cents between July 6 and July 31.

"I was a seller myself. I heard they had started drilling on the Thursday and knew there couldn't be any results that soon. I advised some of my clients to sell short."

A short-seller gambles that the price of a stock will decrease. He sells stock he does not own in the hopes he can buy it back later at a lower price and thus make a profit.

Mr. O'Rourke said he saw Viola MacMillan, Windfall's promoter and wife of company president George MacMillan, July 6 and she told him some Windfall core was out for assay and results were expected in the next day or two.

"She said the hole compared with type of rock pulled from Texas Gulf. She also said the Windfall core had some visible gold in it which encouraged George MacMillan."

The first Windfall assay was not released until July 30. There were no commercial values in it and the stock plunged to below the $1 mark.

A core pulled by Texas Gulf Sulphur Company near Timmins, Ont., was one of the richest ever taken in Canada and led to the discovery of a $2,000,000,000 copper-silver-zinc orebody.

Esquimalt Show

All the Cats Will Be There

Almost everyone who is anyone in the cat world is expected to be at the Esquimalt Sports Centre, April 24 and 25.

Guests will include Clackamas-Heights Bo-bo, daughter of Clackamas-Heights Maggie and Clackamas-Heights Fritzie; King's Prince Sundance of Rio Vista; Social and Welfare; Jada Fha of Yaquina and Fantasiee Kelie.

Other expected guests are Manditur, Micha, Rebel, Whiskey Bill and Marsha, as well as Madame Nhu, Madame Phloi and Kannika.

ANNUAL EVENT

They and about 200 other cats from the Pacific Northwest, Western Canada and the United States will converge on the Sports Centre for the second annual Quadruple International Championship Cat Show.

Other breeds taking part in the show are Russian Blues, Burmese, Abyssinians, Manx (cat from the Isle of Man with no tail), Himalayans, domestic short hairs, Persians, Siamese seal points, blue points, chocolate points, frost points, lilac points and red points; and Rex, a new breed, grey with a velvet coat, long thin tail, mule-like ears and a charming disposition.

Sponsored by the Victoria Cat Club, an affiliate of the American Cat Fanciers Association, the show will be judged by Wayne Park of California, Mrs. Kathleen Penny of Burnaby, Mrs. Rosamund Flynn of California and Mrs. Peggy Churchill of Seattle.

Scoring will be according to the ACFA point system.

Harry Bridges President Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Bridges was re-elected Friday as president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (Ind.).

J. R. Robertson was re-elected vice-president and Louis Goldblatt secretary-treasurer.

On March 7, 1865 a resident of New Westminster complained in the British Columbian that free men worked 10 hours daily to make a living but convicts were worked only six to eight hours daily, in good weather. "The chain gang is the best place in the winter, in this country," he said.

We're testing Canada's great Gold Keg Beer in England. On Englishmen.

And smiled.

John Montrose, like many a Middlesex man, is normally cool and reserved.

But when he took his first sip of Canada's own Gold Keg Beer his face lit up and he said, "Very good indeed!"

Mr. Montrose is one of scores of Englishmen who are participating in Operation Gold Keg. (We're testing Gold Keg in the pubs of England, to see if it's as good as we think it is.)

Results have been astonishingly favourable.

Twenty City Students To Travel to Quebec

Twenty Greater Victoria high school students will travel to Levis, Que., this summer for a week-long stay with residents of that city.

Grant Aid Offered Authors

There is new hope for struggling authors.

As part of the Centennial of Confederation program, individuals and associations will be able to get grants of up to $5,000 for assistance in writing and publishing books.

LITERARY LEGACY

The Centennial Commission Publications Assistance Program has been set up to encourage the production of books so that the public may be more aware of how the modern Canada came into being, and to leave a literary legacy for the future.

To receive a grant, the applicant must be: a resident of Canada since 1962; able to demonstrate the value of the book; able to show his ability; and preferably have a commitment from a Canadian publishing firm.

The subject matter of the book must also be Canadian.

Law Orders Clean Nails

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — A bill requiring restaurant employees to "keep their fingernails well trimmed and clean" was passed Thursday by the Iowa senate.

The iron steamer Fidelster and the sternwheeler Alexandra collided off Clover Point, Victoria June 18, 1925, and Fidelster broke in half and sank. But all 25 passengers were saved. Alexandra was beached and later repaired.

meet our little 9½

it's the biggest mover we've got

Take a good look. This is the motor that's putting a new slant on fishing. The Evinrude 9½. When we introduced it last year, it caught on so well, demand exceeded our supply. It's that popular.

The Evinrude 9½ is loaded with big motor features; like full gear shift, fuel pump, thermostat-controlled cooling. There's a shock absorber prop. It's salt water corrosion resistant with a stainless steel drive shaft and sealed pivot bearings.

And talk about go!

The lightweight Evinrude 9½ planes fishing boats along at a 20 mile an hour clip. Yet it trolls at a snail's pace. It's quiet. But then all Evinrudes are.

Storage problems? Forget them. The Evinrude 9½ leaves so much extra trunk space, you'll wonder how to fill it up. It's only 34 inches from top to skeg and it's easy to lift.

Here's the outboard that 'out-angles' the anglers. Sixteen tilt positions suit this fabulous little performer to any water condition. The handle has two tilt-up positions for use when you want to troll standing up or when the motor is tilted.

You'll have to act fast to get a new Evinrude 9½. They really move. Ask your local Evinrude dealer.

All new Evinrudes use a 50-1 gas/oil mixture. It increases engine life, saves wear and expense.

Check your local dealer (in the Yellow Pages) about the 15 great Evinrude outboards for '65, 3 to 90 h.p. ONLY stern drive power—90, 120, and 190 h.p.

Sleaver's Last-Period Goals Bring Totems Here Tonight

By GEORGE GIBSON
(Colonist Staff Writer)

SEATTLE—Victoria Maple Leafs refuse to be counted out in the Western Hockey League semi-final series with Seattle. They beat the Totems, 3-1, here last night to force a sixth game in Victoria's Memorial Arena tonight.

Seattle still holds the upper hand in the best-of-seven series, however, with a 3-2 edge but if Leafs can come up with a repeat of last night's game, it will be back to Seattle Sunday night with the winner to play Portland for the whole ball of wax.

Victoria scored early and late to sink Totems last night. They got the first and last goals and a big one that put them ahead, 2-1, in the first minute of the third period.

John Sleaver, Victoria's standout performer, got the two third-period goals to win it. His first came at 50 seconds on a clever play with linemate Gordie Redahl and the second at the 19-minute mark on a breakaway.

Most of the rest of the third period was spent fighting off the pressing Seattle club. Victoria's efforts were handicapped by the continuing spate of penalties and what looked like a serious injury to goalie Al Millar.

Millar came out to stop Gerry Brisson on a breakaway and after stealing the puck, twisted his back as he fell and lay sprawled on the ice as the puck, Brisson and Victoria defenceman Fred Hucul swept past him into the boards.

Millar, after quick medication, staggered to his feet and played the rest of the period despite a severe bruise and pulled muscle in his back. He made two point-blank saves right after that on Ray Kinasewich and his gritty play seemed to inspire his mates.

Millar is expected to play tonight but if he is unable to play, the league's stand-by goalie, Jean Guy Morrisette, 25-year-old New York Rangers' farmhand, will play for Leafs.

QUICK START

Victoria scored first, on a power-play that was to be one of four in the first period that kept the Seattle defenders on edge.

PENALTY-KILLERS SHINE

Victoria had to contend with a manpower shortage before Seattle tied the score on a rising shot by Jean Marie Cossette at 15:30 of the second period.

At one stage, the Leafs were shorthanded for almost five minutes. But they survived only to have their opponents score after a brief stretch in which Victoria was short two players.

Claude Labrosse hooked Brisson and was sent off at 9:54. He returned to the ice when his time was up but Victoria was caught with too many men on the ice when Labrosse made a motion to head for the bench, then changed his mind.

ROLLIE FOOLED

Wilcox leaped over the boards and the linesman's quick head count resulted in another Victoria penalty at 12:10.

Just 12 seconds later, Leaf defenceman Bill Shvetz was caught slashing Guyle Fielder as Seattle roared over the blueline on a power play.

The Hucul brothers, Sleaver and Millar did a standout job holding off the Totems, who had one real chance, a sliding shot from Bob Sabourin that Millar easily smothered, in the minute and 48 seconds.

UNMARKED

Sleaver put Leafs ahead with the winner just 50 seconds after the third period started. He brought the puck up centre ice, passed over to Redahl, then tore in on left wing to convert the return pass.

Leafs struggled through three more penalties in the middle part of the period, Millar's injury, then had a manpower advantage themselves when Mo Mantha was penalized for tripping Larry Keenan.

BREATHE EASIER

Seattle still carried the play as Leafs tired but Shvetz got in front of Gord Sinclair's shot from the point and Sleaver trapped the bouncing puck. He, Lou Jankowski and Redahl all broke away in the clear and Sleaver kept the puck, pulled McLeod out and scored on an open cage.

They'll Remember Rudy As Immaculately Alert

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League probably will have convulsions but coaches in the Stanley Cup playoffs could stand up in full view of the crowd and television audience, give the choke - up sign to game officials and get away with it. There's a precedent.

HE WAS READY

It happened during the 1950 Montreal Canadiens - Chicago Black Hawks semi-final at the Chicago Stadium. And coach Rudy Pilous of the Hawks, who flashed what certainly appeared to be the sign to referee Red Storey, had a built-in alibi.

Why, shucks, said Rudy, "I was straightening my bow tie. That wasn't a choke-up signal."

He went on to explain "there's a rule in the NHL that says our coaches have to look immaculate behind the bench."

"So what's wrong with a guy fixing his tie?"

AND MAD, TOO

There's little doubt that Rudy, now coaching Victoria Maple Leafs of the Western League, was sizzling at the time. He thought Junior Langlois of the Canadiens should have been given a penalty for dumping Bobby Hull and he let everybody know it.

That was the famous game, won 5-4 by Canadiens, that put them into the final and prompted Campbell to say Storey "from". The referee promptly resigned because "the league president didn't back me up."

Campbell could look at the films until he strained his eyes but, based on the Pilous exhibition, he'd have a tough time slapping a fine on a coach if the coach came up with the tie-straightening explanation.

Pilous got away with it and the case was closed when Campbell wrote a letter to Chicago owner Jim Norris.

Here's Pilous' version:

"Mr. Norris initialled it and passed it on to (general manager) Tommy Ivan. Tommy initialled it and passed it on to me." And then?

"Shucks, I initialled it, too," Rudy said.

None of the current coaches—Punch Imlach of the Leafs, Toe Blake of Canadiens, Billy Reay of the Hawks and Sid Abel of Detroit Red Wings—wear bow ties. But this isn't necessary apparel to hide a choke-up sign.

Any old tie will do.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus slammed out sub-par rounds in gusty winds Friday and forged into a tie with South Africa's Gary Player at 138 for the 36-hole lead in the Masters golf tournament.

Palmer, recapturing the putting and chipping touch that carried him to a record four Masters crowns, delighted his followers with a four-under-par 68.

The six-foot, 210-pound Nicklaus surged, fell back and spurted again for a 71 in the closing of a long, generally frustrating day.

STEADY BOUND

Palmer, the defending champion, and Nicklaus, the 4-1 favorite, were two of a small handful able to crack the par 72, 6,980 - yard monster that turned into a kitten on opening day.

Palmer alone was in the 60s and was one of four able to beat par. Australian Kel Nagle had a 70 for 145, Nicklaus and Bobby Nichols, each 71. Eight others equalled par.

FACE WIND

The big, broad course was swept with winds that hit gusts of 30 miles an hour, lightning fast greens and pins tucked into hazardous corners.

It was a vast contrast to Thursday's opening rounds in which a record 33 players in the original international field broke par and 44 were par or better.

Just one shot back at 139 was a tough tournament regular, Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., who fired a par 72. Another stroke away was Tony Lema, in fifth place at 140 after a 73.

Amateur Nick Weslock of Toronto had a 76 to total 156, amateur Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., a 79 for a 154 and professional Stan Leonard of Vancouver 84 for 155. All were cut off from the final stages.

"It was a different course today," said Palmer. "The wind was tricky and on some holes—the 15th, for instance—the wind was dead in your face. This made it a gamble to go for the green."

Palmer was a master with his putter and chipping iron, and Arnie's Army, cheering and stomping over the course, was never in a happier frame.

He sank an 18-foot putt on the first hole, chipped to within a foot at the second and pitched 40 feet into the cup at the third.

After three-putting the fifth, he played even pars to the 13th. On three of the back nine holes he chipped to within less than a foot—twice six inches—after missing the green and he sank a six-footer for his bird at the 15th.

BIG START

Nicklaus looked as if he intended to take the course apart and run away with the lead when he turned in 34, two under par.

But he ran into a streak of bad luck, starting at the 11th, before he braked his fall and finished with back-to-back birdies at the 15th and 16th.

At the 11th, Nicklaus hit his second into the tall grass wide of the green and chipped poorly, taking a five. A bad chip, 20 feet short, cost him another stroke at the 12th and at the long 13th he took a six when he chipped 12 feet short and missed the putt.

Jack birdied the 15th after reaching the green with a booming drive and an iron shot and leaving an eagle 15-foot putt on the lip of the cup. On the 16th, he put his tee shot 3½ feet from the cup.

The field was reduced to the low 44 and ties for the final two rounds but any player within 10 shots of the lead was allowed to continue.

All players with scores of 148 or better qualified. Forty-nine made it.

Old-Feller Snead Steams Off Angry

AUGUSTA (UPI) — Sammy Snead's jaw muscles contracted into a thin hard line and anyone who couldn't see he was angry simply wasn't looking.

"I feel like burning my clubs, steamed the 52-year-old West Virginian, who only last Sunday had scoffed that "these young fellers aren't ready" after winning the Greensboro Open.

NOT THAT MAD

Since Snead has never been reckless with a buck, he immediately thought better of his rash idea and ordered his caddy to bring them out to the trunk of his car.

Less than 20 minutes previously, Snead had missed an uphill 12-foot putt on the 18th green by six inches and that meant he would not be among those who will tee off for the final two rounds of the masters today and tomorrow.

"Disappointed?" he said. "You bet I am. Who wouldn't be? I should have made it easy but my driving killed me the first day and my putting finished the job the second day."

What hurt most was the fact he missed the cut by only one stroke. It took a 36-hole total of 148 to qualify and Snead, who won the masters in 1949, 1952 and 1954, came in with 149 after his opening round 75 and his 74 yesterday.

Snead was so angry with himself and disgusted clear through that he didn't even want to talk any more about golf.

Boys 15 and 16 still not registered for baseball have another chance to line up with Victoria Colt League teams this weekend. Workouts and registrations will be held at Topaz Park Saturday (10 a.m. to 2 p.m.) and Sunday (1 to 3 p.m.).

Leafs Just Knew

Toronto Got the Word

Toronto Maple Leafs had a "premonition they would eventually win" Thursday's National Hockey League Stanley Cup semi-final playoff game against Montreal Canadiens, coach Punch Imlach said Friday.

"I didn't hammer anything specific at them between the second and third periods," he said. "But what else could you expect? They'd thrown everything at Johnny Bower and couldn't score."

Imlach paid credit "to the guys who came off the bench in the third period" — rookie-centre Pete Stemkowski and veterans Dickie Moore and Ron Stewart.

"Nothing can stop us now," said the Toronto coach, who had predicted that his club would win it if they could get to 2-2 on Toronto ice in the third and fourth games.

Tonight's Stanley Cup game from Montreal may be seen on Channels 2 and 6, starting at 5:20 p.m., according to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Over their bitter disappointment at losing a game they should have won on Thursday night, Canadiens were buoyed up by the fact that they have the home-ice edge in what has become a best-of-three series.

Coach Toe Blake was still moaning a bit about "some stupid penalties" but admitted that what made the difference was Canadiens' inability to cash in on their scoring chances in the second period, "when we should have had five or six goals."

With Charlie Hodge still "too weak" to risk, Canadiens will again put Gump Worsley in goal and have called up Red Berenson from Quebec Aces. The speedy forward will be used for spot duty, Blake said.

Chicago Balck Hawks and Detroit Red Wings, also tied 2-2 in their semifinal, resume hostilities tomorrow night in Detroit.

Island Ski Honors At Stake Tomorrow

Vancouver Island ski championships will be held at Green Mountain tomorrow, with slalom races starting at 11 a.m. and downhill races at 1 p.m.

Friday it was reported there is four inches of new snow on a 76-in. base and snow conditions are good. Two tows are running and the road is clear to the parking lot, with a snowmobile running to the lodge.

Green Mountain Sno-Birds Ski Club will donate $250 to the Canadian national ski team, to help defray expenses incurred by each member of the team over the past year.

Money will be raised the next two weekends from tow and cabin receipts on Green Mountain. There will also be a collection box for private donations at the lodge.

McNeill in Romp As Most Valuable

Centre Billy McNeill couldn't lead Vancouver Canucks into the Western Hockey League final but there was no doubt in the minds of his playing rivals as to who was the most valuable player to his team this season.

In balloting which produced a surprise only in the margin of victory, McNeill outdistanced Portland's Pat Stapleton almost 2-1, gaining 242 points to 124 for the runner-up.

Guyle Fielder of Seattle and Charlie Burns of San Francisco pressed Stapleton for second place, with 119 and 110 points, respectively.

MILAN TOP LEAF

Surprisingly well down in the voting were Art Jones and Andy Hebenton of Portland, with 35 and nine points, respectively, and goalkeeper Al Millar of Victoria, who received only 23 points.

Four other Victoria players received points. John Sleaver had five, Sandy Hucul four, Larry Keenan three and Lou Jankowski three.

But, naturally, the top honors of the evening were taken by Mickey Mantle, who became the first player to hit a home run under complete cover. (See story on Page 15.)

British Soccer Purists Scoff At Points-for-Goals Formula

By JIM CONWAY

LONDON (CP)—A management committee's proposals for rule changes in British soccer have been greeted with cries of "folly" and "hilarious"—but they are gaining support all the same.

"I feel certain the scheme in some form will be passed by the clubs this summer," says Brian Jones, Daily Mail football writer, of the plan for the new "bonus scoring" system.

The formula would allow one-quarter point for each goal scored in a game plus points for winning and tying. Thus a 4-1 victory would mean three points to the winner and a quarter of a point to the loser.

The plan arises from long-standing attempts to pep up the 92-team, four - division professional football league in which at present two points are given for a win and one point for a draw.

Attendance has dropped in the last few years, mainly the result of competition from sports programs on television and the growing participation in amateur sports.

The committee maintains that teams under the proposed system would have more incentive to attack and score as many goals as they can instead of playing with a safe lead, making for dull, defensive football.

"HILARIOUS"

"Hilarious," was the comment of Freddie Cox, third-division Gillingham's manager. "Whoever thought of this scheme has obviously never played the game. Shortage of goals doesn't make a dull game."

Alan Stock, manager of Gillingham's division-mate Queen's Park Rangers, was enthusiastic: "Something like this must come if football is to stay a game that fans can recognize."

WORTH CONSIDERING

"This suggestion in itself may not be the answer, but it is worth thinking about," said fourth-division Brighton's manager, Archie Macauley, who says fans are staying away from ordinary league matches because of too much emphasis on defensive play.

Sports writer Bill Holden said in The Daily Mirror: "The Football League's latest bright-idea answer to soccer's problem is folly.

BASKETBALL?

"Instead it would result in chaos—a farcical reversal of the present situation. It could produce basketball style results on the lines of 25-20."

Other committee proposals were greeted with more warmth, including the suggestion that a substitute be allowed for an injured player. This has been urged for a long time.

ALL AGREED

The idea that pleases almost everyone is the extension of the playing season by an extra month. This would mean fixtures could be played from August to the end of May, allowing more time for rest and training between games in Britain for teams competing in European and world tournaments.

New Zealand Has Troubles

New Zealand lost the first Test and drew the second.

Classified Swim

Friday, Yonkers Raceway announced that one had been found, near Kennedy International Airport, and that Pacing Lawn, an Australian entry in next Thursday's $100,000 International Pace, is going to use it.

Swimming is part of the training routine for Pacing Lawn, who takes on three other Australian horses and four from the U.S. His 10-or 12-minute dip is scheduled for Tuesday.

Famed Houston Dome Lets In Too Much Sun

HOUSTON — Houston's $31,600,000 domed stadium may be an engineering marvel and it was ready for the opening of the National League baseball season but until engineers have found the solution for one unexpected problem, the Astros and their opponents will be on an all-night schedule.

The Astros, who officially unveiled the stadium last night in an exhibition game against New York Yankees, discovered the unlooked-for flaw in intra-squad games on Thursday.

LOSE FLY BALLS

The one played in the evening was just perfect but the afternoon affair brought dismay to club officials and builders. Players discovered that fly balls hit as high as 100 feet couldn't be seen. The glare of the sun shining through the lucite panels and light-colored girders was just too much.

Warren Giles, National League president, authorized use of three different colored baseballs in an effort to offset the glare. The Astros tried orange, yellow and cerise balls yesterday, and it didn't make any difference.

"We tried the orange ball and coach Nellie Fox said they were worse than the white ones," Houston manager Luman Harris said. "We tried the other two and we're not going to use any of these balls. We won't use any-more unless they come up with something new."

Roy Hofheinz, builder of the stadium, was hopeful that a solution could be found. Experts are considering the use of special glasses or the painting of the huge dome. Or maybe just not playing day games.

"Yellow balls, orange balls, striped balls, you still won't be able to get it," Harris said. "Just blacken the dome, use a synthetic grass and forget it. That's the only way."

Tonight Is Deadline For Tenpin Bonspiel

Tonight is the deadline for entries in the second annual Vancouver Island Tenpin Bonspiel, co-sponsored by The Daily Colonist and Mayfair Lanes and scheduled for Mayfair Lanes next weekend.

Total entry had reached 93 teams as of last night, 13 more than took part in the inaugural event. Teams will bowl for approximately $2,000 worth of prizes, including a guaranteed $1,240 in cash, and all are assured of having to lose twice before being eliminated from prize contention.

First draw has been scheduled for 10:30 Friday morning and play will continue through Saturday and Sunday until finals have been reached. Finals will be played on Monday night, April 19, with the prize presentations and a wind-up party to follow immediately.

Two Champs Return To Defend Pin Trophy

Bud and Donna Brock, who combined with Marvin and Shirley Moore to win top honors last season, are back for a second try at the Colonist Trophy and the $400 in cash which goes to the big winner in the Vancouver Island Fivepin Bonspiel.

Entered again as the Dams, the Brocks this time will have Rick Cool and Don Corbett as the other team members. And they will bowl each three-game match this time with a handicap of 73 instead of the 424 they had last season.

THREE TRY AGAIN

Entry of the Dams brings to three the number of prize-winning teams from the inaugural event which are going to try again.

Shamrocks, runners-up in the Gar's Trophies event last season, and Counters, runners-up in the Gibson's event, are both back with only one lineup change.

Pius and Mary Scherr and Paul Redchurch will have Michael instead of Eileen Scherr on the Shamrocks and Counters will go with Eva Nelson instead of Sena Guest to complete a lineup which again includes Fred Nelson and Harry and Amy Smith.

VERSATILE TRIO

Latest entries, boosting the total to more than 20 teams, includes the first of an assured large up-Island entry and includes three bowlers who will first take part in the Vancouver Island Tenpin Bonspiel, scheduled at Mayfair Lanes next weekend.

Mickey and Etta Rubynuk and Marg Wilkinson, who will bowl with Joe Frehlick in the tenpin event as the Chemainus Jems, have joined forces with Leonard Wilkinson to enter the fivepin bonspiel as the Double-URs.

STARTS APRIL 30

They will start play, along with other visiting teams, at Gibson's Recreations on Saturday, May 1. Victoria-area teams will start the bonspiel on the previous Friday evening.

Teams will bowl through the day on Saturday and Sunday, May 1 and 2, until the semi-finalists have been declared in each of the three events. Semi-finals and finals are scheduled for Saturday evening, May 8.

At stake are $1,900 worth of prizes, including a guaranteed cash prize fund of $1,000.

Winner of the Colonist event receives $400 in cash, the defeated finalist $200 and the defeated semi-finalists $100 each. Winner of Gibson's event receives $200 in cash and there are valuable merchandise prizes for all other semi-finalists.

Teams, who will have a handicap based on 80 per cent of the difference between the combined team average and the team scratch of 900, are all assured of a minimum of three three-game matches.

Entry fee is $2.50 per bowler ($10 per team), with bowling to be paid, as matches are played, at the regular lineage fee of $1.10. All fivepin bowlers, both male and female, who had played a minimum of 21 games in scheduled league play by March are eligible. Highest average as of March 20 is to be used in computing handicaps.

Entry forms are available at Gibson's Recreations and must be received, complete with a minimum deposit of $2.50, by April 24.

Aussies Face Tougher Task

British Guiana had a second innings total of 284. The Australians, set a victory target of 293, were 20 for one wicket at close of play on the third day of the four-day match.

Next Is Last Says Cassius

Clay, scheduled to meet Liston May 25 in Boston, told Los Angeles radio station KNX in a taped interview:

"I just may retire right after the Liston fight. I have so many things going for me."

What if Clay should lose?

"If he wins I probably would retire too," said Clay. "But I don't think he will."

In Hockey Hassle

Pearson Lends His Support

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson yesterday said the Canadian government is using "diplomatic channels" to help get six National Hockey League players over to Austria to show Europeans how the Canadian game is played at its best.

But officials in the external affairs department, who carry out such diplomatic chores, haven't heard anything about it.

Former NHL player Larry Regan wants to take Gordie Howe, Alex Delvecchio, and Marcel Pronovost of the Detroit Red Wings and Terry Sawchuk, Tim Horton and Ron Stewart of the Toronto Maple Leafs to Innsbruck to conduct a hockey clinic.

International Ice Hockey Federation president J. F. "Bunny" Ahearne has threatened to ban all future hockey under IIHF sponsorship at any rinks in which the clinic is conducted.

Regan also saw the prime minister and Liberal backbencher Joseph Greene (Renfrew South).

The situation made Greene hopping mad. He asked Pearson today if the government planned any action to allow Europeans to see "the finest hockey players in the world—Canadians of the National Hockey League."

Set Practice

A General Motors Value

This is it!

(the Tough Little Car from General Motors)

Keeping some small cars tuned up and running right can become a full-time job. You need plenty of patience, good service and lots of luck. Not so with the Tough Little Car from General Motors.

The 1965 Epic has been pre-conditioned to rough Canadian roads and weather. Epic will start in 40 degrees below zero temperatures. We proved it. Epic will go over ice and snow-covered roads, rain-slicked highways, steep hills and hairpin turns in a very reassuring, road-holding way. We proved that, too. Epic's 4-Speed all-synchromesh transmission is smooth-shifting. Its independent front suspension is smooth-riding. Its rack and pinion steering is smooth-handling. Its North American styling is smooth-looking.

Right now, during Trade 'N' Travel Time at your Chevrolet-Envoy dealer's, Epic values were never better. Drive one and see. A degree in motor mechanics is not required. You just get in and go.

Suggested maximum retail delivered price of an Epic standard 2-door sedan with heater and defroster at VICTORIA - $1,848.00 Price quoted includes delivery and handling charges and Federal Sales and Excise taxes. Provincial and local taxes and licence are not included.

Save Children Fund

Globe-Trotter Travels To Aid Hungry

Boyce

Brig. T. W. Boyce, a veteran of the Indian army, spent 17 years as director-general of the Save the Children Fund.

He retired from the director-general's job early this year and took on the task of inspecting fund work throughout the world.

"The fund had grown too big," he said. "It tied me down to a desk too much. I wanted to get out and see the work. I am a nomad now."

Since January he has toured South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. Now he is starting a tour of Canada.

The fund administers all its own money rather than just sending financial aid to the country seeking help, he said.

In times of national emergency, the fund works through the diplomatic service.

"When we wanted to send aid to Viet Nam, we sent it through the British ambassador."

The fund's primary job was aiding a country in setting up an organization to take over the fund's work in the country.

This had already been done in Austria.

ASKED FOR AID

After the Second World War, Australia called for aid from the fund.

The fund responded and in 1960 the country was able to take over all fund services in Austria.

The former director-general said that since its formation in 1919 the fund has operated in more than 60 nations.

"In 1923, the fund helped victims of the Volga famine in the Soviet Union. The fund served 21,000,000 meals that year in the Volga area."

BUILT VILLAGE

Also during the 1920s, the fund built a village in Bulgaria, to take care of refugees. Named English Village, the community still exists.

Friday afternoon Brig. Boyce was entertained by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes at a reception at Government House.

While in Victoria he is the guest of Mrs. W. W. McGill, local fund representative.

Naturalists Planning Two Trips

The younger section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will make a field trip to Goldstream Flats, leaving Hillside and Douglas at 1:30 p.m. today.

Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association will hold a members' tour through the sanctuary today, leaving Douglas and Hillside at 2 p.m.

Veteran Unionist Retires

A delegate to the Victoria Labor Council for a record 37 years has been forced to resign because of retirement.

Charles Peck, 65, a line foreman with B.C. Hydro, resigned as first vice-president of the council. He was the longest-serving delegate on a local labor council.

He has held every office except that of secretary-treasurer in the old Victoria and District Trades and Labor Congress Council which merged with the Canadian Congress of Labor in 1956.

Retiring on a union pension, he explained the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' constitution prevents retired members from participating actively in the local union.

His resignation was accepted "with deep regret" by the council's secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone.

New Westminster school in 1865 was a cabin large enough for 21 pupils but attended by 34. The colonial government's estimates that year allowed £250 for a new schoolhouse and £200 for a new town clock. The British Columbian urged a £5,000 100-pupil school.

'Crazy' Spending Hit

OTTAWA (UPI) — The 1967 Montreal World's Exhibition—Expo '67—came up for sharp Commons criticism Friday for what was described as a "crazy, mounting astronomical" spending spree.

Tom Bell (PC—Saint John-Albert) asked Prime Minister Pearson if he would consider recommending all expenditures, past, present, and particularly future, be referred to a special Commons committee for examination. He declared it was time the House got the full story on these mounting, astronomical expenditures.

"If that were done literally I think it would be very difficult indeed to have Expo ready for 1967," Pearson replied.

TORY LEGISLATION

Gordon Aiken (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka) asked if all Expo expenditures were approved by treasury board, a cabinet body that oversees all government spending.

Pearson pointed out the fair corporation was operating under legislation enacted under the former Diefenbaker administration, and added regular procedures were being followed. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker reminded Pearson he had called for a $20,000,000 spending limit when the legislation was passed.

A Liberal backbencher, Maurice Cote (Longueuil) asked Pearson how much money would be attracted to Canada in increased tourist spending by holding the world's exposition in 1967.

"Many millions," Pearson replied.

The estimates of the colonial government of British Columbia in 1865 allowed £1,272 for police services by a magistrate, a chief inspector, a high constable and three constables. The latter received £144 a year.

It Was a Clear Case Of Sticky Windows

KIRBY, England (UPI)—Young Tony Kneale just loved the TV commercial where the girl tested the clarity of her hair-lacquer by spraying it on her mirror.

So the four-year-old tried the same thing with his mother's on the mirror, windows, doors, walls, furniture—just about everywhere.

Mrs. Frances Kneale complained to the makers that the lacquer left bad stains where it had been sprayed.

The makers said there was nothing they could do. The mirror they used in the commercial was clean—but the thinnest film of dust anywhere could make the lacquer stick like glue.

Appointed by Cabinet

New Psychiatrists' Board Will Review Mental Cases

The first review board of psychiatrists in private practice was appointed by the cabinet Friday under the new Mental Health Act which came into force April 1.

AS SAFEGUARD

The section of the new act under which a review board is appointed is intended as a safeguard for patients.

Any two members of the panel may be called in to review the case of any patient who has been kept in the provincial mental hospital for at least three months.

CAN BE REQUESTED

The review can be requested either by the patient or the superintendent of the hospital. The panel members have access to all information dealing with the case and can make their own independent examination of the patient.

Another cabinet order relieved Dr. Gordon Shrum of some of the heavy workload he carries as chairman of B.C. Hydro and chancellor of Simon Fraser University.

He is replaced as chairman of Dental Technicians Board by D. H. Goard, assistant director of the Vancouver school board adult education division.

Reappointed to the board were W. J. Lapointe and L. S. Parson, both Vancouver.

Hundreds Cheer Ex-President On Way to Trial

CARACAS (UPI) — The cheers of supporters gave ex-president Marcos Perez Jimenez's first public appearance here in more than seven years something of the quality of a triumphal procession.

Hundreds of Caracas residents, waving and cheering, ran alongside the armored military bus that carried Perez from prison to the supreme court to face charges of embezzling $13,000,000 while he was in office.

'VIOLATES LAW'

The slogan "the people ask liberty for Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez" had been sprayed in blue paint on the wall of the courthouse at several points.

The ex-president, dressed in civilian clothes, jeered at the quality of democracy in Venezuela in a brief televised statement as he arrived at the courthouse.

"This country's democratic regime murders people in the streets and violates the law as if it were a dictatorship," he said.

When a newsman remarked that it was pretty democratic of the government to allow him to make the statement, Perez replied:

"Don't you believe it. I wasn't allowed to say all that I wanted."

Rivard Tip Denied By Interpol

OTTAWA (CP) — RCMP Deputy Commissioner J. R. Lemieux discounted reports on Friday that Interpol, the international police organization, has tipped off Peruvian police that Lucien Rivard may be in Peru.

Interpol had no knowledge of the report, he said.

In Washington, a law spokesman said the reports arose through the process of spreading word internationally via Interpol that Rivard is a wanted man. Peruvian police got the impression Rivard was suspected of hiding there.

There was a demonstration in New Westminster by angry citizens on July 22, 1865, when it was reported a man aboard the steamer George S. Wright was strung up by his thumbs. The British Columbian reported he was a would-be deserter who was placed in wrist irons and the irons fastened by a line to the ship's rigging while he stood on the rail as a public spectacle. He was released and the ship moved downstream.

Early Bird TV Starts in May

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Barring technical difficulties with the new Early Bird satellite, the era of continuous transAtlantic television will be born early next month with a whole cluster of programs for the home video watcher.

The spectacular communications achievement will be visible to televiewers for the first times on May 2 and 3, when news programs of all three major American networks plan to put Early Bird to use.

In the past, there have been live transAtlantic telecasts, but they have been limited by the fact that the networks have been able to transmit them only when the orbiting satellites were in precisely the right positions as they continued on their journeys.

However, Early Bird, which was launched Tuesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., is expected to remain in a fixed position by having its orbital speed the same as that of the earth. And the result is that this "stationary" satellite will be available for 24-hour - a - day communications transmission, opening the door to obviously remarkable possibilities.

WILL BE A START

Early Bird is the first commercial satellite. The day is envisioned when the earth will be ringed by such satellites, thereby making possible instant live worldwide television, as well as a revolution in telephone calls.

Early Bird will give these achievements a start on a trans-Atlantic basis. During its experimental period, which will last about seven weeks, the satellite will generally be available to television only one day a week, on Mondays.

The premiere Early Bird video broadcast is scheduled for one hour on the three American networks on Sunday afternoon, May 2. It will be on a "pool" basis, "combining elements from Canada, Mexico, the United States and Europe," according to a joint press release. The Monday telecasts will begin the next day.

Poland, Russia Renew Treaty

WARSAW (AP) — Poland and the Soviet Union formally linked their policies for 20 more years Thursday in a treaty of friendship, mutual assistance and cooperation. The treaty replaces one signed in Moscow April 21, 1945, before the end of the Second World War.

Business was booming at Yale in the spring of 1865. It was reported that as many as 200 pack animals a day were departing in trains for the Cariboo and other gold fields.

To Win University Fund Drive

Bunts, Singles Needed

The time for the home-run hitters is past and now is the time for the bunts and singles to win the game, said W. H. Armstrong, Vancouver Island universities capital fund chairman.

The advance gifts division under Justin Harbord has collected $534,000 and now is the time for the other groups such as the professional and business men under Hugh Stephen, and the executives and corporations under George Farmer, he added.

VITAL MONTHS

Mr. Armstrong explained that April and May are the vital months with the fund drive.

"The trip to Nanaimo, Courtenay, Comox and the Alberni was very encouraging," he said, "committees have been set up in these areas and we have every chance of success."

ENTHUSIASTIC

Mr. Armstrong indicated he was very enhusiastic about the outcome of the drive.

"I am more optimistic now than I have been since the drive began," he said.

It's Carved For Queen

Sceptre which will be presented to the Spring Flower Festival queen Saturday afternoon is displayed by Edward MacFayden, chairman of Victoria Chamber of Commerce festival queen subcommittee. Sceptre was carved of B.C. yellow cedar by Rudy Seyfort of Ten Mile Point. It bears Victoria city crest. — (Bud Kinsman)

To Teach

Victorians Going To Africa

Africa will be the home of three University of Victoria students for the next two years.

Leaving on a two-year tour of duty with the Canadian University Overseas Service are Rosalind Boyd, 21, of 1210 Richardson; Terry Cox, 128 Eberts; and Allan Young, 26, of 3614 Richmond.

CUSO is the Canadian counterpart of the American Peace Corps and volunteers are graduate students usually assigned work for which they have been trained.

LEAVE SEPT. 1

The three students will leave Sept. 1 following a month-long orientation course in Eastern Canada.

On arrival in Africa, they will take another orientation course sponsored by the local government.

Miss Boyd is going to Nigeria, Mr. Cox to West Africa and Mr. Young to Uganda.

They are expected to teach in the secondary schools in Africa. Two more applications for overseas duty are pending said local CUSO head Dr. J. C. Ogelsby.

Full Houses Watch Pygmalion

Packed houses enthusiastically received G. B. Shaw's classic Pygmalion at Lansdowne Junior High Wednesday and Thursday.

The play, on which the musical My Fair Lady is based, was enjoyed by a total audience of about 700.

Inquest Called Tuesday

An inquest will be held Tuesday into the death of a 67-year-old man found in a smoke-filled house Friday morning, Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said Friday.

Firemen who rushed to the home of Horace Otburn Bass, 4127 Wilkinson Road, found him half-lying on a chesterfield bed.

Artificial respiration was immediately applied, but the man failed to respond. A doctor shortly afterward pronounced him dead.

TRIED TO ESCAPE

From the position in which Mr. Boss's body was found, police said, it looked as though he had awoken in the smoke and made a vain bid to escape.

The fire apparently started in a chair in the kitchen of the one-storey frame house, they said.

SAW SMOKE

The alarm was sounded at 7:18 a.m., after a passer-by saw smoke pouring out of the house.

Mr. Boss, a bachelor, had lived for 30 years in Saanich, where he worked as a handyman. He was born in Wolsley, Sask.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Godberson, 138 Michigan.

McCall Brothers funeral chapel is handling the funeral arrangements.

Like Trained Soldiers

Prize Pooches Pose Perfectly

More than 250 dogs of all breeds are entered in Victoria City Kennel Club's two championship shows and obedience trials in the Curling Rink.

The showing of many types of dogs provided a colorful sight for observers, but a day of tension for owners and handlers.

But before and after the performance for critical judges, there was howling, growling, and all manner of barking.

Some prize sights of the day:

- A tiny chihuahua straining its neck looking up at a neighboring great Dane.
- A spaniel, safe in its enclosure, barking ferociously at a German Shepherd.
- A poodle, regally preening as handlers fussed over its coat.

CONTINUES TODAY

The show, which continues today, included many dogs of fabled ancestry, including many dogs no longer common: Bedlington terriers, Lhasa Apso, and Maltese.

It was a dog-lover's heaven, and a cat's hell.

Miners Beat Trouble

Cave-Ins Slow Mighty Mole

By A. H. MURPHY

Repeated cave-ins slowed the mighty mole down to four feet a shift this week but miners beat the trouble and now the mechanical monster is chewing its way through 35 feet of muck every day.

Greater Victoria Water Board commissioner Ronald Upward said Friday the mole is now 1,600 feet into the side of Goldstream range. The tunnel which will link Sooke Lake and the Japan Gulch watershed and treble this district's water supply, is only nicely underway but the work is going well.

SHORED UP

The soft ground which caused the cave-ins was shored up, Mr. Upward said, with steel plates fastened to the sides of the tunnel walls with big expansion rock bolts.

Despite the fact that operations on the five-mile tunnel began last December there has been only about one full month of work put in on the project. The mole has broken down several times.

The most recent break was of a main bearing and necessitated sending the huge part, first to Victoria and then to the United States for expert repair.

"Progress in the tunnel depends on the type of ground encountered and the way the mole is operating. On a good day it is possible to make 50 feet," Mr. Upward said.

The mole will be driven approximately halfway through the mountain range after which it will be withdrawn, dismantled and taken to the other side. There it will be assembled and begin to chew again toward the centre.

Just what the tunnel will cost is a matter of speculation. Final price could go as high as $4,000,000, it is estimated.

It is hoped to complete the job by early 1968.

When completed it should increase Victoria's water supply to a potential 145,000,000 a day.

The mole will be boring the tunnel at depths varying from 600 to 1,000 feet below the surface. It will pass below the hills and two small lakes.

When finished, complete with concrete lining which will reduce the bore of the tunnel to 7 feet, 10 inches, the line will replace the meandering 27-mile line which now brings water to Victoria.

The mole includes a conveyer belt which spills muck into cars which are hauled out of the tunnel by small-guage locomotives.

Olympic Palm Sails Today For U.S.A.

NANAIMO — The Olympic Palm, the Liberian freighter which ran aground on Orcas Island last week, will leave Nanaimo harbor today on the completion of loading operations.

The accident occurred when the ship was on its way from Port Alberni to Nanaimo to load lumber. It was in dry-dock in Victoria before coming to Nanaimo.

The ship is headed for Providence, R.I., where it will unload part of its cargo.

Charge Account Racket in Swing

Your Bills Sky High?

Do you sometimes think, when the month-end bills drift in, you must have had a lost week-end?

Suspect you must have been on some shopping sprees you can't remember? And you can't even find the products you're supposed to have bought?

Somebody's probably stolen your identity.

In recent weeks, at least one Victoria firm has reported this happening:

Customer comes in to open a charge account, gives a name and address. The identity checks out with the city directory, the account is issued, the customer buys and buys and buys.

Only trouble is: The customer may have borrowed the name and address by running a finger down a column in the telephone book.

If it's your name, many happy returns.

Better Business Bureau has alerted stores to watch for this operation.

Stores in the United States, says the BBB, are now demanding fingerprints and photographs of charge account applicants.

Small Car Demolished Up-Island

Train Crash Victim Fighting for Life

A young Crofton paper worker escaped death Friday afternoon when his car and the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Dayliner train smacked together at a level crossing on the south edge of Chemainus.

Bentley Medd, about 25, of Willow Street in Chemainus, was in critical condition last night in Royal Jubilee Hospital with possible spinal injuries.

E & N assistant superintendent J. B. Law of Nanaimo said no one aboard the train was hurt.

ALONE IN CAR

Reports from police and other sources said Mr. Medd was alone in his car and driving home from work when he reached the crossing on the Old Island Highway near Crozier Road. The crossing has no safety device.

The highway crosses the track at a slight angle facing trains coming from the north. The accident occurred at 4 p.m. as the Dayliner headed for Victoria.

Mr. Medd's Volkswagen, barely on the tracks, was struck on the left front. The driver was thrown out 30 feet along the track, the car came loose from the train another 30 feet along and the Dayliner stopped in another 240 feet.

The car was a total wreck. The Dayliner received little damage.

Douglas Gregson of Nanaimo was the Dayliner engineer and John Stone of 1070 Moss in Victoria the conductor. The number of passengers was not known.

Mrs. Medd, who is expecting her second child, accompanied her husband on an ambulance trip to Victoria from Chemainus.

The train was delayed about 20 minutes at Chemainus, said Mr. Law, who will inspect the crossing today.

Discrimination In Gas Costs Charged Here

By GARY OAKES

B.C. Hydro is discriminating against Victoria gas consumers, a restaurant owner charged Friday.

W. E. (Bill) Webb, president of the Victoria-Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association, said local restaurants are paying twice as much for gas as their lower mainland counterparts.

The local branch is preparing a brief for B.C. Hydro seeking relief from "exorbitant" rates.

It will probably be presented to Hydro's Vancouver Island manager L. E. Wight later this month or early next month but Mr. Webb pointed out that "we are prepared to go to the top if necessary."

SHIPPED BY RAIL

Hydro has between 8,000 and 9,000 gas customers in the Greater Victoria area. They use butane which is shipped by rail from the Peace River area and then distributed through mains from the Government Street storage tanks.

CRA has 125 members on the Island with most of them in Victoria. Of the local restaurants, 80 per cent use gas.

Mr. Webb said butane is inferior to natural gas and Victoria users must buy more gas to achieve the same results as lower mainland users.

"I'm paying double the amount for an inferior product," Mr. Webb complained.

MORE HEAT

He quoted from a report prepared by B.C. Hydro for the CRA which showed that mainland users get 40 per cent more heat per cubic foot of gas than Victoria users.

The report explained that gas customers are actually buying heat, measured in "therms" regardless how it is measured.

The report compared gas costs and consumption between Vancouver and Victoria restaurants.

Small restaurants requiring 300 therms a month in Victoria would burn 50,000 cubic feet of gas at a cost of $68.46 or 23.2 cents per therm.

On the lower mainland the consumption would be 30,600 cubic feet at a cost of $35.62 or 11.8 cents per therm.

In other words, the Victoria user would have to burn 38,000 cubic feet more than his Vancouver counterpart.

For large restaurants requiring 1,200 therms a month, Victoria users will consume 200,000 cubic feet a month and pay $261.46 or 21.8 cents a therm.

In Vancouver, it would be 120,000 cubic feet for $125.62 or 10.5 cents a therm.

MAY BE DIFFERENCE

Mr. Webb did not have rate comparisons for domestic users but suggested there would also be a considerable difference between the two areas.

Three years ago, Victoria restaurants paid 50 per cent more for electricity than Vancouver users, Mr. Webb said, but through CRA protests the rates have since been equated.

He said he doesn't expect identical gas rates in Vancouver and Victoria "but we can expect more equality in the rate structure."

Man Tries Skateboard —Fined $5

Jurgen Kuhlmeyer, 21, thought it would be fun to join in a current teen-age craze—skateboarding.

Jurgen, of 2120 Cadboro Bay, borrowed a skateboard and tried it out on a hilly Oak Bay Road.

There were cars on the road, including a police car, which turned on its siren and chased Jurgen.

Friday Jurgen appeared in Oak Bay court on a charge of interfering with traffic. His penalty: a $5 fine and a word of advice from Magistrate William Ostler to leave skateboarding alone.

Health Board Target Of Meeting

The Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health, its program and set-up, was the subject of a discussion Friday between the provincial Health Minister, Eric Martin, two reeves and a mayor.

Mayor R. B. Wilson, Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox and Reeve A. C. Wurtele, of Esquimalt, met the minister in his office at the legislature.

"We had a very frank discussion on the board's organization, program and the apparent inequities prevailing. There's little to be said now. I'm sure that further discussions will be held," said Mayor Wilson following the meeting.

The board's set-up has been the subject of other discussions between the mayor, reeves and the minister.

Hockey Wound Nearly Fatal

Harvey

By PATRICK O'NEILL

A boy didn't realize he had been hurt and kept playing a vigorous game of hockey after suffering an accident Thursday which was to lead to massive transfusions to replace almost every drop of blood in his body.

Harvey Eckert, 15, is now resting comfortably in St. Joseph's hospital and is expected home in a week to 10 days.

Mrs. Ervin Eckert, Harvey's mother, spent a tense three hours in the operating room as a team of doctors worked to save the lad's life.

Mrs. Eckert said apparently Harvey kept playing hockey indoors after the accident, without realizing he was suffering massive bleeding.

She said apparently the boy was playing at Esquimalt junior high when he crashed into a wall.

His broken stick plunged into his thigh. "He gave a yelp, but then he went on playing," said Mrs. Eckert.

Teachers supervising the game noticed the wound, grasped the exuberant lad, laid him down, and immediately applied first aid in an attempt to stop the bleeding.

Mrs. Eckert said her son is not yet very clear on the accident, but he thinks he was playing with a broken stick.

"If this is so, it seems rather dangerous to allow students to play with broken sticks," she said.

Mrs. Eckert believed that the boy continuing to play after the accident, with his heart pumping furiously, increased the loss of blood and multiplied the danger to his life.

The hockey stick had pierced an artery and ripped through a vein.

Harvey was rushed to hospital at 10:30 a.m. Police had some difficulty notifying his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Eckert learned of the accident at 11 a.m., and went immediately to the hospital.

While in emergency, Harvey's heart stopped beating for two minutes. The beat was restored by external massage, a rubbing motion on the chest.

Harvey was given five pints of blood in emergency, before being moved to the operating room.

He received a total of 15 pints of blood during the hours of emergency and surgical work, replacing almost all the blood in his body.

During the critical period when Harvey lay at the edge of death, a team of four worked over him: the family doctor, a surgeon, and two interns.

They saved the artery, but the vein was so badly damaged it could not be saved.

In this, the boy was extremely fortunate: A medical official said when a vein is lost, the blood finds other channels; if the artery had been lost, it would have meant amputation of the leg.

It was afternoon before the team could relax, the parents sigh with relief, the tension drop in the operating room.

Mrs. Eckert, who has three other children, said: "We think we are very, very fortunate Harvey is alive."

Urge Cancer Tests

A group of faceless, ageless women stands in the way of the eradicators of a serious form of women's cancer in British Columbia.

The outlines of these mysterious women are shadowy. Cancer researchers in Vancouver are bent on filling in the features and ages, discovering the characteristics of these women.

They number less than 150,000. They are of special interest to the directors of the cytology laboratory of the British Columbia Cancer Institute because these are the women who have not yet taken part in the institute's life-saving cytology program.

At last official count, this pioneering screening program for cancer of the cervix had succeeded in reducing the incidence of invasive cervical cancer among B.C. and Yukon women by 45 per cent.

The program involves the inspection of smears for signs of cancer. Smears are taken by family doctors throughout B.C. and the Yukon and sent to the laboratory in Vancouver. Cervical cancer can be detected early and rectified easily.

Despite the fact that this disease can be detected as early as 10 years before it becomes dangerous, it is still killing about 700 Canadian women every year.

Why then, are not all of the 500,000 adult women in B.C. taking part in this vital program?

"So far we have screened about 375,000 women. The effectiveness of the screening is borne out in one of our tests where we probed the histories of 115 women with invasive cancer of the cervix.

"We found that 110 of the women had never been screened. The remaining five had been screened at some time. This data suggests that the disease is 10 times as common in the group of women who have never had a smear test, as in those who have," says Dr. Boyes.

The researchers believe that with 100 per cent participation, and with all women having regular re-examinations, the incidence of invasive cancer of the cervix can be reduced to zero. Wiped right out.

This research and educational campaign is just one facet of the all-out war on cancer being waged by the Canadian Cancer Society.

Funds are raised each April and the Victoria Conquer Cancer Campaign is taking a part in this drive. Donations may be sent to 530 Broughton Street.

Opera Attendance Was Short Lived

Heather Bridgman who has been abroad since last September has written interesting letters to her mother, Mrs. M. W. Bridgman, on a recent trip to Russia and Sweden. Following are excerpts from a letter about her visit to Sweden.

Heather Bridgman

Arrived back in London about midnight Tuesday. I came back via Sweden, spent a night with the Salvation Army in Stockholm. A Finnish girl I met on the plane happened to be staying at the same place. I stayed for the day to see as much as I could of Stockholm.

Stockholm is so beautiful. I was very lucky because a Swedish man showed me round for a few hours and he was able to give me lots of information about various churches, buildings, kings, etc. I met him while ordering my lunch and happened to ask him what I was eating.

I explored most of the old part of Stockholm and the other side of the little river which flows through Stockholm. Then he took me to see the Vasa, the ship which has been recovered from the sea (Wasa?) and is now being preserved by steam. Then I carried on my own and saw a little Swedish village which was on display opposite the Vasa. Then I made my way back to the hotel—went by the Opera House to take a peek, walked into the performance of Carmen. Someone saw me eventually so I was ushered out very quickly.

That night I took a flight down to Ronneby, which is in the south of Sweden, to stay with Swedish friends. They were so kind, put themselves out so much, gave little presents. Peter took me to the glassworks factory, a very famous one in Sweden. We watched them blowing glass and making designs on vases, etc. It was fascinating. He bought me a little glass perfume bottle with a Viking ship on it.

Sweden is so like Canada. The same trees, landscape. The forests have been left with the towns among them. Ronneby is quite small and modern, they lived in a large rambling apartment with a garden going down to the river at the back. We went on quite a few walks so I knew it backwards.

On January 5 we drove out to their summer house on the Baltic Sea. It could have been anywhere at home, in the afternoon we drove to a town called Karlstrona. It is on an island and to get there we had to go through other islands. All the waterways were frozen and people were skating everywhere. We visited the governor of the province. They had a beautiful home overlooking the Baltic. Being a military town, forts were situated all around the island. A few naval ships were sitting in the harbor. Peter drove me to Malmo to catch the plane to London. It was a lovely drive into a Swedish sunset. I hated to leave, however, the three weeks had to end sometime.

Mrs. Thelma M. Regan, 924 Wilmer Street, announces the engagement of her only daughter, Sandra Emily, to Mr. Kenneth Charles Gregory, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Gregory, 1533 Clawthorpe Avenue. The wedding will take place at 7:30 p.m., May 15, at Oak Bay United Church with Rev. A. Calder officiating.—(Chevrons Studio)

Debs Still In

Social Season Longer Each Year in Britain

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI) — More than 200 teen-age girls with rich and sometimes titled parents have entered what is variously described as a caper, a marriage market and a social racket.

They are this year's debutantes in Britain, a far from dying breed. Although Queen Elizabeth abolished court presentations in 1958, it didn't faze the system. The social season seems to be getting longer each year instead of shorter.

The Queen Charlotte charity ball in London May 4 is supposed to signal the start of the season, but, in fact, the debutante cocktail parties, dances and balls begin in March and don't end until October. It used to be fashionable to close the season by late July.

Debs outnumber the dances because, as a financial concession to modern times, some hold joint balls and split the cost—usually above £1,000 ($2,800).

Apart from giving dances and going to them, an important part of a deb's life is to watch a vast number of sporting engagements—horse racing, polo, cricket, tennis, sailing, and more horse racing, polo, cricket, tennis and sailing.

A comparatively modern addition to the social round is the Berkeley Dress Show, started 14 years ago. It is a charity fashion show at which 16 specially picked debutantes model the clothes and consider it a coveted honor.

Deb mother Mrs. John Sheffield, wife of an industrial tycoon and chairman of the show, said, "I think the worst thing about the season is the vying to become deb of the year. It should be more of a social function than a social competition."

Another deb's mother, Mrs. Peter Watt, whose hubsand is a literary agent, said, "This marriage market thing is very much overstressed. It isn't just a competition to corner the eligible young peer. It's a way for a girl to make friends, and remake the friends of her school days."

She added, "I suppose you can say that it perpetuates a class thing, which is supposed to be passe, but young people are going to gather together anyway, aren't they? And I think with a girl of this age a mother would sooner know where she was going and with whom, don't you?"

Although many of today's debutantes are the daughters of wealthy businessmen, there is still no shortage of titles on the list.

Among this year's are: Lady Victoria Cecil, daughter of the Marquis of Exeter; Lady Charlotte Manners, daughter of the Duke of Rutland; Lady Mary Gaye Curzon, daughter of Earl Howe, and Lady Jane Lowther, daughter of the Earl of Lonsdale. All are 17.

Sons of noblemen also get a look in, if not a "debut." Both the Hon. Michael Pearson, son of Viscount Cowdray, and the Marquis of Hartington, son of the Duke of Devonshire, are having dances in June to mark their coming of age at 21.

Social and Personal

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will attend the annual memorial service of the Black Watch Association at the Cenotaph on Sunday morning. Featherstone will be aide-de-camp in attendance.

In the evening His Honor and Mrs. Pearkes will attend the opening ceremonies of Rotary District No. 502 conference at the Royal Theatre.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I have a very unusual problem and since you are responsible for it, in a way, I hope you will give me some help.

My wife looks like you. People are always coming up to her on the street, in the grocery store, in the laundromat, any place at all, and asking for advice.

She used to say, "You are mistaken. I am not Ann Landers," and that would be the end of it. But lately she has been saying, "Tell me all the details and I will try to help you." These unhappy people hopefully pour out their personal problems and my wife has been getting an earful. Lately she's been telling folks what to do. I think that's going too far. What do you say? — MARRIED TO YOUR DOUBLE

Dear Married: Thanks for the tip. Here is an open letter to all readers:

I do NOT counsel on the street, in grocery stores, or in laundromats.

If you think you see me, by all means say hello, but please don't ask me what to do about your lazy daughter-in-law or your six-martini husband. The best I can do "on the hoof" is suggest that you write me a letter.

Dear Ann Landers: We live in a city which has a famous hospital and clinic. My husband and I moved here two years ago and we like this city very much.

The first year we lived here 18 friends and relatives came to stay with us while they were going through the clinic or accompanying someone else. Last year we had 20 such guests. This year will undoubtedly be a record-breaker.

We have no guest room. My husband and I sleep in one bedroom and our two sons sleep in the second bedroom. This does not discourage our friends or relatives. They say, "We don't mind sleeping on the couch." Or, "All we want is your company. Hotels are so depressing."

We are sick of providing bed and board for free-loaders. I work part-time in my husband's business and the extra laundry, grocery shopping, and preparation of company meals is not only hard on my back but my budget as well. How can I tell my friends and relatives that we just can't have them here?—X. AWSTED

DEAR X: I recommend plain English—unless you can communicate better in another language.

If you were half as articulate with the folks who take advantage of you as you are when you gripe to me, there would be no problem.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband, Bob, raises hunting dogs. Several months ago his brother Al asked for a dog and said he would pay him later when he had the money.

Last month the dog died suddenly. Al told Bob the dog must have had some defect. He asked for another dog. Bob said O.K.

When Bob left the room I asked my brother-in-law when he was going to pay for the first dog. He replied, "You don't think I'm going to pay for a dead dog, do you?"

I am really burned up. This morning I told Bob his brother is a cheap jerk and not to give him another dog until he pays for the first one. He suggested that I mind my own business. What do you suggest?—BOILING BONNIE.

Dear Boil: A muzzle—for you. If your husband wants to avoid a brother fight (which can be far worse than a dog fight) stay out of it. It may not make sense to you financially but obviously it is important to your husband emotionally.

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

The problem with the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs, say the letters which came in this week as a result of an earlier column, is not that they replace such programs as Music Hop but that programs like this one are shown later at the expense of such favorites as Danny Kaye and Bonanza.

A gentleman on Amelia Street persuaded me, a hockey nut, to ask for such letters just to see if others care. All came from Victoria, except one from Nanaimo, and if anyone else wants to protest, write to me care of the Colonist and I'll ship the letters on to the CBC next week.

Hunt Stromberg, Jr., now 36, strove for years to become a bigwig in Hollywood, where his father once was a leading producer. He became CBS west coast program chief but fell when CBS canned national TV chief James Aubrey. Stromberg now is running an animal rental business.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

South would not have made his venturesome contract on this deal unless he had played the right card from dummy at the very first trick. Can you figure out what that card was?

Vul: Both

SOUTH (D)
♠ K 8

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	2◇	Pass
3♡	Pass	4 N.T.	Pass
5◇	Pass	6♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Club queen

South was somewhat averse to jump-raising diamonds on such spindly support, and he jumped to three hearts instead. That bid cannot be fully endorsed because partner is entitled to expect it to guarantee more high-card strength. It is probably better to support partner's diamonds, intending to rebid hearts later if given a chance.

However, South made no mistakes in the play. When West opened the club queen, declarer knew that unless the diamond queen was singleton or doubleton, he was in trouble. If it were doubleton, there would be no problems, for there would be only a club loser; if the diamond queen were singleton, the other defender would be in position to guard the fourth round of diamonds, and South would have a potential diamond loser as well as a club.

The most likely way to overcome this was by a squeeze, but it would be vital to compel the same defender to guard two suits. South had yet to find out which opponent he should nominate for what rule, but by playing low from dummy on the club lead, he was able to stay in position to compel either East or West to guard clubs.

Since a club continuation would set up a club trick in dummy, West shifted to a spade, which was won on the table, and after drawing trumps, declarer led the diamond ace. When West's queen fell, it was evident that the diamonds were held by East and a squeeze would operate since he was also marked with the club ace. Declarer ran off all his trumps, keeping three diamonds in his own hand, while dummy held the diamond king-eight and the club king. East had to succumb to pressure.

Note that had declarer covered the club opening lead with dummy's king, the squeeze would not have worked, for clubs and diamonds would have been guarded by different defenders. Had the cards been placed differently, so that West held the long diamonds, declarer would have rectified the position by leading the club king from dummy, ruffing away East's ace and leaving West as the sole guardian of both minor suits, so that again the squeeze would have operated.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

South would not have made his venturesome contract on this deal unless he had played the right card from dummy at the very first trick. Can you figure out what that card was?

South   West   North   East

3 ♡     Pass   4 N.T.  Pass
5 ◇     Pass   6 ♡     All Pass

Opening lead: Club queen

South was somewhat averse to jump-raising diamonds on such spindly support, and he jumped to three hearts instead. That bid cannot be fully endorsed because partner is entitled to expect it to guarantee more high-card strength. It is probably better to support partner's diamonds, intending to rebid hearts later if given a chance.

However, South made no mistakes in the play. When West opened the club queen, declarer knew that unless the diamond queen was singleton or doubleton, he was in trouble. If it were doubleton, there would be no problems, for there would be only a club loser; if the diamond queen were singleton, the other defender would be in position to guard the fourth round of diamonds, and South would have a potential diamond loser as well as a club.

The most likely way to overcome this was by a squeeze, but it would be vital to compel the same defender to guard two suits. South had yet to find out which opponent he should nominate for what rule, but by playing low from dummy on the club lead, he was able to stay in position to compel either East or West to guard clubs.

Since a club continuation would set up a club trick in dummy, West shifted to a spade, which was won on the table, and after drawing trumps, declarer led the diamond ace. When West's queen fell, it was evident that the diamonds were held by East and a squeeze would operate since he was also marked with the club ace. Declarer ran off all his trumps, keeping three diamonds in his own hand, while dummy held the diamond king-eight and the club king. East had to succumb to pressure.

Note that had declarer covered the club opening lead with dummy's king, the squeeze would not have worked, for clubs and diamonds would have been guarded by different defenders. Had the cards been placed differently, so that West held the long diamonds, declarer would have rectified the position by leading the club king from dummy, ruffing away East's ace and leaving West as the sole guardian of both minor suits, so that again the squeeze would have operated.

Like Thieves in the Night

Nazi Invaders Hit Norway 25 Years Ago

By MICHAEL SARS

OSLO, Norway (UPI)—They came like thieves in the night. First the planes, the warships and the soldiers. Later the torturers and terrorist "enforcers" of Nazi Germany.

The Nazi invaders came to Norway on April 9, 1940—and they stayed for five years which never will be forgotten by Norwegians.

They came to a country ill-prepared for war and took the government and people by surprise.

Defence had to be, and was, improvised. But to some extent the weak Norwegian armed forces could only put some spikes in the wheels of the German war-machine. They fought heroic delaying actions that saved the Norwegian state and left the political apparatus of the kingdom intact. But after two months of the unequal war, King Haakon and his government were forced to leave Norway and take up exile in London.

The German attack was based on surprise. The major cities of Norway—Oslo, Kristiansand, Stavanger, Bergen, Trondheim and Narvik—were to be occupied before the Norwegians knew what was happening. Then, the Germans thought, the rest of the country would fall like a ripe fruit into the hands of Hitler.

The German plan worked smoothly. The major cities fell after a few hours' fight—but in the Oslo area the plan misfired.

The heavy 10,000-ton German cruiser Bluecher, with most of the German military administration on board, was sunk by an 1905-vintage battery of the Oscarsborg fortress in the Oslo Fjord.

When the Germans took the airfield in Oslo and occupied the capital, the country's legal authorities had left. The national assembly met at Hamar and later at Elverum, where the King personally rejected the German call for surrender.

In the meantime, Quisling appointed himself prime minister and formed a government. In the atmosphere of Norwegian fury against betrayal, no such government could take control.

On April 24, Hitler appointed Joseph Terboven as "reichskommisar" for Norway, and a cruel administration began. Terboven and his henchmen tried to make Norway into a Nazi country.

Concentration camps sprang up all over Norway after the final surrender of the armed forces on June 7. Executions, torture and deportation followed as the resistance of the Norwegians—both passive and active—increased.

Much of the Norwegian merchant marine escaped Nazi seizure and, with some 30,000 men and 4,500,000 tons of shipping, fought the war on the Allied side. An army was organized in England with 4,200 men.

In occupied Norway an armed resistance was organized headed by a central command with close contact with the government in exile in London. When the Germans surrendered on May 8, 1945, the resistance forces numbered 44,000 men.

The German "Festung Norwegen" was the last of Nazi Germany's bastions to capitulate. Terboven committed suicide, as did many of his Norwegian henchmen and German terrorists.

But Quisling—whose name has been synonymous with traitor ever since—was arrested and put on trial. He was condemned to death for high treason and executed by a firing squad.

Import duty on most food items brought into the colony of British Columbia in 1865 was 12½ per cent of value. But the levy on rice was 20 per cent. Many held this to be an unjust levy against Chinese miners. Opium, then a legal commodity, was taxed at 50 per cent which gave rise to many attempts at smuggling.

A fire at Nanaimo May 10, 1885 destroyed 18 cottages just built for employees of Vancouver Coal Company. After 20 minutes, all that was left was the chimneys. The loss was cited as $2,000 to $3,000.

Garden Notes

More About Annuals

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Yesterday we discussed the raising of hardy annual flowers from seed, sowing the seeds in a prepared outdoor seed bed and transplanting the young plants later to key locations in the garden. Today I think we might take a closer look at some kinds that lend themselves to this treatment.

Cornflowers bloom very quickly from seeds planted in the open and are one of the very few annuals that maintain a constant succession of bloom pretty well throughout the summer. Known affectionately as Bachelor's Buttons, these flowers are grand for cutting, for buttonhole wear, and can even be dried for winter decoration. Cornflowers are not all blue—I distributed seeds imported from Denmark last year of a multi-colored race—but if you like the lovely clear blue ordinarily associated with the cornflower, a good one is a fairly old variety called Jubilee Gem, making a dwarf, compact plant only 12 inches tall.

From a rather common and uninteresting flower, marigolds have been developed into some amazingly beautiful specimens over the last 15 years and are of the easiest possible culture. Two main types are grown, the French and the African marigolds. These names, incidentally, are misleading, for marigolds in their wild form are found only in tropical America.

The so-called French marigolds are dwarf plants covering themselves with a profusion of small blooms in yellow, orange and reddish-brown, and are grown more for their massed effect in window boxes and planters, and for edging. The Africans are much larger plants, standing some 30 inches tall, excellent both for garden decoration and for cutting.

Among the French marigolds, Naughty Marietta is a good old standby, making a plant about 10 inches tall with bicolor flowers in gold and reddish brown. A new race, the Petite Dwarfs, comes into bloom earlier than most of the family, starting to flower when no more than three inches tall and covering itself with blossoms so you can hardly see the plant for the blooms. About eight inches tall when fully grown, the Petite Dwarfs come in pale yellow, gold, orange and a maroon and yellow bicolor.

It is difficult to make a choice among the African marigolds, for there are so many fine varieties. Some kinds have shaggy blossoms rather like chrysanthemums; Giant Fluffy, Mammoth Mum, Pfitzer Hybrid and Summer Sunshine are good examples of this class. Others have a tighter, frillier form of bloom known as the Carnation-flowered marigolds, and of these I would pick Climax, Fancy Frills, Alaska and Hawaii.

If you grow marigolds this year, better keep your flowers under close observation, for the Burpee Seed Co. in California has renewed its offer of $10,000 for seeds of a pure white marigold. Last year 433 hopeful backyard gardeners submitted seeds of near-white marigolds for testing in the Burpee plots, but all had some trace of yellow or cream in their coloring. Some were very close, though, and were awarded substantial cash consolation prizes, and one in particular is being marketed this year under the name Hopeful.

This year the long-sought white marigold could turn up in your garden—or mine!

Jilted Hitler Sought Revenge

Why Dolfie Became Fuehrer

By NINO LOBELLO

HAMBURG (TNS)—What is it like to be the cousin of the most discredited man who ever lived? Well, life for Hans Hitler has been difficult. He has been shunned by his neighbors and fired from many jobs because of his name even though his record is clean.

"For the first time since 1945 I have a boss who knows about my being related to Adolf and has no intentions of dismissing me," explained Hans Hitler. We had met just outside the basement door of the building where Hans works as a general helper to a printer.

Hans' last job was with a British airline office here, but when his fellow workers discovered he was related to the Nazi dictator they insisted he be fired. To make life easier for himself, Hans had given his name as "Hiller" but his identity was found out anyway.

Though he has known better times, Hans Hitler now lives modestly in a second-floor apartment in the Hamburg suburbs on his $28-a-week pay cheque. His neighbors—as yet—don't know who he is, because the nameplate on his door reads simply, "Hiller."

"Although my husband's father and Adolf's father were brothers," Erna said, "Hans never tried to get preferential treatment on the strength of his name. In fact, having your cousin as Germany's chief of state was, even during the war, a very difficult thing."

During the war Hans Hitler enlisted in the army and put in five years of military duty, most of it as a sergeant. He was on the Russian front for a long time, but was later taken prisoner by the British. Hans and Erna lost everything in the war. Their home was bombed and the Russians confiscated all their property.

Hans Hitler believes he knows why his cousin became a warped human being. Something happened to Adolf in his youth—and he swore eternal revenge against mankind.

"Dolfie (that was his nickname) loved only one woman in his life. Her name was Greta Raubal, but we all called her Geli. She was Hitler's niece, the daughter of his step-sister Angela.

It was in Munich that my cousin's fascination for his niece turned into deep love. He was at the point of marrying her in 1930 and had saved enough money to put a down payment on a house and buy furniture.

"Although Geli said she also loved Dolfie and was ready to marry him, she accepted a dinner date from a well-to-do gentleman. This happened only three weeks before she was to marry my cousin.

She broke her engagement with Dolfie and went to live as a kept woman in a luxury apartment.

"She gave birth to a baby by this other man and was pregnant with a second child when he became bored with her and evicted her from his house. She turned to prostitution to support herself, and one day she just decided to give up. She shot herself through the heart.

"My cousin never got over that. He was stricken with grief. If he had married Geli, I don't think he ever would have become what he became. It changed his whole life."

It also changed the world.

STAN DELAPLANE on Marriage-Go-Round

May Best Man Win

This being the season of love and marriage, love and marriage dum-de-dum-dum, I note that book stores are pushing guide books for brides.

Such books map out the procedure. What to wear — something borrowed, something blue. How to get to church on time. How to hurl the bouquet. And what to give the ushers.

A full dress wedding is as complicated as a play.

What I have been thinking about is writing a guide book for the Best Man.

I have rolled through this assignment three times. And a better man you never saw.

The Best Man is very important to a wedding. Riding shotgun, so to speak, to the groom. Pouring Old Pain-Killer into the fathers-in-law. Juggling the ring and keeping his mind on a thousand things.

"No one is busier than the Best Man on the day of the wedding," says the guide book for brides.

"He takes the groom in charge precisely as might a guardian. He takes note of the 'patient's' general condition; if he is normal and fit, so much the better.

"If he is up in the air and nervous, the Best Man must bring him to earth as best as he can."

I don't recall my three clients were up in the air or nervous. Daffy maybe. But not nervous.

They said: "Why is it taking all this time? Let's have a quick one while we're waiting."

They said: "As soon as we're settled, you come over to the house for dinner."

This shows that they were not nervous but off their ever-loving rockers.

The bride's guide at this point kisses off the Best Man. (Let him do the best he can, ha ha.)

That is why I think I will write a guide book for these fellows.

The best thing a Best Man can do is get his tiger to the altar. If he can do that, he has done 90 per cent of the job.

The best man is a delivery man.

He arranges him in position indicated and drops back two paces.

She says: "The first thing we want to do when we get back is have you over for dinner."

She means: "If I ever catch you hanging around my husband again, you will both regret it."

Adios, Best Man.

Do you know there are twelve million unmarried ladies in North America alone? True.

This is known as "the unmarried set." And what the unmarried set is set on is getting married. It keeps the stenographers' pool is a constant state of nerves.

Most of these chicks will get married. This means there will be twelve million Best Men. And that is a market any publisher can view with respect.

Anyway, I am a Best Man who has gone the route three times. I think I am able to give some sound advice—and sell it, I hope.

I don't know how you calm down a groom. Short of pistol-whipping him. But it was part of my pride that I delivered all three, mobile and unmarked.

I got them on stage. I gassed up the getaway car and checked the tires. I paid off the parson. I bussed the bride.

"We want you to come over for dinner," they said.

For High Cost of Schools

Union Pay Demands Blamed

Union wage demands out of all proportion to the earnings of the average taxpayer, are responsible for the high cost of schools, according to M. P. Paine, Victoria contractor and builder.

In a letter to the Greater Victoria school board, a copy of which was sent to city hall, he said that he pointed out the inevitable result of "exorbitant demands by carpenters" to school board last summer.

No reply was received from board or councils nor did any of these bodies investigate.

Factory materials have not increased very much since last year, the letter points out, but carpenters who cost $26 per day last year now cost $32.70 and this will automatically rise on Oct. 1 and in January 1966.

MORE DEMANDS

"In April 1966, of course, no doubt there will be another series of extravagant demands which we, in view of the fact that we have no support from the public or public bodies, will have to give them," the letter states.

Morning coffee costs the carpenter 10 cents. It costs the school board $1 or more, Mr. Paine adds.

To prove the point that contractors are not making excessive profits, says Mr. Paine, he would be pleased to open his books to school board accountants. Other contractors, he is sure, would also be willing.

UNPLEASANT FACTS

"Facts are stubborn things and it is fact that public bodies are very timid when dealing with unions, whose members vote, and very willing to belabor B.C. Hydro, B.C. Telephone and other popular whipping horses.

"We are all in favor of children, motherhood, two chickens in every pot, etc., and all against sin, but when are we going to face the unpleasant facts of life and do something about them," the letter states.

In three years, according to agreements signed now, says Mr. Paine, electricians will cost the contractor about $9,400 a year.

"Will the board quietly buy candles or will they protest wage and benefit demands out of all proportion to the earnings of the average taxpayer," the letter concludes.

Tests Survived

Absent Tories Help Grits

OTTAWA (CP) — The minority Pearson government, aided by 41 absent opposition members, survived its second and third confidence tests of the new parliamentary session Friday.

Opposition absenteeism was high and the government, with support from former Conservatives Leon Balcer and Rene Paul, now sitting as independents, defeated the motion 106 to 93. It had been moved by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

MOTION REJECTED

A Social Credit non-confidence motion was rejected earlier on a voice vote when that party failed to produce the required five members to stand and force a formal roll call.

Closest test the government has faced since taking office was on Feb. 25, 1964, when an amendment to the throne speech expressing no confidence was defeated 128 to 120.

DRAMA LACKING

The afternoon votes lacked the drama and tension of many in the past and the only brief color was provided when all MPs applauded Liberal Leonard (Red) Kelly when he stood to vote. His two goals Thursday night helped the Toronto Maple Leafs tie their semi-final Stanley Cup series against Montreal with a 4-2 victory.

CONDEMN GOVERNMENT

The Social Credit amendment called for the use of debt-free money from the Bank of Canada for social capital. The Conservative amendment condemned the government for failing to take action to alter the administration in the light of the recent scandal allegations.

The Conservative motion was endorsed by 66 Conservatives, 11 Creditistes, 10 New Democrats and six Social Credit MPs.

STANDING

Standing in the 265-member House: Liberals 129, Conservatives 13, Social Credit nine, independents two.

Before the eight-day throne speech debate ends next Thursday, there are opportunities for three more confidence tests.

The opposition parties may

North Viet Nam Protests New Raids

LBJ Plan 'Deceitful Allegation'

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam Friday described as a "deceitful peace allegation" U.S. President Johnson's Baltimore speech calling for discussions to bring peace.

The first comment from Hanoi specifically directed at Johnson's speech was contained in a North Vietnamese protest sent to the International Control Commission over U.S. air raids Friday on Nghe An province and Hon Mat Island. Members of the commission are Canada, India and Poland.

The protest, signed by Col. Ha Van Lau, head of the liaison mission of the North Vietnamese army high command, said:

"This blatant aggressive act of the U.S. imperialists has fully exposed the deceitful peace allegation made by Lyndon Johnson in his speech on April 7. It proves that the U.S. imperialists are still stubbornly pursuing their policy of aggression and war provocation in Viet Nam."

Excerpts of the protest message were broadcast by Hanoi radio and monitored in Tokyo.

A government organ in Hanoi said Friday that the fighting in Viet Nam "will end only when the U.S. aggressors quit our country."

CHINESE GETTING INTO ACT?

SAIGON (AP)—A fresh battalion of 1,400 U.S. marines began landing near Da Nang in South Viet Nam today to reinforce marines already stationed at the U.S. air base there.

The marines poured ashore amid the spectre of possible direct Chinese involvement in the war. For the first time since the U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam began last month, Peking announced its jets had battled American planes.

U.S. Navy jet fighters fought MiGs off China's Hainan Island, site of key military installations, while more than 200 American planes pummelled North Viet Nam anew Friday.

A Peking broadcast said the MiGs were Chinese. U.S. officials said they did not know whether the MiGs were North Vietnamese or Chinese. One MiG was reported to have vanished in flames.

NEAR FIGHTING

The marine battalion landed two miles north of Da Nang, while South Vietnamese troops exchanged fire with Communist guerrillas three miles away.

The Viet Cong made no effort to interfere with the landing.

OTHERS ON GUARD

The marines will join some 3,000 other marines guarding the strategic Da Nang, jumping-off point for some of the raids on North Viet Nam.

The marines are being joined by a squadron of Phantom jet fighters.

TANKS, HOWITZERS

A total of 3,000 marines will be landed within the next two or three days. Their equipment includes tanks, 105-mm. howitzers and other armament.

The additional troops push total U.S. manpower in South Viet Nam to more than 30,000.

MORTAR BARRAGE

The Viet Cong launched a mortar barrage against the provincial capital of Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, just a few hours before the marines landed.

Three South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and 10 wounded in the attack. The Viet Cong also scored a hit on a U.S. radio communications centre, but no U.S. casualties were reported.

GUERRILLAS KILLED

In Viet Nam's Central Highlands, where a Viet Cong offensive has been expected, government forces killed 50 guerrillas.

Peking's account of the aerial fight charged that American planes flew over Hainan, fired two guided missiles "at ran-

The two clubs will meet at Memorial Arena tonight, starting at 8:30. If the series is extended by another Victoria victory, the deciding game will be in Seattle Sunday. (See Page 14.)

Appeal Court Orders

Convicted Rapist To Get New Trial

Kanester

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Appeal Court judges ordered Friday that a new trial be granted Larry Kenneth Kanester of Victoria, sentenced to 20 years for two rape convictions last year.

The Appeal Court ruled that the trial judge had not put the defence case to the jury and had wrongly told the jury certain matters might have been corroboration and failed to define corroboration to the jury.

A further appeal against Kanester's sentence for escaping from Essondale in September was adjourned.

In outlining the appeal to the court on Thursday, Kanester's lawyer D. E. Greenfield said Kanester's trial was prejudiced because the two counts were tried together.

VICTORIA AREA

The charges involved incidents in the Victoria area on Jan. 8 and Jan. 20 of 1964.

Kanester was sentenced to 10 years on each charge, and was being held at Essondale when he escaped last September.

He was the object of a manhunt as far east as Winnipeg until he surrendered to police after 57 days of freedom.

Red Tanks Rumble Over Lifeline

Russian Roadblocks On Again, Off Again

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists shut down the autobahn linking West Berlin with West Germany for three hours early Friday night while Soviet tanks and East German personnel carriers rumbled over the city's lifeline to the West.

Armed East German Army officers abruptly lowered steel barriers at both ends of the 110-mile highway at dusk, causing long queues of civilian traffic.

Then, just as quickly, they lifted the roadblocks in mid-evening.

No U.S. or British military vehicles were about to enter the autobahn or were travelling on it at the time, western officials reported.

The Communists had warned they would shut down the autobahn occasionally until joint Soviet-East German military manoeuvres end Sunday. The highway is the land link with West Berlin.

When the Communist border guards did not close the highway in the morning for the first time since the intermittent blockades began Monday, Western officials hoped the harassments were ending. They were also relieved that Soviet jet planes refrained from buzzing in the three Western air corridors to West Berlin for the first time since Wednesday.

That was the day the West German Bundestag (lower house of parliament) met in West Berlin despite Communist protests.

The Soviet Union told the Western allies that restrictions on the central and southern air corridors to West Berlin would be lifted midnight Friday. Restrictions on the northern corridor were called off Thursday, a U.S. spokesman said.

Three Recounts

Irish Premier Holds Razor-Thin Edge

DUBLIN (Reuters)—The longest vote count in Irish history dragged on today to decide whether Prime Minister Sean Lemass' governing Fianna Fail party will stay in power.

By early today, Lemass had won 71 seats against 70 held by the opposition in the 144-seat Dail, the lower house of parliament.

The final results of the Wednesday election depended on the outcome of recounts in three closely fought seats, two in Dublin City and one in Longford County.

Counting continued until midnight Friday night and the margin in Longford was understood to be no more than five votes.

Later a dispute broke out over the validity of ballots cast by patients in mental hospitals.

This was the first election in which long-term mental hospital patients were permitted to vote if their doctors thought them capable.

In the closely disputed Longford-Westmeath district, where a large mental hospital is located, the Fine Gael threatened to ask for all the voting to be nullified on grounds that "undue influence" had been exercised on hospital patients.

No. 2 Laborite Told to Rest

LONDON (AP) — George Brown, No. 2 man in Britain's Labor government, was ordered by his doctor Friday to take a 10-day rest.

Brown, 50, has been standing in for Prime Minister Wilson who is confined to bed with influenza.

Swim, Raft, Walk, Row

He Went for Help The Hard Way

PORT SIMPSON, B.C. (CP)—Fisherman Charlie Sankey is "a real outdoorsman"—and that saved his life after the fishing boat Topaz struck a log and sank Tuesday night.

The body of one of his companions, Patrick Green, 64, was found Friday floating in a life jacket near the scene, 30 miles northeast of here in Portland Inlet, which separates the Alaska Panhandle from British Columbia.

After the sinking, Sankey, about 32, swam about a mile to Truro Island and built a raft. He drifted six miles to Somerville Island and walked 11 miles across the island until he found a boat. Then he rowed 14 miles across open sea to finally reach this Indian village 15 miles north of Prince Rupert Thursday night.

* * *

Immediately he put out to sea with villagers and RCMP to search for his companions. The search was continuing today.

The boat sank when the men were returning to their Nass River fishing camp, where Ryan's father was waiting.

Mignonette Fragrant —And Free!

A flower with a haunting fragrance and romantic history is Victoria-bound, in Colonist garden editor M. V. Chesnut's second free seed offer this year.

Mignonette was discovered as a weed in Egypt by Napoleon — and from that humble beginning spread to wide popularity back in France and in England.

Perhaps descended from those same plants are the seeds which will be available to Colonist readers—who are asked to send along a stamped self-addressed envelope with the free seed request which will appear in the Colonist beginning Sunday.

Tshombe In Control

FARADJE, The Congo (AP)—Premier Moise Tshombe's troops appeared Friday to have won their war against the rebels in The Congo's northeast.

The last important rebel-held town in the Niangara area was recaptured Tuesday night.

Seven Others Aboard

Sailed March 16 for Bering

Victoria Man on Missing Boat

He is William Joseph Henry, 30. His mother is Mrs. Isabell Henry, 1206 Fairfield Road.

The 67-foot vessel was reported missing Thursday after an inflatable life raft bearing the number 363 was found floating with other debris about 45 miles south of Unalaska Island in the Aleutian chain.

A massive air and sea search in the Bering Sea is due to continue today.

The RCAF said missing included the vessel's owner, J. McLure, 30, of Vancouver, and the skipper, Matt Sherman, about 35, of Vancouver.

Other crewmen were identified by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union as Carl Ostergard, 37; William McCulloch, 25; August Seselja and Ragnvold Soreng, 66, all of Vancouver, Ken McAlpin, 51, of Jordan Bay, N.S.

The search began Friday when the department of transport inspection branch in Vancouver identified the liferaft as being from the Sea Ranger, the only vessel in the area not accounted for.

Officials of the United States Coast Guard in Juneau, Alaska, immediately ordered six aircraft and about a dozen surface vessels to search for Sea Ranger.

Homer Stevens, secretary of the union, said the Sea Ranger was due to be starting the eight-day trip back to Vancouver.

Mr. Stevens said there was little chance the Sea Ranger was on route to Vancouver unaware of the search.

Dorion Probe Ends Today

'Calumny!' Cries Council

QUEBEC (CP) — Jules Deschenes, federal government counsel, Friday accused Ross Drouin, Conservative party lawyer, of a calumny against Justice Minister Favreau.

He referred before the Dorion Inquiry to Mr. Drouin's statement earlier this week that Mr. Favreau had ventured into a field — criminal law — about which he knew nothing.

Mr. Deschenes also said he was amazed that "immediate measures" were not being taken against Erik Nielsen, Conservative MP for the Yukon, because of parts of his testimony to the commission. He did not elaborate on what he meant by "immediate measures."

Mr. Deschenes said Mr. Nielsen had tried to make the commission a pawn in party politics and to attack the integrity of Mr. Favreau.

He said Mr. Nielsen's conduct had been "inexcusable" for a witness who had said he was ready to co-operate with the commission.

Mr. Nielsen had intended to indicate that Mr. Favreau had taken reprisals against two residents of the Yukon by pressing charges against them only two days after Mr. Nielsen exploded the Lucien Rivard affair in the Commons Nov. 23.

Mr. Deschenes said the charges were laid last Nov. 5 though Mr. Favreau himself in the witness box said the charges, though decided on as early as June, could not be laid until December when the two men in question were arrested in British Columbia.

eric Dorion, which is scheduled to conclude its four months of hearings today.

The commission is investigating allegations by Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne that he was subjected to attempted bribery and political coercion to drop opposition to bail for Rivard, wanted in the U.S. as the suspected key figure in a narcotics smuggling racket.

Mr. Lamontagne was acting for the U.S. government which was trying to have Rivard extradited to Texas when he escaped from Montreal's Bordeaux Jail March 2.

LAST DAY

Yves Fortier, counsel for Mr. Lamontagne, makes a final rebuttal today. The commission is also scheduled to hear on its last day of hearings a representative of Raymond Daoust, Rivard's lawyer and a witness at the inquiry.

Commission counsel Andre Desjardins said Monday Mr. Daoust's credibility as a witness must be examined.

RCMP, TOO

The commission is also investigating the conduct of the RCMP and Mr. Favreau in the handling of Mr. Lamontagne's charges against four federal ministerial aides.

Norman Mathews, RCMP counsel, said there has been a "despicable smear campaign" in some newspaper editorials and cartoons to blame the Mounties for the escape of Rivard.

The RCMP had nothing to do with guarding Rivard and Mr. Drouin had been talking "sheer nonsense" when he suggested that the safekeeping of Rivard was a federal responsibility.

Mr. Deschenes was the 10th lawyer to present final argument before the commission, headed by Chief Justice Fred-

Allocation of Gas Exports Would Create 'Mare's Nest'

OTTAWA (CP) — A national gas policy which would allocate export markets to particular natural gas production areas in Canada would create "a dreadful mare's nest and frightful constitutional issues," the National Energy Board was told Friday.

R. A. MacKimmie of Calgary, counsel for Alberta and Southern Gas Company, made the statement summing up two weeks of hearings on his company's application to increase its sales of Alberta gas to Pacific Gas and Electric Company of San Francisco by 50 per cent.

BID OPPOSED

The application was opposed by Westcoast Transmission Company of Vancouver which said it should have a bite of the California market. It claimed it now is locked into the Pacific northwest market and cannot move British Columbia gas economically to eastern Canada.

The board reserved judgment on the Alberta and Southern application, along with uncontested applications by TransCanada Pipe Lines Limited and Canadian Montana Pipeline Company to increase their flows of Alberta gas to U.S. markets in the Midwest and Montana.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner of B.C. supported the Westcoast intervention and Premier Manning of Alberta supported the Alberta and southern application.

Mr. Bonner said Wednesday night that in the interests of encouraging Canadian and particularly British Columbian natural gas production, the board should see that B.C. has an attractive export market. Mr. Manning said the board should not interfere with free market activity.

Pre-natal Sex Test Little Used

TORONTO (CP) — Doctors can determine the sex of an unborn infant quite accurately by sampling a fluid from the mother's uterus, Dr. A. William Liley of Auckland, New Zealand, said here Thursday.

Dr. Liley, who performed the first successful intra-uterine blood transfusion in an unborn baby, said doctors look for the presence of the sex chromatin (also known as the Barr body) in the unborn baby's amniotic fluid. The chromatin, he said, is found only in a female's cells.

But, said Dr. Liley:

Point Roberts Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman said Friday the National Park Service was reported not in favor of a proposal that Point Roberts be made an international park.

The spokesman said the area does not meet established criteria for national park system units.

move two more amendments next week, and the vote on the main motion to approve the throne speech is considered a test of confidence as well.

ATTACKS DEPARTMENT

Just before the votes, Max Saltsman (NDP — Waterloo South) criticized the lack of machinery in the labor department to gather reliable up-to-date information on the labor market.

Making his maiden speech, he outlined the NDP's ideas for improving the use of manpower and guarding workers against the dislocations caused by automation.

POLICY CAN'T WORK

No labor policy could work properly without clear information on impending changes in the labor market. Yet the national employment service which ought to be getting such information, had only one economist's position on its staff and this hadn't been filled for five of the last eight years because of the low salary.

Mr. Saltsman said the labor department's manpower program is badly in need of coordination. It was scattered among a variety of branches and agencies.

On automation, it was the role of government to cushion its damaging effects on workers.

dom" and left when Chinese planes appeared.

"In the confusion, one U.S. plane was hit by a guided missile fired by another and crashed in the area of Hainan," Peking said.

U.S. officials did not report any of their planes missing in action off Hainan, 130 miles east of North Viet Nam's coast, across the Gulf of Tonkin.

PHANTOM JETS

Four Phantom jet fighters, fastest in the U.S. Navy's arsenal, fought the Communist planes 35 miles from Hainan Island, site of a major Chinese MiG base, American officials said.

In Washington, the Pentagon said all its information indicated the U.S. Navy planes were not over the Chinese island.

LARGEST ARMADA

The raid on North Viet Nam brought out the largest air armada since the attacks began. The planes wrecked three bridges, officials said.

The navy and air force launched 220 planes laden with 245 tons of bombs and rockets for the 20th and most massive of the air strikes at North Viet Nam that started two months ago.

ONE PLANE LOST

U.S. authorities announced the loss of only one plane; a navy Skyhawk hit by enemy ground fire. Forced to bail out over the sea, the pilot was picked up by rescue craft a half-hour later.

By American accounting the Skyhawk was the 27th plane—U.S. and South Vietnamese—to be lost during the raids on North Viet Nam, reported designed to cut supplies of men and material to the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

PEKING CLAIM

Radio Peking declared, however, that eight planes were shot out of the day's raiding force. That boosted the total of Communist claims to 165.

Within the South Vietnamese political-military sphere, there was a familiar air of confusion in the wake of the latest power play.

Reliable sources said navy commander Admiral Chung Tan Cang, deposed in a mutiny Thursday by 20 junior officers that seemed to have the government's approval, had returned to power. The informants said three of the mutineers fled and the others told Cang they would obey his orders.

Assailant Still Sought

Saanich police said Friday they were still hunting the laughing man who tried to assault a 17-year-old girl Wednesday night.

The man attacked the girl on the grounds of Shelbourne School and laughed as she struggled with him. He made off when a car approached.

Indians Claim Border Victory

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian officials claimed at least 27 Pakistanis killed or wounded and four captured in fighting along the disputed border area of western India Friday. India's losses were put at two killed and three wounded.

Weight Gain While Pregnant Shouldn't Exceed 20 Pounds

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the proper amount of weight to gain in pregnancy?—MRS. J. C.

About 20 pounds is generally regarded as a good average. Less is preferred by some obstetricians. Staying within that amount means a healthier baby, usually an easier delivery, a more comfortable woman during the months of pregnancy, and a much easier job of getting one's figure back to normal afterward.

When a woman begins to pack on weight which will exceed 20 pounds by delivery time, she (usually (although not always)) is one who has been eating more than she needs, and already has a tendency to plumpness or obesity.

DECEIVES HERSELF

It's not always easy to persuade a woman to control her weight at such a time. She wants to eat, she isn't as active as she has been in the past, and she very frequently deceives herself (and tries to deceive others) with the argument that she is "eating for two."

She is, of course, eating for two. But there's a difference between that and overeating for two.

The developing baby naturally must have considerable nourishment — plenty of calcium, adequate protein as a building food, plus the various minerals and vitamins which, happily, are not difficult to provide. A normal, well-balanced diet, with perhaps a modest supplement of vitamins to be on the safe side, will do this.

DIFFICULT DELIVERY

The baby does not need to store up excessive fat. It should not, in fact, because a big baby often means a more difficult delivery. (A big baby—over nine pounds—also is a danger sign indicating that the mother has a pre-disposition toward diabetes.)

So if the expectant mother eats so much that she adds to her own natural weight besides the normal gain of pregnancy, she isn't doing herself or the baby any good. She is simply storing excess calories (virtually always from too much sugar, starch and fat in the diet) in the form of fat in her own body.

In short, the proper diet is one which provides the things the baby needs, but does not (except for a rather narrow margin) add anything to the mother's own body structure.

BABY'S NEEDS

When a woman is substantially overweight to begin with, it is possible (and preferable) for her to limit her gain to something less than 20 pounds. The difference is (or should be) that she eat foods that will provide for the baby's needs, at the same time using up some of her stored fat, which represents her overweight.

Excessive overweight in pregnancy also contributes to foot troubles, varicose veins, sagging of abdominal muscles and other things you'd rather avoid.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our son, 30, was hospitalized four weeks with nephritis. For two months since then he has been under heavy medication, including cortisone, and now has developed diabetes. Could you give us some information regarding this? — MRS. B.T.J.

Cortisone can bring out latent or potential diabetes. The diabetes trait was already present but had not yet become apparent. This is one of the possibilities which must be watched in cortisone therapy as well as in other conditions.

The nephritis itself may have contributed to making the diabetes become active, since any stressful condition or occurence can contribute to this—drugs, injury, infection, pregnancy, etc.—if the trait is already present.

Largest Barge Aground

VANCOUVER (CP) — The world's largest log barge struck a reef and grounded aft Friday in Quoukinah Inlet on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The 360-foot self-loading Straits Logger, owned by Straits Towing Ltd., was being towed empty by the tug Commodore Straits. It has a capacity of 10,000 tons of logs. Three big tugs were waiting for high tide to pull the barge free.

B.C. Director Views Expo 67:

National Prestige on Line

COURTENAY — "The prestige of Canada will be on the line" at Expo 67, the Montreal world's fair in centennial year.

So says T. J. McKinnon, B.C. regional director for the world exhibition.

In a speech Thursday to the Courtenay Kiwanis Club, and its guests from the Nanaimo club, he said:

"We will be hosts to the world and we must not fall short of our goal. We must show the world what Canada has to offer.

"Every Canadian has an investment in Expo 67."

Mr. McKinnon said the exhibition will run from April 28 to Oct. 27, 1967, on a 957-acre area.

The hundreds of millions of dollars which will enter Canada as a result of the affairs, he said, will make paper and wheat take a back seat as the things for which Canada is famous.

The theme will be Man and His World and the speaker disclosed the Russian presentation will be known as Man in Space.

Listeners were most impressed by Mr. McKinnon's casual mention of costs in the millions of dollars.

A $1,000,000 contract for a building already has been awarded to the Vancouver firm of Erikson and Massey.

The CBC will build a $10,000,000 radio and TV centre.

A 25,000-seat stadium to be used during the exhibition will be sold in sections after the closing date.

The province of Quebec will build a 1,066-foot-high building which will commemorate the founding of Montreal.

Mr. McKinnon is retired from the RCAF and also served with the RAF and RAAF. He was RCAF chief of public relations, executive assistant to the chief of air staff and commanding officer of the RCAF station at Sea Island.

It was steak and beans night at the dinner as Courtenay Kiwanis were served the beans, having lost a recent membership drive, while the Nanaimo group was served steak.

So sad and hungry were the local members that the cook took pity on them later and found a few extra steaks, which surprisingly enough turned out to be the exact number needed.

Hospital Choice

The provincial cabinet, in one of three orders issued Friday on Island matters, appointed Mrs. Gertrude Louise Hall of Nanaimo to the Nanaimo Regional General Hospital board of management.

She succeeds William Coats of Gabriola, who resigned.

Land Drained

$2,000 Brings Thanks

DUNCAN—Allocation of $2,000 from Cowichan Indian band's employment committee funds has helped drain an estimated 100 acres of land for raising beef cattle, a letter here said recently.

The letter from the band's farm committee thanked the employment program committee for the money which is hoped to be instrumental in helping six band members participate in a farming program on the reserve.

TWO FARMING

The only band members now farming are farm committee chairman Simon Charlie of the Quamichan area and Alphonse Billy of Koksilah.

The farm development program on the Cowichan Indian reserve was established about a year ago.

Other committee members besides the chairman are Chief Mike Underwood, Mr. Billy and band councillor Ross Modeste. Mr. Modeste, who lives in the Koksilah district, is a berry farmer.

Island Aids Farm Museum

Alex Hope of Langley, president and campaign chairman for the B.C. Farm Museum Association, said Friday gifts have come from more than 70 individual donors, nearly a dozen farm organizations and a number of corporations.

The campaign seeks $80,000 to build a one-storey museum this summer beside the Langley centennial museum. So far, gifts total almost $10,000.

A man rendered insane by illness killed himself with a pocket knife at Barkerville June 1, 1865. He was identified as John A. Fraser, son of Simon Fraser after whom the river was named.

Cowichan River

Helpers Due North To Clear Footpath

DUNCAN — Members of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association will help the Cowichan Fish and Game Association this weekend in its long-standing effort to clear a Cowichan River footpath.

Cowichan association president Arnie Williams, who said six miles of the path have been cleared to date, announced Friday the clearing crew will work downstream from the Mile 66 bridge to the Stoltze logging operation.

SPECTACULAR ROUTE

He said the association hopes to survey the path in the Riverbottom area about four miles southwest of here next week. When completed, the path will link Duncan and Lake Cowichan with a spectacular route along the river.

Mr. Williams also disclosed the B.C. Forest Service and the recreation and conservation department say they have no objection to leasing of a 10-acre tract of government land in the Glenora-Deerholme area about 3½ miles southwest of here.

The association wants to establish safe target facilities in the area, and Mr. Williams said a decision on the matter from the lands department should come within 90 days.

"So far, it looks pleasing," he said.

He said a safe target practice range would be especially suitable for the junior firearms training program the association hopes to establish.

As QORs Take Up Tasks

Birds Chirp, Guns Silent

By DON GAIN
Colonist Military Reporter

NICOSIA—The crow of a rooster has replaced the rattle of machine gun fire in Cyprus, as members of the Queen's Own Rifles from Victoria pursue the daily tasks of the United Nations Peace Force..

"It can't stay this quiet, but nobody really knows what will happen," say many observers of affairs in this sometime peaceful land.

Chirping of birds rather than the sound of civil war accompanies the work of more than 700 soldiers flown here from Victoria this week and last.

Charlie company, near Dikomo got ready to send supplies to outposts by helicopter, and to escort convoys between Nicosia and Kyrenia.

Battalion headquarters, located near the working companies, is co-ordinating the whole operation.

It has been tranquil here for many weeks. There is little sign of war to the observer. He sees the pale sun rise, splashing dull light over minarets, giving faint warmth to Greek Cypriot merchants unshuttering shops, and Turkish Cypriot shepherds in the lush green hills.

Flags of many countries fly in Cyprus, as United Nations troops work near President Makarios' two palaces and Vice-President Kuchuk's grand house.

One William Clarkson told the British Columbian that he had paid $100 for government land (2 acres) and $257 for raising a crop of 34,000 pounds of potatoes which he sold for $680, making a profit for the year of $323.

"Show me any country that can beat that, he wrote."

Tatler Quitting

LONDON (CP)—The Tatler, a 64-year-old society magazine, will cease publication in September and be replaced by a more modern-minded journal called London Life, The Evening Standard reports.

Windfall 'Surprised Us All'

TORONTO (CP) — A vice-president of a brokerage firm that helped finance Windfall Oils and Mines Limited said Friday he was surprised when Windfall shares more than doubled in price in one day last July.

Terrence O'Rourke, vice-president and head of sales for Moss, Lawson and Company Limited, said that when he heard from his staff Monday, July 6, that Windfall would open at about $1 on the Toronto Stock Exchange, he sold short and advised some of his clients to do the same.

The stock had closed the previous Friday at 56 cents and opened at $1.01 on the Monday.

"Everybody was surprised when the stock took off," Mr. O'Rourke told a royal commission investigating the rise of Windfall shares to $5.60 from 56 cents and its collapse to 80 cents between July 6 and July 31.

"I was a seller myself. I heard they had started drilling on the Thursday and knew there couldn't be any results that soon. I advised some of my clients to sell short."

A short-seller gambles that the price of a stock will decrease. He sells stock he does not own in the hopes he can buy it back later at a lower price and thus make a profit.

Mr. O'Rourke said he saw Viola MacMillan, Windfall's promoter and wife of company president George MacMillan, July 6 and she told him some Windfall core was out for assay and results were expected in the next day or two.

"She said the hole compared with type of rock pulled from Texas Gulf. She also said the Windfall core had some visible gold in it which encouraged George MacMillan."

The first Windfall assay was not released until July 30. There were no commercial values in it and the stock plunged to below the $1 mark.

A core pulled by Texas Gulf Sulphur Company near Timmins, Ont., was one of the richest ever taken in Canada and led to the discovery of a $2,000,000,000 copper-silver-zinc orebody.

Other breeds taking part in the show are Russian Blues, Burmese, Abyssinians, Manx (cat from the Isle of Man with no tail), Himalayans, domestic short hairs, Persians, Siamese seal points, blue points, chocolate points, frost points, lilac points and red points; and Rex, a new breed, grey with a velvet coat, long thin tail, mule-like ears and a charming disposition.

Sponsored by the Victoria Cat Club, an affiliate of the American Cat Fanciers Association, the show will be judged by Wayne Park of California, Mrs. Kathleen Penny of Burnaby, Mrs. Rosamund Flynn of California and Mrs. Peggy Churchill of Seattle.

Scoring will be according to the ACFA point system.

And smiled.

John Montrose, like many a Middlesex man, is normally cool and reserved.

But when he took his first sip of Canada's own Gold Keg Beer his face lit up and he said, "Very good indeed!"

Mr. Montrose is one of scores of Englishmen who are participating in Operation Gold Keg. (We're testing Gold Keg in the pubs of England, to see if it's as good as we think it is.)

Results have been astonishingly favourable.

meet our little 9½

it's the biggest mover we've got

Take a good look. This is the motor that's putting a new slant on fishing. The Evinrude 9½. When we introduced it last year, it caught on so well, demand exceeded our supply. It's that popular.

The Evinrude 9½ is loaded with big motor features; like full gear shift, fuel pump, thermostat-controlled cooling. There's a shock absorber prop. It's salt water corrosion resistant with a stainless steel drive shaft and sealed pivot bearings.

The lightweight Evinrude 9½ planes fishing boats along at a 20 mile an hour clip. Yet it trolls at a snail's pace. It's quiet. But then all Evinrudes are.

Storage problems? Forget them. The Evinrude 9½ leaves so much extra trunk space, you'll wonder how to fill it up. It's only 34 inches from top to skeg and it's easy to lift.

Here's the outboard that 'out-angles' the anglers. Sixteen tilt positions suit this fabulous little performer to any water conditions. The handle has two tilt-up positions for use when you want to troll standing up or when the motor is tilted.

You'll have to act fast to get a new Evinrude 9½. They really move. Ask your local Evinrude dealer.

All new Evinrudes use a 50-1 gas/oil mixture. It increases engine life, saves wear and expense.

Check your local dealer (in the Yellow Pages) about the 15 great Evinrude outboards for '65, 3 to 90 h.p. OMC stern drive power—90, 120, and 150 h.p.

Sleaver's Last-Period Goals Bring Totems Here Tonight

By GEORGE GIBSON
(Colonist Staff Writer)

SEATTLE—Victoria Maple Leafs refuse to be counted out in the Western Hockey League semi-final series with Seattle. They beat the Totems, 3-1, here last night to force a sixth game in Victoria's Memorial Arena tonight.

Seattle still holds the upper hand in the best-of-seven series, however, with a 3-2 edge but if Leafs can come up with a repeat of last night's game, it will be back to Seattle Sunday night with the winner to play Portland for the whole ball of wax.

Victoria scored early and late to sink Totems last night. They got the first and last goals and a big one that put them ahead, 2-1, in the first minute of the third period.

John Sleaver, Victoria's standout performer, got the two third-period goals to win it. His first came at 59 seconds on a clever play with linemate Gordie Redahl and tthe second at the 19-minute mark on a breakaway.

Tickets On Sale At 9 a.m.

Tickets for the sixth game of the Western Hockey League semi-final between Victoria Maple Leafs and Seattle Totems, scheduled here tonight, will go on sale at Memorial Arena at 9 this morning and continue right through to game time at 8:30.

Season - ticket subscribers will have until game time to claim their regular seats.

Most of the rest of the third period was spent fighting off the pressing Seattle club. Victoria's efforts were handicapped by the continuing spate of penalties and what looked like a serious injury to goalie Al Millar.

Millar came out to stop Gerry Brisson on a breakaway and after stealing the puck, twisted his back as he fell and lay sprawled on the ice as the puck, Brisson and Victoria defenceman Fred Hucul swept past him into the boards.

Millar, after quick medication, staggered to his feet and played the rest of the period despite a severe bruise and pulled muscle in his back He made two point-blank saves right after that on Ray Kinasewich and his gritty play seemed to inspire his mates.

Millar is expected to play tonight but if he is unable to play, the league's stand-by goalie, Jean Guy Morrisette, 25-year-old New York Rangers' farmhand, will play for Leafs.

QUICK START

Victoria scored first, on a power-play that was to be one of four in the first period that kept the Seattle defenders on edge.

PENALTY-KILLERS SHINE

Victoria had to contend with a manpower shortage before Seattle tied the score on a rising shot by Jean Marie Cossette at 15:30 of the second period.

At one stage, the Leafs were shorthanded for almost five minutes. But they survived only to have their opponents score after a brief stretch in which Victoria was short two players.

Claude Labrosse hooked Brisson and was sent off at 9:54. He returned to the ice when his time was up but Victoria was caught with too many men on the ice when Labrosse made a motion to head for the bench, then changed his mind.

ROLLIE FOOLED

Wilcox leaped over the boards and the linesman's quick head count resulted in another Victoria penalty at 12:10.

Just 12 seconds later, Leaf defenceman Bill Shvetz was caught slashing Guyle Fielder as Seattle roared over the blueline on a power play.

The Hucul brothers, Sleaver and Millar did a standout job holding off the Totems, who had one real chance, a sliding shot from Bob Sabourin that Millar easily smothered, in the minute and 48 seconds.

UNMARKED

But Millar couldn't stop Cossette, after he was left unmarked 12 feet from the goalmouth. Cossette made a quick, successful relay out of Larry Hale's pass-out from the corner.

Sleaver put Leafs ahead with the winner just 59 seconds after the third period started. He brought the puck up centre ice, passed over to Redahl, then tore in on left wing to convert the return pass.

Leafs struggled through three more penalties in the middle part of the period, Millar's injury, then had a manpower advantage themselves when Mo Mantha was penalized for tripping Larry Keenan.

BREATHE EASIER

Seattle still carried the play as Leafs tired but Shvetz got in front of Gord Sinclair's shot from the point and Sleaver trapped the bouncing puck. He, Lou Jankowski and Redahl all broke away in the clear and Sleaver kept the puck, pulled McLeod out and scored on an open cage.

They'll Remember Rudy As Immaculately Alert

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League probably will have convulsions but coaches in the Stanley Cup playoffs could stand up in full view of the crowd and television audience, give the choke - up sign to game officials and get away with it. There's a precedent.

HE WAS READY

It happened during the 1959 Montreal Canadiens - Chicago Black Hawks semi-final at the Chicago Stadium. And coach Rudy Pilous of the Hawks, who flashed what certainly appeared to be the sign to referee Red Storey, had a built-in alibi.

Why, shucks, said Rudy, "I was straightening my bow tie. That wasn't a choke-up signal."

He went on to explain "there's a rule in the NHL that says our coaches have to look immaculate behind the bench."

"So what's wrong with a guy fixing his tie?"

AND MAD, TOO

There's little doubt that Rudy, now coaching Victoria Maple Leafs of the Western League, was sizzling at the time. He thought Junior Langlois of the Canadiens should have been given a penalty for dumping Bobby Hull and he let everybody know it.

That was the famous game, won 5-4 by Canadiens, that put them into the final and prompted Campbell to say Storey "froze". The referee promptly resigned because "the league president didn't back me up."

Campbell could look at the films until he strained his eyes but, based on the Pilous exhibition, he'd have a tough time slapping a fine on a coach if the coach came up with the tie-straightening explanation.

Pilous got away with it and the case was closed when Campbell wrote a letter to Chicago owner Jim Norris.

Here's Pilous' version:

"Mr. Norris initialled it and passed it on to (general manager) Tommy Ivan. Tommy initialled it and passed it on to me." And then?

"Shucks, I initialled it, too," Rudy said.

None of the current coaches—Punch Imlach of the Leafs Toe Blake of Canadiens, Billy Reay of the Hawks and Sid Abel of Detroit Red Wings — wear bow ties. But this isn't necessary apparel to hide a choke-up sign.

Any old tie will do.

McNeill

McNeill in Romp As Most Valuable

Centre Billy McNeill couldn't lead Vancouver Canucks into the Western Hockey League final but there was no doubt in the minds of his playing rivals as to who was the most valuable player to his team this season.

In balloting which produced a surprise only in the margin of victory, McNeill outdistanced Portland's Pat Stapleton almost 2-1, gaining 242 points to 124 for the runner-up.

Guyle Fielder of Seattle and Charlie Burns of San Francisco pressed Stapleton for second place, with 119 and 110 points, respectively.

MILAN TOP LEAF

Then came goalkeeper Jim McLeod of Seattle with 72 points and centre Milan Marcetta of Victoria with 39.

Surprisingly well down in the voting were Art Jones and Andy Hebenton of Portland, with 35 and nine points, respectively, and goalkeeper Al Millar of Victoria, who received only 23 points.

Four other Victoria players received points. John Sleaver had five, Sandy Hucul four, Larry Keenan three and Lou Jankowski three.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus slammed out sub-par rounds in gusty winds Friday and forged into a tie with South Africa's Gary Player at 138 for the 36-hole lead in the Masters golf tournament.

Palmer, recapturing the putting and chipping touch that carried him to a record four Masters crowns, delighted his followers with a four-under-par 68.

The six-foot, 210-pound Nicklaus surged, fell back and spurted again for a 71 in the closing of a long, generally frustrating day.

STEADY ROUND

Palmer, the defending champion, and Nicklaus, the 4-1 favorite, were two of a small handful able to crack the par 72, 6,980 - yard monster that turned into a kitten on opening day.

Palmer alone was in the 60s and was one of four able to beat par. Australian Kel Nagle had a 70 for 145, Nicklaus and Bobby Nichols, each 71. Eight others equalled par.

FACE WIND

The big, broad course was swept with winds that hit gusts of 30 miles an hour, lightning fast greens and pins tucked into hazardous corners.

It was a vast contrast to Thursday's opening rounds in which a record 33 players in the original international field broke par and 44 were par or better.

Just one shot back at 139 was a tough tournament regular, Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., who fired a par 72. Another stroke away was Tony Lema, in fifth place at 140 after a 73.

Amateur Nick Weslock of Toronto had a 76 to total 156, amateur Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., a 79 for a 154 and professional Stan Leonard of Vancouver 84 for 155. All were cut off from the final stages.

"It was a different course today," said Palmer. "The wind was tricky and on some holes—the 15th, for instance—the wind was dead in your face. This made it a gamble to go for the green."

Palmer was a master with his putter and chipping iron, and Arnie's Army, cheering and stomping over the course, was never in a happier frame.

He sank an 18-foot putt on the first hole, chipped to within a foot at the second and pitched 40 feet into the cup at the third.

After three-putting the fifth, he played even pars to the 13th. On three of the back nine holes he chipped to within less than a foot—twice six inches—after missing the green and he sank a six-footer for his bird at the 15th.

BIG START

Nicklaus looked as if he intended to take the course apart and run away with the lead when he turned in 34, two under par.

But he ran into a streak of bad luck, starting at the 11th, before he braked his fall and finished with back-to-back birdies at the 15th and 16th.

At the 11th, Nicklaus hit his second into the tall grass wide of the green and chipped poorly, taking a five. A bad chip, 20 feet short, cost him another stroke at the 12th and at the long 13th he took a six when he chipped 12 feet short and missed the putt.

Jack birdied the 15th after reaching the green with a booming drive and an iron shot and leaving an eagle 15-foot putt on the lip of the cup. On the 16th, he put his tee shot 3½ feet from the cup.

The field was reduced to the low 44 and ties for the final two rounds but any player within 10 shots of the lead was allowed to continue.

All players with scores of 148 or better qualified. Forty-nine made it.

Old-Feller Snead Steams Off Angry

AUGUSTA (UPI) — Sammy Snead's jaw muscles contracted into a thin hard line and anyone who couldn't see he was angry simply wasn't looking.

"I feel like burning my clubs," steamed the 52-year-old West Virginian, who only last Sunday had scoffed that "these young fellers aren't ready" after winning the Greensboro Open.

NOT THAT MAD

Since Snead has never been reckless with a buck, he immediately thought better of his rash idea and ordered his caddy to bring them out to the trunk of his car.

Less than 20 minutes previously, Snead had missed an uphill 12-foot putt on the 18th green by six inches and that meant he would not be among those who will tee off for the final two rounds of the masters today and tomorrow.

"Disappointed?" he said. "You bet I am. Who wouldn't be? I should have made it easy but my driving killed me the first day and my putting finished the job the second day."

What hurt most was the fact he missed the cut by only one stroke. It took a 36-hole total of 148 to qualify and Snead, who won the masters in 1949, 1952 and 1954, came in with 149 after his opening round 75 and his 74 yesterday.

Snead was so angry with himself and disgusted clear through that he didn't even want to talk any more about golf.

Leafs Just Knew

Toronto Got the Word

Toronto Maple Leafs had a "premonition they would eventually win" Thursday's National Hockey League Stanley Cup semi-final playoff game against Montreal Canadiens, coach Punch Imlach said Friday.

"I didn't hammer anything specific at them between the second and third periods," he said. "But what else could you expect? They'd thrown everything at Johnny Bower and couldn't score."

Imlach paid credit "to the guys who came off the bench in the third period" — rookie-centre Pete Stemkowski and veterans Dickie Moore and Ron Stewart.

"Nothing can stop us now," said the Toronto coach, who had predicted that his club would win it if they could get to 2-2 on Toronto ice in the third and fourth games.

Tonight's Stanley Cup game from Montreal may be seen on Channels 2 and 6, starting at 5:00 p.m., according to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Over their bitter disappointment at losing a game they should have won on Thursday night, Canadiens were bouyed up by the fact that they have the home-ice edge in what has become a best-of-three series.

Coach Toe Blake was still moaning a bit about "some stupid penalties" but admitted that what made the difference was Canadiens' inability to cash in on their scoring chances in the second period, "when we should have had five or six goals."

With Charlie Hodge still "too weak" to risk, Canadiens will again put Gump Worsley in goal and have called up Red Berenson from Quebec Aces. The speedy forward will be used for spot duty, Blake said.

Chicago Balck Hawks and Detroit Red Wings, also tied 2-2 in their semifinal, resume hostilities tomorrow night in Detroit.

Island Ski Honors At Stake Tomorrow

Vancouver Island ski championships will be held at Green Mountain tomorrow, with slalom races starting at 11 a.m. and downhill races at 1 p.m.

Friday it was reported there is four inches of new snow on a 76-in. base and snow conditions are good. Two tows are running and the road is clear to the parking lot, with a snowmobile running to the lodge.

Green Mountain Sno-Birds Ski Club will donate $250 to the Canadian national ski team, to help defray expenses incurred by each member of the team over the past year.

Money will be raised the next two weekends from tow and cabin receipts on Green Mountain. There will also be a collection box for private donations at the lodge.

Under-Cover Homer 'First' for Mantle

HOUSTON—President Lyndon Johnson was among the 47,876 fans on hand last night as Houston opened its domed stadium and the Astros made it a complete success by defeating New York Yankees, 2-1, when Nellie Fox singled in the 12th inning.

Mel Stottlemyre and Dick Farrell dueled for eight innings, each giving up a run in the sixth inning and Hal Woodeschick took it from there for the Astros.

But, naturally, the top honors of the evening were taken by Mickey Mantle, who became the first player to hit a home run under complete cover. (See story on Page 15.)

Courtenay

Assault Brings Term In Jail

COURTENAY — A three-month jail sentence and an 18-month peace bond were ordered in magistrate's court Friday for Dennis Harry Wynne of Courtenay after Magistrate John Ryland convicted him of "a savage, brutal act."

In another case, a 16-year-old Brannan Lake boys school fugitive was told by the magistrate, "I sincerely hope you redeem yourself . . . you cannot go on stealing forever."

NOT GUILTY PLEA

Wynne had pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault causing bodily harm against Michael David Walsh, an airman at RCAF Station Comox, near the Waikiki Cafe in Comox Feb. 19.

Walsh told the court he heard Wynne and some friends swear at some girls and said, "Come here and say that."

KICKED HIM

Prosecution witness Joseph G. E. A. Bolduc said someone left a car and hit Walsh in the face. He said that, while Walsh was on the ground, Wynne came over and kicked him.

Walsh said he woke up in hospital with a bloody nose, a cut lip and loosened front teeth.

FOLLOWED BY RCMP

An off-duty RCMP constable who was in the area said he saw Wynne leave. Later an RCMP corporal followed Wynne on the Dyke Road.

When he stopped Wynne to question him, he said, the youth swore, and shouted and denied the assault.

RAN AWAY

Defence witness Terrance William Jossul, testifying under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act, said he hit Walsh and then "got scared" and ran away. He said he did not see anyone kick Walsh.

Jossul admitted previous convictions for resisting arrest and breaking and entering.

BELIEVABLE

Magistrate Ryland said he found Bolduc "completely believable" but the evidence of Jossul "was not very reliable."

William Lesley Johnson, 16, the Brannan fugitive, appeared in court only hours after his recapture. He was raised to adult court from juvenile court and pleaded guilty to eight counts of forgery.

The counts involved eight cheques cashed between Feb. 10 and March 18 for a total of $256. Johnson, who had six previous convictions for breaking and entering and theft, was sentenced to nine months definite and 18 months indeterminate at the Oakalla young offenders' unit.

Driver in Critical Condition

Small Car, E&N Dayliner Crash At Crossing Near Chemainus

A young Crofton paper worker escaped death Friday afternoon when his car and the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Dayliner train smacked together at a level crossing on the south edge of Chemainus.

Bently Medd, about 25, of Willow Street in Chemainus, was in critical condition last night in Victoria's St. Joseph's Hospital with possible spinal injuries.

E & N assistant superintendent J. B. Law of Nanaimo said no one aboard the train was hurt.

ALONE IN CAR

Reports from police and other sources said Mr. Medd was alone in his car and driving home from work when he reached the crossing on the Old Island Highway near Crozier Road. The crossing has no safety device.

The highway crosses the track at a slight angle facing trains coming from the north. The accident occurred at 4 p.m. as the Dayliner headed for Victoria.

THROWN 30 FEET

Mr. Medd's Volkswagen, barely on the tracks, was struck on the left front. The driver was thrown out 30 feet along the track, the car came loose from the train another 30 feet along and the Dayliner stopped in another 240 feet.

The car was a total wreck. The Dayliner received little damage.

Douglas Gregson of Nanaimo was the Dayliner engineer and John Stone of 1070 Moss in Victoria the conductor. The number of passengers was not known.

The train was delayed about 30 minutes at Chemainus, said Mr. Law, who will inspect the crossing today.

Island Snow Pack Light Spring Floods Unlikely

Provincial government snow watchers report a warm March has practically ruled out all threat of flooding in B.C. this spring

Unusually light March precipitation has had what the report termed "a pronounced effect" on the Vancouver Island snowpack. The only heavy snow pack remains on low-level Jordan Meadows.

Tractor trailer weighs 30 to 35 tons empty and hauls 70 to 80 tons or roughly 20,000 board feet of logs—almost twice as much as older units, and faster. Division has five such units and two more are on order.

Duncan Pay Problem Settled

Six Bus Drivers Back on the Job

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — Six Cowichan school district bus drivers who failed to show up for work Thursday were back on the job Friday and all students arrived at their classes on time.

The six drivers—the school district has 11 in all—and eight maintenance men reported sick and unable to work Wednesday night and Thursday. Most of the maintenance men also returned Friday.

The trouble resulted from delayed payment of retroactive pay to 50 members of the district school board's maintenance staff who belong to the IWA's Local 1-80.

CHILDREN LATE

More than 100 school children were late for classes Thursday because of the dispute.

The old contract ran out Dec. 31 and the IWA signed a new one, providing a five per cent pay increase, Jan. 21. But the board turned it back for further negotiations which ended March 15.

The board ratified the contract Monday and chairman Joseph Frumento signed it Wednesday.

UNION STAND

IWA local officials, who stressed the union had no part in the one-day absence, said the men should have received the retroactive pay after the IWA signed the contract in January.

Board officials said the union members should have worked under the terms of the old agreement until the new one was signed. They called the absence "unwarranted, irresponsible, extremely unfair and inconsiderate."

Business agent Del Pratt said the workers' action had not been "unreasonable" and told the board "it is not us you have to please but the men."

Secretary-treasurer Edwin Linder of the IWA conceded relations with the school board had been "splendid" in the past.

While the men returned to work Friday, there was no report on the exact date they would receive the back pay.

Council Hopes To Hold Line For Mill Rate

PARKSVILLE—Village council members expressed hopes Thursday night that they will be able to hold the line at 15 mills on the tax rate for general purposes.

The hope was voiced at a special meeting called to consider an estimated $110,000 budget this year for general purposes. School, hospital and waterworks improvement costs will be learned later.

MILL RATE

Councillors indicated the mill rate may be set during the first meeting in May.

Public works plans for this year include paving on Lee, Ford and Hickey streets and part of Craig Street, along with some paving in the community park.

Council added $200 to its $1,000 grant to the district Chamber of Commerce in view of improvement projects and plans for a boat launching ramp.

Today: Plowing Match and Hospital, Sewer Votes

DUNCAN — Three important votes and the annual Cowichan plowing match will make today a busy day in the Cowichan area.

Ratepayers in Duncan and North Cowichan will vote on their communities' share of the $800,000 extra cost for the Cowichan district hospital. The shares are $70,140 for the city and $192,960 for the municipality.

Polling station in Duncan will be the city hall and voting centres in North Cowichan will be the municipal hall and Somenos, Maple Bay and Crofton schools.

The other two districts involved in the hospital cost issue, Koksilah and Cowichan Lake, have already decided to increase hospital mill rates to provide their shares.

A total of 86 North Cowichan voters will also cast ballots on a $57,000 sewerage referendum for the Quamichan Heights subdivision. The polling station will be the North Cowichan municipal hall in Duncan.

The popular plowing match, which has 19 separate events, will be held on the Riverside farm at Cowichan Bay starting at 9:30 a.m.

Union Affiliates

Parksville Over Top For Publicity Fund

PARKSVILLE—The Parksville and District Chamber of Commerce went over the top by somewhere between $200 and $500 Thursday in its three-hour blitz for funds to publish tourist publicity and operate the tourist bureau.

The objective was $2,500 and officials said Friday just over $2,800 was received in the noon to 3 p.m. blitz.

They added they expect the $3,000 mark will be reached when all receipts are in.

A $1,000 grant from the village of Parksville, announced by village council chairman John Robertson, put the campaign over the goal. Andrew Pearson was campaign chairman.

Mill Official Says:

Crofton Smoke Not a Hazard

CROFTON—Complete control of the malodorous smoke from the Crofton pulp mill is very difficult but the smoke is not a health hazard, B.C. Forest Products official Jack Gallagher said Friday.

He said a letter from the Crofton Ratepayers Association asking for "elimination of this nuisance" has not yet been received by the company.

The association said at its annual meeting Wednesday there has been "a considerable increase" in air and water pollution and decided to send the letter, with copies going to adjoining ratepayers' groups, North Cowichan council and MLA Robert Strachan.

Mr. Gallagher said latest B.C. Research Council findings have been used at the mill and additional oxidation towers have just been installed.

CHEMICAL DISCHARGE

Of claims about alleged harmful discharge of chemicals into the sea, he said the company has to obey federal fisheries regulations and no complaint has been received "to my knowledge."

The ratepayers said Crofton beach soon will be unfit for swimming because of chemical effluents.

It Could Happen Here—Turner

NANAIMO—Dr. David Turner, provincial deputy minister of recreation and conservation, has advocated the creation of recreational districts in B.C. before the price of waterfront property rises out of proportion.

He told a luncheon meeting of Nanaimo Rotary Club Friday, waterfront property is selling for $200 an inch in some parts of California and predicted this trend will make itself known in B.C. if something is not done to stop it.

Dr. Turner said Nanaimo is at the centre of a prime recreational district which stretches from the Malahat to Port Alberni and urged the City to take advantage of new regional parks legislation.

He mentioned a $34,000,000 jump in tourist revenue in 1964 and said Nanaimo is in a natural location for tourism.

He said most tourists come to B.C. from Southern California and Alberta with the city of Calgary contributing the most per capita.

DUNCAN—Lloyd R. Gale of Duncan has been fined a total of $280 in magistrate's court for careless driving and driving while under suspension. Fines of $50 each for being minors in possession of liquor were imposed on Duncan residents Geoffrey A. Clibett, Gordon Farrell and Gordon Pastula.

Tests Survived

Absent Tories Help Grits

OTTAWA (CP) — The minority Pearson government, aided by 41 absent opposition members, survived its second and third confidence tests of the new parliamentary session Friday.

Opposition absenteeism was high and the government, with support from former Conservatives Leon Balcer and Remi Paul, now sitting as independents, defeated the motion 106 to 93. It had been moved by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

MOTION REJECTED

A Social Credit non-confidence motion was rejected earlier on a voice vote when that party failed to produce the required five members to stand and force a formal roll call.

Closest test the government has faced since taking office was on Feb. 25, 1964, when an amendment to the throne speech expressing no confidence was defeated 128 to 120.

DRAMA LACKING

The afternoon votes lacked the drama and tension of many in the past and the only brief color was provided when all MPs applauded Liberal Leonard (Red) Kelly when he stood to vote. His two goals Thursday night helped the Toronto Maple Leafs tie their semi-final Stanley Cup series against Montreal with a 4-2 victory.

CONDEMN GOVERNMENT

The Social Credit amendment called for the use of debt-free money from the Bank of Canada for social capital. The Conservative amendment condemned the government for failing to take action to alter the administration in the light of the recent scandal allegations.

The Conservative motion was endorsed by 86 Conservatives, 21 Creditistes, 10 New Democrats and six Social Credit MPs.

STANDING

Standing in the 265-member House: Liberals 129, Conservatives 13, Social Credit nine, independents two.

Before the eight-day throne speech debate ends next Thursday, there are opportunities for three more confidence tests.

North Viet Nam Protests New Raids

LBJ Plan 'Deceitful Allegation'

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam Friday described as a "deceitful peace allegation" U.S. President Johnson's Baltimore speech calling for discussions to bring peace.

The first comment from Hanoi specifically directed at Johnson's speech was contained in a North Vietnamese protest sent to the International Control Commission over U.S. air raids Friday on Nghe An province and Hon Mat Island. Members of the commission are Canada, India and Poland.

The protest, signed by Col. Ha Van Lau, head of the liaison mission of the North Vietnamese army high command, said:

"This blatant aggressive act of the U.S. imperialists has fully exposed the deceitful peace allegation made by Lyndon Johnson in his speech on April 7. It proves that the U.S. imperialists are still stubbornly pursuing their policy of aggression and war provocation in Viet Nam."

Excerpts of the protest message were broadcast by Hanoi radio and monitored in Tokyo.

A government organ in Hanoi said Friday that the fighting in Viet Nam "will end only when the U.S. aggressors quit our country."

HAS RED CHINA JOINED FIGHT?

The marines poured ashore amid the spectre of possible direct Chinese involvement in the war. For the first time since the U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam began last month, Peking announced its jets had battled American planes.

U.S. Navy jet fighters fought MiGs off China's Hainan Island, site of key military installations, while more than 200 American planes pummelled North Viet Nam anew Friday.

A Peking broadcast said the MiGs were Chinese. U.S. officials said they did not know whether the MiGs were North Vietnamese or Chinese. One MiG was reported to have vanished in flames.

NEAR FIGHTING

The marine battalion landed two miles north of Da Nang, while South Vietnamese troops exchanged fire with Communist guerrillas three miles away.

The Viet Cong made no effort to interfere with the landing.

OTHERS ON GUARD

The marines will join some 3,000 other marines guarding the strategic Da Nang, jumping-off point for some of the raids on North Viet Nam.

The marines are being joined by a squadron of Phantom jet fighters.

TANKS, HOWITZERS

A total of 3,000 marines will be landed within the next two or three days. Their equipment includes tanks, 105-mm. howitzers and other armament.

The additional troops push total U.S. manpower in South Viet Nam to more than 30,000.

MORTAR BARRAGE

The Viet Cong launched a mortar barrage against the provincial capital of Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, just a few hours before the marines landed.

Three South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and 10 wounded in the attack. The Viet Cong also scored a hit on a U.S. radio communications centre, but no U.S. casualties were reported.

GUERRILLAS KILLED

In Viet Nam's Central Highlands, where a Viet Cong offensive has been expected, government forces killed 30 guerrillas.

Peking's account of the aerial fight charged that American planes flew over Hainan, fired two guided missiles "at ran-

Red Tanks Rumble Over Lifeline

Russian Roadblocks On Again, Off Again

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists shut down the autobahn linking West Berlin with West Germany for three hours early Friday night while Soviet tanks and East German personnel carriers rumbled over the city's lifeline to the West.

Armed East German Army officers abruptly lowered steel barriers at both ends of the 110-mile highway at dusk, causing long queues of civilian traffic.

Then, just as quickly, they lifted the roadblocks in mid-evening.

No U.S. or British military vehicles were about to enter the autobahn or were travelling on it at the time, western officials reported.

The Communists had warned they would shut down the autobahn occasionally until joint Soviet-East German military manoeuvres end Sunday. The highway is the land link with West Berlin.

When the Communist border guards did not close the highway in the morning for the first time since the intermittent blockades began Monday, Western officials hoped the harassments were ending. They were also relieved that Soviet jet planes refrained from buzzing in the three Western air corridors to West Berlin for the first time since Wednesday.

That was the day the West German Bundestag (lower house of parliament) met in West Berlin despite Communist protests.

The Soviet Union told the Western allies that restrictions on the central and southern air corridors to West Berlin would be lifted midnight Friday. Restrictions on the northern corridor were called off Thursday, a U.S. spokesman said.

Talks Broken Off

Vancouver Papers, Union Deadlocked

VANCOUVER (CP)—Negotiations broke off Friday night between typographical employees and Pacific Press Ltd., which prints the Sun and Province daily newspapers.

Leonard Guy, president of the Vancouver local of the International Typographical Union, said:

"We have no intention of going to the company at this stage. It (the company) gave us a firm position and one which we find unacceptable."

The union is in a position to strike on 48 hours' notice, following a vote Tuesday 208-39 in favor of strike action to back up demands.

Mr. Guy had said after the vote that the prime issue was automation.

The introduction of computers has been settled but guarantees against some related changes have been unsatisfactory to the union.

The union has asked for measures ensuring job opportunities in future, such as shorter hours, longer vacations or increased sick leave.

Kanester

Appeal Court Order:

Convicted Rapist To Get New Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Appeal Court judges ordered Friday that a new trial be granted Larry Kenneth Kanester of Victoria, sentenced to 20 years for two rape convictions last year.

The Appeal Court ruled that the trial judge had not put the defence case to the jury and had wrongly told the jury certain matters might have been corroboration and failed to define corroboration to the jury.

A further appeal against Kanester's sentence for escaping from Essondale in September was adjourned.

In outlining the appeal to the court on Thursday, Kanester's lawyer D. E. Greenfield said Kanester's trial was prejudiced because the two counts were tried together.

VICTORIA AREA

The charges involved incidents in the Victoria area on Jan. 8 and Jan. 20 of 1964.

Kanester was sentenced to 10 years on each charge, and was being held at Essondale when he escaped last September.

He was the object of a manhunt as far east as Winnipeg until he surrendered to police after 57 days of freedom.

Swim, Raft, Walk, Row

He Went for Help The Hard Way

PORT SIMPSON, B.C. (CP)—Fisherman Charlie Sankey is "a real outdoorsman"—and that saved his life after the fishing boat Topaz struck a log and sank Tuesday night.

The body of one of his companions, Patrick Green, 64, was found Friday floating in a life jacket near the scene, 30 miles northeast of here in Portland Inlet, which separates the Alaska Panhandle from British Columbia.

After the sinking, Sankey, about 32, swam about a mile to Truro Island and built a raft. He drifted six miles to Somerville Island and walked 11 miles across the island until he found a boat. Then he rowed 14 miles across open sea to finally reach this Indian village 15 miles north of Prince Rupert Thursday night.

Immediately he put out to sea with villagers and RCMP to search for his companions. The search was continuing today.

The boat sank when the men were returning to their Nass River fishing camp, where Ryan's father was waiting.

Mignonette was discovered as a weed in Egypt by Napoleon — and from that humble beginning spread to wide popularity back in France and in England.

Perhaps descended from those same plants are the seeds which will be available to Colonist readers—who are asked to send along a stamped self-addressed envelope with the free seed request which will appear in the Colonist beginning Sunday.

Tshombe In Control

Seven Others Aboard

Sailed March 16 for Bering

Victoria Man on Missing Boat

He is William Joseph Henry, 30. His mother is Mrs. Isabell Henry, 1206 Fairfield Road.

The 67-foot vessel was reported missing Thursday after an inflatable life raft bearing the number 363 was found floating with other debris about 45 miles south of Unalaska Island in the Aleutian chain.

A massive air and sea search in the Bering Sea is due to continue today.

The RCAF said missing included the vessel's owner, J. McLaire, 50, of Vancouver, and the skipper, Matt Sherman, about 55, of Vancouver.

Other crewmen were identified by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union as Carl Ostergard, 37; William McCulloch, 25; August Seselja and Ragnvold Soreng, 66, all of Vancouver, Ken McAlpin, 51, of Jordan Bay, N.S.

The search began Friday when the department of transport inspection branch in Vancouver identified the liferaft as being from the Sea Ranger, the only vessel in the area not accounted for.

Officials of the United States Coast Guard in Juneau, Alaska, immediately ordered six aircraft and about a dozen surface vessels to search for Sea Ranger.

Homer Stevens, secretary of the union, said the Sea Ranger was due to be starting the eight-day trip back to Vancouver.

Mr. Stevens said there was little chance the Sea Ranger was en route to Vancouver unaware of the search.
